Wilson Faces More Unrest

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson faced mounting demands today from some members of his ruling Labor party to modify his unqualified support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The demands were made at a meeting of the party's foreign affairs group. Though private, it was clear from leaks that disquiet over American retaliation policies has spread beyond the party's extreme left wing.

Political sources said the extreme view was put by Konni Zilliacus, who demanded that Britain pull out of the Western alliance unless American bombing of North Viet Nam is stopped.

A more moderate viewpoint expressed by Michael Foot apparently found majority support. He urged that while expressing general support for American aims in Viet Nam, Wilson should make clear this support has limits and should assert a right to consultation.

DISLIKES GAS, NAPALM

He demanded also that the government should dissociate itself from the use of gas and napalm, and urgently appeal to the United States not to consider the bombing of its embassy in Saigon as justification for more ruthless action.

Another speech apparently reflecting a majority view came from William Molloy, representative of London's Ealing district. He suggested that a UN force be prepared to go into Viet Nam, with a British contingent if necessary.

Britain so far has limited its involvement in Viet Nam to a small force of jungle warfare experts who are advisors to the South Vietnamese forces.

Viet Nam is certain to be the main issue in a foreign affairs debate in Commons Thursday. Wilson is expected to stress that he is doing all possible to bring about peace negotiations but that any public move will have to await the return of his special representative, Patrick Gordon Walker, from Asia.

Gordon Walker hopes to visit Peking and Hanoi. It is not yet known whether the Communist regimes there will receive him.

Hanoi Raid As Revenge Unlikely Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Informed sources discounted today any immediate U.S. attack on Hanoi, the capital of North Viet Nam, after the U.S. Embassy in Saigon was heavily damaged by terrorists.

Officials said a statement by President Johnson, denouncing the attack on the embassy, indicated no special retaliatory action was being planned.

In his statement, issued late Tuesday 18 hours after the embassy attack, Johnson said he would ask Congress for authority and funds to build a new U.S. Embassy in the South Vietnamese capital.

The request may go to Congress today. There is no reason to doubt that Congress will comply with his request.

"The terrorist outrage aimed at the American Embassy in Saigon shows us once again what the struggle in Viet Nam is about," Johnson's statement said.

"This wanton act of ruthlessness has brought death and serious injury to innocent Vietnamese citizens in the street as well as to American and Vietnamese personnel on duty."

Tempo Of War Steps Up

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States struck against Viet Cong guerrillas today with a new, awesome tactic of warfare — a "firestorm" that roared through a Communist-infested forest. At the same time U.S. and South Vietnamese planes mounted a massive 100-plane attack against the north.

In the suddenly stepped-up tempo of the war the Communist Viet Cong shot down three U.S. helicopters near Da Nang, killing two American marine officers and wounding 16 army men and marines.

One Vietnamese Skyraider fighter-bomber was shot down but there was no report on the pilot. The Communists claimed 14 planes were shot down.

SOFTENED SITES

Air force jets softened up the four radar sites and then jet and propeller-powered fighter-bombers followed with tons of bombs.

The spokesmen said the sites were near Vinh, north of the 17th parallel which divides North and South Viet Nam.

It was the 25th American air raid against North Viet Nam since the latest series of U.S. attacks began in earnest in February.

Maj.-Gen. Joseph Moore, U.S. air force commander for South Viet Nam, disclosed today a new type strike had been made against guerrillas operating northeast of Saigon—the use of fire bombs in Boi Loi forest to touch off an immense "fire storm" to drive the Viet Cong into the open.

Moore said the stage was set for the forest fire by the largest defoliation program ever undertaken in Viet Nam. Air force planes used chemicals to kill all shrubbery in the forest so it would burn better when the fire raid came today.

Earthquake Causes Panic

ATHENS (AP) — Two strong earthquakes created wide-spread panic in Athens today, killing one person and injuring another in the central Greek tobacco centre of Agrinion.

National police said the violent tremor at Agrinion destroyed 150 houses and damaged 1,000 others. Thousands fled to open squares or the countryside and feared to return to their homes.

Greek army units were sent to the scene with tents and blankets to set up camps for the homeless.

In Athens, the earthquake sent thousands of residents fleeing outdoors. Upper floors of downtown buildings swayed and rocked. The earthquake's epicentre was near Agrinion, 155 miles northwest of Athens.

LONG SESSION

Opt Out Plan Passes House As End Near

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's opting-out legislation was whipped through the Commons Thursday night as the push continued to end the marathon session and pave the way for a new throne speech and an Easter recess.

For the second successive day eight members agreed to sit well past the usual 10 p.m. adjournment hour and put finishing touches on priority government legislation.

The Canada Pension Plan was passed Monday night and now the Senate has the heavy workload of dealing with it and the opting-out bill before the parliamentary session can be prorogued.

The Commons turned today to an interim supply bill to enable the government to pay day-to-day expenses. Length of this debate is determined by the opposition which can speak on almost any subject it wants—from foreign affairs to justice and so on through all departments.

Final supplementary estimates for 1964-65 is the only other item facing the Commons.

WILL DELAY BUDGET

Prime Minister Pearson said Tuesday—on the 245 day of this record-length session — that a new session will be started immediately after prorogation and a throne speech presented. But he said the budget will be delayed until after the Easter recess.

The pension plan, lengthiest and most complicated bill of the session, is expected to be referred to the Senate banking committee today. There was no indication how long it would remain there.

The prime minister has said the session will not be prorogued until the plan is through both houses.

The opting-out bill, to permit provinces to quit some 17 well-established shared-cost programs, came under heavy opposition fire but late in the night sitting the talk stopped and the voting began.

In about 80 minutes the bill was given second, and then third or final reading, and two amendments were rejected.

A Conservative amendment to shelve the bill pending a federal-provincial conference to discuss provincial development priorities was defeated in a formal vote 109 to 69.

During clause-by-clause study, H. A. Olson (SC—Medicine Hat) moved an amendment to free the provinces from an obligation to continue the programs intact until the original federal-provincial agreements expire several years from now.

'IT'S A FARCE'

He said the requirement made the legislation a "farce" because the provinces would not gain a cent from the tax abatements or cash payments following any opting out.

Finance Minister Gordon explained that the bill was an interim measure until a federal-provincial tax structure committee reports next year and

TAX CUTS SEEN IN NEW BUDGET

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Finance Minister Walter Gordon is expected to bring down a tax-cutting sunshine budget on April 27, if the government's plans go according to schedule.

Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Tuesday that a new session will be called as soon as possible, but the budget would not be brought down before the Easter recess.

Government House leader George McIlraith hopes that the House will rise for the Easter recess on April 14. The date for resuming its sittings after Easter has been tentatively set for April 26, a Monday.

Spanish Airliner Crash Kills 50

FAMED British soccer star Sir Stanley Matthews, 50, officially ended his career as a professional player today. His contract with Stoke City was cancelled by mutual consent, but he will continue to play in exhibition games.

TANGIER, Morocco (UPI)—A Spanish airliner flying tourists to a vacation in Morocco encountered heavy fog while making a landing approach today and crashed into the sea, killing 50 persons, one of them an American.

Two women and a man survived the crash off the North African coast. They were plucked from the water by a fishing boat and rushed to El Kourtoubi hospital in Tangier where they were treated for minor injuries and shock.

Iberian Airlines said the American aboard was Virginia Colman.

The plane was carrying 30 Danes, 11 Swedes, three Britons, two Germans, an American, a Dutchman and a crew of five Spaniards.

FOUR MISSING

Fishing vessels picked up 46 bodies and continued the search for four missing persons who were presumed dead.

The plane was a twin-engine Convair of the Iberian Airlines.

Pension Level Based On Average Earnings

(Third of four articles)

Under the Canada Pension Plan, pensions will be related to earnings.

According to information supplied by local actuaries, the pensions will be based on 25 per cent of earnings after a 10-year transitional period.

During the 10-year period, the percentage grades up to 25 per cent in equal steps of one-tenth per year. For example, for someone retiring in 1970, after the plan has been in effect for four years, the percentage will be 10 per cent—that is (4x1/10x25%). The following table illustrates percentages of earnings at given times:

Year	Percentage
1967	2½
1968	5
1969	7½
1970	10
1971	12½
1972	15
1973	17½
1974	20
1975	22½
1976 and later	25

Earnings in excess of contributory maximum do not count for Canada Pension Plan purposes. Initially, this maximum will be $5,000 per year.

A different transitional period applies to retirement age. The earliest retirements will take place in 1967, at age 68, 69, or 70. In 1968, it will be possible to retire at age 67, in 1969 at 66 and, from 1970 on, at age 65.

The pension benefit will be based on a person's average earnings from the effective date of the plan—Jan. 1, 1965—to the time when he starts to draw pension benefits.

Earnings will be adjusted in line with changes in the general level of salaries and wages. Years of low earnings, up to 15 per cent of the contributory period, may be excluded in calculating average earnings. Once pensions begin, they will be adjusted in accordance with upward movements in the consumer price index.

Assuming the $5,000 maximum is not changed, monthly pensions available would be as follows:

Pension Payable Beginning
Average Monthly Earnings	In 1971	In 1976 or later
$100	$12.50	$ 25.00
200	25.00	50.00
300	37.50	75.00
400	50.00	100.00
417 or over	52.08	104.17

Old age security benefits will be paid in addition to the amounts above.

Retirement benefits payable before age 70 are subject to a retirement test, which provides for a reduction in pensions.

During this period, pensions will be reduced by one dollar for every two dollars earned in excess of $900 but not in excess of $1,500 per year, and are reduced dollar for dollar by earnings in excess of $1,500 yearly.

Thus, a person otherwise entitled to the maximum annual pension of $1,250, but earning $2,450 or more, will receive no pension until he reaches age 70. This test does not apply to any benefit payable under old age security.

Free-Look-At-Tilikum Petition Supported

Tilikum's outspoken defender, G. R. "Rebel" Mowat, reports 100 people signed his petition Tuesday as soon as he drew it up.

He is petitioning City Council to maintain the 105-year-old dugout as a free public attraction.

He hopes to send his petition to council Monday.

He is petitioning City Coun[illegible] "This is a serious concern," he said. "Charging an admission to see Tilikum is a violation of a trust.

"And even if it were not, it is a sorry thing to see our finest attractions placed out of the easy view of the public and to require visitors to our city to pay a fee to see them.

"Soon they'll ask to cover up our gardens or put a turnstile on our parks," he said.

Tilikum, at the turn of the century, was sailed across three oceans by a Victorian, John Voss. In 1930 his abandoned vessel was donated to Victoria by a London yacht club. Until two weeks ago it was openly displayed outside Crystal Garden then at Thunderbird Park.

Now, after 35 years, it has been acquired by the new Maritime Museum where people will pay to see it.

Mr. Mowat says it was given to Victoria on condition it be displayed forever without charge. If it must go indoors for preservation, he wants it located in the proposed new B.C. Centennial Museum, to be built on Belleville Street.

"I've had no trouble at all in getting public support," says Mr. Mowat. He even has volunteers to help him collect signatures.

Tilikum seems to hev a lotta tillicums signin' thet petition.

Ray Johnson, 3754 Wilkinson, got his confirmation of a $1,100 win on the Irish Sweepstake Monday.

His ticket was drawn on a horse in Saturday's Grand National steeplechase in England but was scratched before the race started.

But it was confirmed in a letter which arrived Monday. He also found out if your horse runs but doesn't finish in the top three you get a cable.

If it's scratched, you get a letter.

Discard those foul rumors from Vancouver that the Union Club in Victoria can't decide which flag to fly atop its flagpole.

"Nonsense," snorted a club official this morning. "Utter nonsense. We shall fly the new Maple Leaf as soon as it arrives. It's been on order for weeks."

A story in the Vancouver Sun stated that a special committee set up to decide which flag should fly had been unable to form a quorum because of divided opinion on the Union Jack, the Red Ensign and the Maple Leaf.

Someone asked in our personal ad column last week, would anyone interested in Gurdjieff please make contact.

We didn't think we were interested at first. But the question of what is a Gurdjieff started to gnaw on us. So we went to the Oxford Dictionary, then the Encyclopedia Britannica.

We shook up our "morgue" staff. We pestered the reference section of Victoria Public Library. We even asked some professors at University of Victoria. They told us there is no such thing as a Gurdjieff.

We gave it the acid test—tried using it in a Scrabble game, and were threatened with divorce.

Finally, in Uvic's McPherson Library, we learned that Georgi Ivanovich Gurdjieff was a Russian author (1872-1949). He wrote one book, "Meetings with Remarkable Men" which was translated and published by Rutledge of London in 1963.

Now we can go back to work with a clear mind—except for one thing. What did Gurdjieff say that would inspire a fan club? Anyone care to include him in their summer reading program and report?

HOME GARDEN

Simple to Grow, And So Adaptable

By HILDA BEASTALL

The trollius, or Globe-flowers, are quite fitting plants for spring and early summer, hardy herbaceous perennials doing exceptionally well in our gardens.

Hilda

They are easy to grow, and beautiful additions in many situations, for they are also surprisingly adaptable.

Pale yellow globes like huge buttercups are borne on 12 to 18-inch stems of the earliest variety called, appropriately enough, Earliest-of-All. They will be open to the April sunshine, creating a fresh, pleasing picture with their background of dark, shiny green scalloped leaves.

Later, along in May, another variety, Golden Queen, carries on the good name of the genus. These are taller, 18 to 24-inches, and the large flowers are a rich gold.

Liking a loamy soil, with humus to hold a fair amount of moisture during summer months, trollius will even grow in a clay soil if it is not baked in full sun.

The partial shade of a moist woodland area is really more to its liking or it will enliven a bed shaded at times by tall trees and shrubs.

Trollius will take its place most happily with astilbes and candelabra primulas in boggy sections near pools and streams, or in simulated boggy conditions at the foot of rocks.

I have seen splendid clumps of trollius under tall trees, and in normally cool summers they will continue in bloom until late August.

The best time to plant them is just as growth begins in early April, or to wait until flowering has ceased which would mean early fall.

Apart from their cool beauty in the border, trollius blooms freely enough to provide long-lasting cut flowers for the house, combining well with the airy stems of coral-bells (heuchera) or the larger blossoms of mahogany and red daylilies (hemerocallis), which commences to bloom during June.

. . . OPT OUT

fiscal arrangements with the provinces are changed.

Mr. Olson's amendment was defeated 83 to 5.

Some Conservatives such as Erik Nielsen (Yukon), viewed the bill as part of a government pattern to weaken the central government and destroy Confederation. Others such as Marcel Lambert (Edmonton West) and Alvin Hamilton (Qu'appelle) saw the bill as an "innocuous" measure that gave no further power to the provinces.

Gilbert Rondeau (Creditiste—Sheffort) and other spokesmen from the party also argued that the bill meant nothing to the provinces in terms of extra tax revenues. He called for an end to co-operative federalism because the provinces had not gained a thing.

Remi Paul independent member for Berthier - Maskinonge-Defanaudiere who recently left the Conservative ranks, said Quebecers view the bill as a safeguard for their constitutional rights.

Nielsen delivered a slashing attack on the government.

He predicted that Prime Minister Pearson would be remembered in history as the man who drove the wedge of fragmentation into confederation.

Nielsen accused Pearson of being "almost indecent in his haste" to give away powers of the federal government that have taken 100 years to consolidate.

"He (Pearson) has shifted with every wind and swayed with every change in temperature . . . to cancel, to surrender, to give in, so long as no one gets annoyed with this pristine government," this aggregation of simon pures on the treasury benches," Nielsen charged. "It's a farce, I say."

He said the prime minister was willingly "shovelling out" federal powers to the provinces because he was "so starving and hungry for support.

DEEP FREEZE

"This dismantling of the constitutional structure and surrender of the federal authority . . . means placing this Parliament in the deep freeze," Nielsen said.

"Continue to weaken this nation at the centre and it will come apart. It is fragmentation leading to separation on the one hand and absorption into the United States on the other," he said.

NO POLICE DURING DEMONSTRATION

Alabama Race Tension Eases

By REX THOMAS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Some evidence of a change for the better in the racial climate appeared in the cities where the vote rights march began and ended and where services were held for a civil rights worker slain by night riders.

State troopers and sheriff's possemen were not in evidence Tuesday as black-robed women walked behind black - draped wooden coffins bearing the names of persons killed in the civil rights struggle.

There were no incidents. Only a few white spectators watched in Selma and Montgomery.

The 10 empty coffins were placed on the sidewalk at the bottom of the steps leading to the state Capitol in Montgomery when Mills Cowling, head of the department in charge of state property, ordered a halt.

There they remained during a prayer and some talk. The marchers' parade permit expired at 6 p.m. and they left without the coffins. A city truck carried them away.

In Selma, two civil rights leaders called off mass meetings and demonstrations for the rest of the week. They urged the time be spent in preparing for the opening of the Dallas county voter registrar's office Monday.

The civil rights workers mourning the death of Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo of Detroit went from Selma to a tiny church near Lowndesboro, not far from the place where she was shot to death. Then they completed the 50-mile drive to Montgomery and walked the last short distance to the Capitol steps.

There wasn't any trouble, and the racial atmosphere seemed improved. Police Chief Marvin Stanley and police Commissioner L. B. Sullivan kept firm control while troopers remained out of sight inside the Capitol.

Several hours earlier Governor George C. Wallace met with 15 civil rights leaders for one hour and 20 minutes.

"We are hopeful," said Rev. Joseph E. Lowery of Birmingham, a Negro spokesman for the delegation.

There were these other developments on the racial scene:

1. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., told a New York press conference that despite some criticism he believes his proposal for an economic boycott of Alabama is necessary. But, he said, details have not been worked out and he "merely suggested it as a last-resort method."

2. President Johnson's voting rights bill was attacked by Leander H. Perez, political chieftain of the Plaquemines parish (county), La. Perez told the Senate judicial committee "a Communist plan" to take over portions of the South with Negro votes was behind the legislation. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirken of Illinois, who helped draft the legislation, said the Communist charge is "about as stupid a statement as has been uttered in these hearings."

AFTER TALK with Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, Rev. Joseph Lowery (centre) talks with reporters Tuesday. He led group of 16 civil rights leaders into the capitol for an hour-long conference on Negro grievances. (AP Wirephotos.)

VOTER REGISTRATION

'Red Carpet Treatment'

CANTON, Miss. (AP) — Negroes participating in a voter registration campaign here Tuesday got red carpet treatment from Madison county authorities.

Earlier voter registration drives by Negroes brought about arrests and demonstrations.

More than 80 Negroes, with a permit to parade from the city, filed two abreast to the century-old courthouse from a Negro church six blocks away.

They found five booths in which to take their tests. When a light rain began falling, Sheriff Jack Cauthen invited them to wait in the vacant courtroom.

During previous drives, Cauthen and his deputies were dressed in helmets and battle-gear. This time, they were ordinary uniforms.

Madison county has about 10,000 Negroes of voting age and less than 500 are registered, the justice department says.

More than 50 took the test Tuesday. Others said they would return later. Results won't be available for about 30 days.

SHERIFF of Madison County, Jack Cauthen, invites group of Negro voter registration marchers in the courthouse at Canton, Miss., to apply for registration. A group of about 60 Negroes marched without incident.

Outposts in S. Viet Nam Like Medieval Fortress

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON (AP)—A Vietnamese government outpost is something like a medieval fortress. It is not a pleasant place in which to live when an enemy lays siege.

Last Friday, an accident at one of these outposts—Plei Do Lim—killed 13 residents, mostly women and children. Seventy-four others were wounded.

During an intense electrical storm, a lightning bolt struck in the remote mountain camp. In the freak electrical discharge that followed, 40 shrapnel mines around the camp were set off by their electric detonators.

Most posts are run by regional militiamen or "civil" irregular defence groups. Each post is likely to be the one strong point in any given community, and when the Viet Cong comes, many of the local people go inside for protection.

Often, the wives and children of the armed defenders live with their men, and diapers hanging on the barbed wire to dry are a common sight.

Sometimes the women fight right along with their men, unloading crated mortar ammunition and feeding belts of machine-gun ammunition.

But as a rule, the posts are a maze of bunkers, trenches, machine-gun emplacements and mortar pits. They are ugly and uncomfortable.

Often, as at Plei Do Lim, the families of the militiamen build their huts just outside the inner defences of their camps but within the outer aprons of barbed wire, mines, spike traps and moats. The idea is that the families can rush inside the post as soon as an enemy attack is mounted.

Since the Viet Cong is usually able to breach the outer defences of a post, this peripheral area is a kind of prepared no-man's-land. Mortars inside the post are preset to fire into the area, and mines are often set up to blast right into the huts.

The dependents of militiamen thus live literally under the gun, and can be blasted to pieces in an instant, either as the result of a false alarm or some accident. The mothers and children know it and are used to it. Tots grow up skipping through the deadly minefields in which they live.

Woman Who Set Herself Afire Dies of Injuries

DETROIT (AP) — An 82-year-old woman has died of burns suffered when she turned herself into a human torch 11 days ago to protest United States policy in South Viet Nam.

She was Mrs. Alice Herz, who doused her clothing with flammable fluid and set herself afire on a Detroit street corner March 16. A widow, she fled Nazi Germany in 1933 and came to the U.S. in 1942.

A note found in a purse beside her said she sought to call attention to "the problems in Viet Nam."

Turks Favor New Talks With Greece

ANKARA (AP)—Turkey said today the Cyprus problem should be settled by first holding talks between Greece and Turkey.

Foreign ministry officials commenting on UN Cyprus mediator Galo Plaza Lasso's report added:

"This realistic approach would not naturally prevent future talks between the five interested parties to the problem."

Plaza had recommended in his report to UN Secretary-General U Thant Tuesday that the first step in ending the 15-month conflict could be immediate negotiations between the Turkish and Greek communities on the island.

Greeks Study Report Before Any Comment

ATHENS (Reuters) — The Greek government today considered a United Nations report warning against the dangers of Enosis—union of Cyprus with Greece.

Key members of the cabinet met to discuss the report but a government spokesman said no official statement would be made until the study was over.

An uneasy truce has reigned over the island, where UN troops have been trying for more than a year to keep the peace between hostile Greek and Turkish communities.

Observers in Athens said some of Plaza's points, including those on Enosis, could not be easily accepted by Greece.

Plaza said Enosis did not have the unqualified support of the Greek-Cypriots as a whole. He said he was also convinced that if it were brought about against the will of the Turks they would resist actively and vigorously.

Partition of the island between the two communities, Plaza added, would lead to lasting unrest.

U.K. Trade $2 Billion in Red

LONDON (AP) — Britain suffered a deficit of £745,000,000 ($2,235,000,000) in its balance of payments with other countries in 1964, the treasury reported.

By the end of the year the nation's gold and hard currency reserves had fallen the equivalent of £122,000,000 ($366,000,000) and the treasury had borrowed £357,000,000 ($1,071,000,000) from the International Monetary Fund and £216,000,000 ($648,000,000) from overseas central banks.

The over-all payments deficit included a world trade imbalance of £374,000,000 ($1,122,000,000).

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

The weather in B.C. will be affected by two separate weather systems during the next two days. One of these is a disturbance now crossing the north coast. It will move southeastward across the province today and Thursday accompanied by cloudy skies but precipitation from this system should be confined to the northern regions. A low pressure area which has been stationary off the California coast for the past couple of days has been spreading high-level cloudiness up the Pacific Coast states. Some of this cloudiness will extend into the southern regions of B.C. today and Thursday but will not be accompanied by any precipitation.

A Promise Fulfilled

ALTHOUGH SENATE DEBATE may delay passage of the Canada Pension Plan for a few days, the predominantly Liberal upper house is expected to vote in favor of the measure which was given third reading in the Commons Monday night. The pension plan will become operative next January 1. In conjunction with existing old age pension legislation it should give Canadians a standard of security never known before.

Bitter debate extending over many months has obscured to some extent the magnitude of the legislation which must be credited to Prime Minister Pearson. The pension plan — compulsory, contributory, portable from job to job, tied to the cost of living index, applicable to almost all employees and self-employed persons, and effective in all parts of Canada except Quebec which will have a similar provincial scheme—constitutes an unprecedented step by a democratic government.

While there has been much criticism of the details of the plan, and many changes in the legislation since a first version was introduced in mid-1963, there have been few protests against the principle of the measure. And in the final vote this week, many opposition members joined the government to produce a 159-to-12 majority for the bill. The pension plan is thus approved by all the major parties and may be considered a truly national program.

Details of the contributions and resulting benefits have been widely publicized. While numerous anomalies may exist, it is obvious that a plan of such sweeping application must have many minor discrepancies. It is not a valid criticism of the plan, however, to claim that it is defective because it does not provide for many citizens now too old to contribute to it. The plan is essentially a contributory scheme, and must start at some given moment. Its actuarial soundness should not be imperiled by burdening it with non-contributory beneficiaries; there are new provisions in the Old Age Pension plan for increasingly early assistance to those in the elderly categories.

The unifying effects of this all Canadian plan are to be noted. Here, in spite of many preliminary objections, is a plan which has won the support in principle of all the provincial governments and will exert uinform benefits from coast to coast.

There are many unanswered questions in the future of the plan. The long-term influence on the Canadian standard of living, the possible inflationary effects, the impact of the multi-billion-dollar pension plan funds to be made available to the provincial governments, the further development of compulsory security provisions on a national scale, of which the new plan no doubt will prove to have been merely a prototype—these are all questions to which only experience will give answers.

What is clear today is that the Liberal government, despite its minority position, has attained a major social objective and fashioned a charter for retirement security which will have a profoundly significant impact on Canadian society. And it is noteworthy that although opposition critics stalled parliamentary action on the measure for months, most of them voted for it when the talking was over and it was time to stand up and be counted.

Let Good Sense Prevail

REGARDLESS OF THE CASE for or against any increase in university tuition fees which local students fear may be imposed, it will be very short-sighted and reckless of them if they decide on any form of protest which will harm the Three Universities Capital Fund campaign.

An increase in fees, if such should take place, may pose a financing problem for many students. But a far greater problem will arise if the current campaign to raise funds for buildings is not successful. It will gain students nothing if through their hostile efforts the building fund drive falls short of its objective, for they will soon be faced with a serious shortage of classroom space.

Students forced on a night shift system or turned away from the university through lack of room will take a poor view of the action of today's students if these have been instrumental in hamstringing the development of the university.

Public goodwill is essential to the existence of the university and the provision of the unprecedented good accommodation enjoyed by students in our times. Whether through its voluntary donations or through tax revenue expended in university building and operational grants, the public is the only major source of university financing. Let the students protest if they will against what they may feel to be injustice, if this should eventuate. But they will be very foolish indeed if they cut off their nose to spite their face.

Preparing for Re-Entry

TRAINING OF SELECTED William Head inmates as forest fire fighters does not mark a radical departure from rehabilitative prison practice, or in forest service work in this province.

For several years past a number of young men completing sentence have been funneled into forest service work crews as they neared the end of their terms. The initial purpose was more to help rehabilitate convicted persons than to secure a labor force but both ends were served.

Extension of the plan to William Head, with modifications, is an encouraging advance in treatment of prisoners. The opportunity to work on the outside, even if such activity is restricted to fire outbreak emergencies, should help the men involved to accustom themselves again to activity in an atmosphere removed from prison routine.

Eventually all these men will be released to return to normal society. The better they are prepared for this change in environment, the stronger the probability that they will be able to pick up the threads of decent living when the time arrives.

If, in the course of this adjustment, they can provide a useful service by protecting British Columbia's forest resources, the community will draw a direct benefit from an enlightened approach to the prisoner.

The Song Whose Paddle Sings?

BRITAIN'S "LIQUID HISTORY", the river Thames, which has borne all manner of craft from the coracle onward, now boasts a Canadian-type six-man-with-steersman canoe.

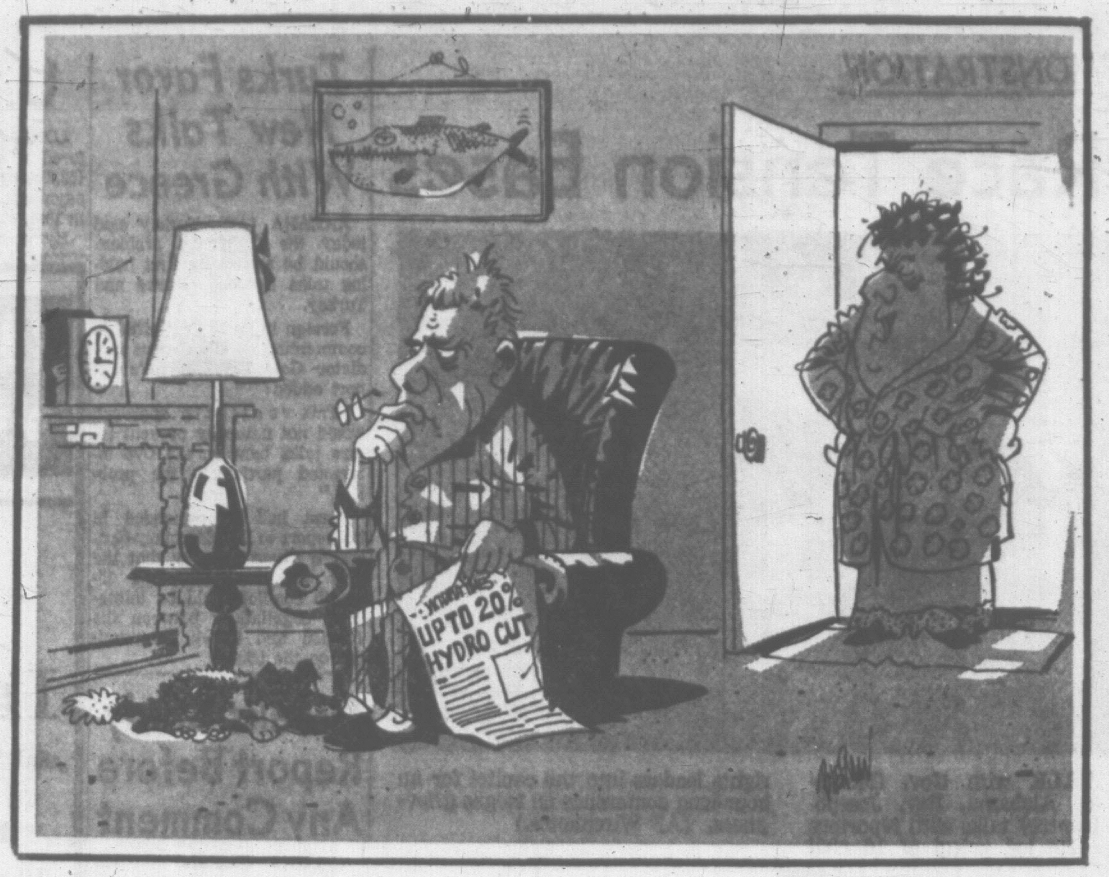

This is the product of a London boatbuilder, constructed to Canadian specifications from West German plans for a group which wants to introduce Canadian-style racing at Twickenham.

This should be encouraging to Canadians — an assertion of their national prestige on one of the most prestigious rivers of the world. But there's a catch.

Canadians used to consider themselves experts with the canoe. They had every reason to. The canoe, probably more than any other form of transportation, extended the nation from sea to sea. Later the railways bound the parts together.

But Canadians haven't been winning any Olympic canoe titles lately.

Maybe we should keep the craft at home. Remember what happened when a bunch of Russians and other Europeans got hold of hockey sticks?

—Bierman, Victoria Daily Times.

"Why don't you just accept it and come to bed . . . maybe there IS no catch to it . . . !"

FROM LONDON — By MARTIN DEWEY

The Old European Love Affair

LIKE a jilted bride, who can't get over her old, painful infatuation, Britain is once again casting wistful glances in the direction of the European Common Market. It is all the fault of General de Gaulle, who made the mistake of saying something mildly pleasant about Anglo-French relations during his news conference on February 4. His casual, innocent reference to the obvious fact that Britain and France are separated by a channel instead of by mountains was enough to set pro-European hearts pounding with renewed ardor. Overnight he-loves-us, he-loves-us-not became a gripping riddle.

Heath

General de Gaulle had provided a straw, and Britain's Europeans immediately set about building a bridge out of it. First into action were the Conservatives, who waited only four days to let it be known that the party's high-powered policy advisory committee had been charged with the urgent task of reassessing the case for Britain's entry into the Common Market.

Vigorous Supporter

The committee's chairman, not incidentally, is Mr. Edward Heath, leader of the unsuccessful Brussels negotiations of 1962 and one of Conservatism's most vigorous Europeans.

The next day it was announced that Lord Gladwyn, the former ambassador who recently joined the Liberal party, was reactivating his old pressure group, the all-party "Britain in Europe Committee." All that remained was for the Labor party to speak up, and this happened the following day when the foreign secretary, Mr. Michael Stewart, broached the matter at a British businessmen's banquet in Brussels.

Mr. Stewart made it clear that the government still had not felt the full force of the changing winds, for he said nothing to indicate that the Labor party's thinking had changed since 1962 and confined himself to some cranky observations on the dangers of splitting Europe into rival trade blocs and the need to include Britain in any talks about Europe's political future.

Government Pushed

But the government was not to be permitted the luxury of aloofness. On February 14 the opposition leader, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, made it clear that a forceful, pro-European policy was destined to play a key role in his party's bid to return to office.

In his "constellations of power" speech, Sir Alec promised that Britain under a Conservative government would not be relegated to the sidelines while western Europe took its place among the great powers.

The Labor front began to show signs of cracking on March 9 when the foreign secretary addressed the Western European Union at a meeting in Rome. In a speech interpreted by some in Britain as being in effect a new application for entry into the Common Market, Mr. Stewart argued that the Commonwealth connection should no longer be considered an obstacle and said that Britain would be happy to join the community so long as her essential interests were protected.

While this statement was no great departure from Labor's familiar caution, its more positive tone reflected a growing fear that the government would be left standing if the movement towards Europe gained more headway.

If the Conservatives were once again donning their "party of Europe" dress, the least the government could do would be to keep a change of clothes handy in the closet.

What worries the government, obviously, is that a general stampede in the direction of Europe would deprive Britain of her bargaining position. Like the Conservatives, the Labor party sees the handwriting on the wall and realizes that the nation is no longer to go it alone in a world of trading giants.

No Survival Outside

While Mr. Wilson and some of his colleagues would seem to prefer it if Britain were able to participate profitably by some kind of looser trading arrangement — such as the European Free Trade Area or an invigorated Commonwealth trade group — they are apparently willing to concede that there may well be no survival outside Europe.

What the present argument between the two major parties seems to be about, then, is whether Britain should clutch at General de Gaulle's straw or hold out in the hope that future developments — the death of the French president, for one? — will one day permit Britain to join Europe on a more equitable and dignified basis.

Unfortunately for the holdouts, however, this latest battle has hardly been joined. There is evidence that many influential Europeans in both major parties are saving their most powerful ammunition until the end of the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in June. By that time, some of them feel, the conference will have demonstrated for once and for all the folly of banking on an increase in Commonwealth trade as a means of staving off entry into Europe.

Pressure on Wilson

In this event, Mr. Wilson — whose cabinet is already about evenly divided on the question — would be hard put to it to hold the line. Certainly he would not be able to argue his case on the present performance of the economy. The country's inability to maintain its lead in aircraft and computers, its inability to achieve a favorable balance of payments or to support sterling — all these failures fairly cry out for the quick, dramatic remedies offered by a mass market.

Thus a great deal seems to depend on what happens when the assembled prime ministers begin to talk trade. If they are able to come up with something in the way of promising initiatives, Mr. Wilson may just be able to turn the tide. It is a dim hope in view of past prime ministers' conferences, but it may well be the only one.

FROM OTTAWA — By MAURICE WESTERN

'Confessions' of Mr. Hays

IT WAS SAID of the late Will Rogers that he was a great actor because he never acted. One might say the same of Mr. Harry Hays, the minister of agriculture who orbits irregularly through Ottawa, reducing his colleagues to panic and the opposition to utter distraction. Mr. Hays, having long since shattered most of the accepted rules of politics, has now described his adventures to a group of understanding Calgary constituents in what he calls "a kind of true confession story." We have apparently arrived at a nice balance; the impact of Mr. Hays upon the national capital being approximately equal to the impact of the national capital upon Mr. Hays. To Ottawa, Mr. Hays is a phenomenon defying explanation; to Mr. Hays, Ottawa is "a very strange land."

Western

Uneasy Shades

There are a number of passages in Mr. Hays' report which may have wider appeal in Pekisko Creek than in most political circles. The following verdict on governments, for example, would seem more than sufficient to set whole generations of politicians spinning in their graves.

"Whatever you might think about certain individual Canadians," said Mr. Hays, "you have to admire the Canadian public as a whole. In spite of everything their governments and their oppositions do, they still go on surviving and building a better Canada and sometimes even prospering while they're at it."

Mr. Hays recognizes, of course, that the survival rate is not likely to be high. To succeed, even at backbencher level, he reports, it is necessary to have three qualities, "an iron constitution; a great big, fat ego that can live on its own self-esteem, and a hide as thick as a Brahma bull's after twenty winters." To survive as a cabinet minister, he adds, "you also need a powerful governor on your temper."

No Bowl of Cherries

How many of his cabinet colleagues possess these endearing qualities, Mr. Hays does not indicate.

There may be people, back in Pekisko Creek, who think that life in Ottawa is a bowl of cherries. This is wrong. To begin with, there is the problem of constituents, writing bushels of letters and attempting in bursts of rage, to put through telephone calls collect. But this is the gentle side of a minister's life.

"Where he really gets his lumps is from the opposition in the House of Commons, and from his warm, friendly, helpful, considerate, fellow government supporters at the weekly caucus. The opposition criticize you for everything and, of course, their job is to criticize. But it's a mistake to expect much from your own people either. Most of them figure, at least privately, although sometimes publicly, too, that anything their ministers can do, they could do better, if they only had a chance."

How depraved can people get?

Brighter Side

Fortunately, there is a brighter side to this. "Something else I've learned since getting 'inside' government,' any suggestion that any cabinet is a well-knit conspiracy designed to buffalo the public just won't stand up in the light of experience.

Some cabinets buffalo; some don't; it is unfair to generalize.

Moving from personal experiences to profounder matters, Mr. Hays had something to say about political philosophies and policies. There is a belief in Ottawa that the minister was a Conservative until his entry into federal politics at Mr. Pearson's call. Mr. Hayes' own doubts as to his classification were apparently settled by the verdict of a friend, who described him as a pragmatist. After a suspicious glance at the dictionary, the minister agreed. Indeed, he goes on to say:

Political Labels

"It seems to me that this is what every government has to be when it gets right down to the country's problems. I think that every government that tried to run things any other way has finally run into trouble. So I think we have to be careful when we start throwing political labels around."

This arresting thought has caused Mr. Hays to look with new eyes upon government programs. There is a good deal of talk, "double talk" in his considered opinion, about "free enterprise" and "socialistic legislation." But such terms are simply "old clinkers."

"Personally," he confided, "I don't know what they mean any more when they use words like this. We don't have any herd books or brand registers down in Ottawa, where you can look up the political blood lines of a policy and find out whether it's Liberal or Conservative or Socialistic or Social Credit. As far as I can tell, a government just tries to assess what the problems are and then tries to figure out how to cope with them."

If it were not for treasury board, one's colleagues, the opposition and other Ottawa absurdities, it would be just like Pekisko Creek.

Letters

Incredible

The behaviour of our government in its handling of the bill dealing with the case of G. E. P. Jones constitutes, to my mind, a case of injustice so grave as to be almost incredible.

What concerns me is that this man's honor and reputation have been publicly besmeared without his being given either reasons or an opportunity to defend himself. Neither Mr. Jones, the public nor the opposition in the legislature has the means of judging whether these reasons are just and sufficient.

A totalitarian regime could, no doubt, destroy a man more quickly. Our so-called democratic government takes a little longer, but the end result is much the same.

Another aspect of this affair which I find profoundly disturbing is that, by its refusal to explain the reasons for its actions, the government renders the opposition impotent. — A. Fraser, 356 Sylvia.

Students Protest Firing

The Students' Council of the University of Victoria has directed me to bring to your attention their concern over the dismissal by the Provincial Government of George E. P. Jones as Chief Purchasing Agent for the Province of British Columbia.

At the meeting, Sunday, March 21, the Council passed a motion stating that "the Students' Council of the University of Victoria go on record as opposing his dismissal without a hearing." — Paul Williamson, President, Alma Mater Society.

What's Dirty?

With the events and happenings in Viet Nam so much in evidence, it is quite disturbing to hear the people of the free world lend voices to a common enemy in denouncing one of the most important allies we have. I refer to the constant criticism of our American neighbors, for their actions in Viet Nam. It is very simple and easy, when snug and safe, to heap abuse on those facing the dangers.

In the Times of March 24, appears an article under the heading, "A Rash Mistake," which goes to great length in denouncing the U.S.A. for using gas in their war against the communists in Viet Nam. The main reason for this attitude from our local paper seems to be, as the article states, that the word gas is a dirty word where weaponry is concerned.

Well, Mr. Editor, death is also very disturbing, and war is dirty no matter who fights it, and where. When there is a way to stop an enemy without killing him or doing him permanent harm, I fail to see anything dirty about that. — W. Madrona, 592 Atkins.

Confidence in Youth

The cars parked at a chain store last weekend were offered a 99c wash by young members of a Christian band, calling themselves "Hi-C."

These boys and girls gave up freely their Saturday, working with a will, for money to enable them to make known their Christian endeavour for truth. Those of us who spent 10 minutes to support it, were highly satisfied by this symbol in what we saw. We came away encouraged and convinced that the future can take care of itself with confidence in the unselfishness of the youth of today who are not measuring progress by dollars and cents but by the spiritual rewards which may be theirs hereafter.—Clarence S. Goode.

Puppetry?

Our minister of municipal affairs has said "B.C. municipalities are not creatures of the provincial government." Is it his intention to make them so by introducing Bill 83?

The enthusiasm for public service and pride of achievement of municipal councillors could be so reduced by the proposed legislation, that their status may become no better than puppets mouthing the decisions of others hiding beneath the platform of direct responsibility to our ratepayers.

Capable men and women will think twice before running for civic office where their principle function will be to levy taxes for Mini-Metro, and take the brunt of criticism for expenditures over which they have little or no control.—Denis H. Besley, 4360 Gordon Head Rd.

Killer Whale Project

It has been announced that Dr. Newman is preparing to capture another killer whale. This time some kind of a net is to be used, a tacit admission that the harpooning of the so-called Moby Dick (or Moby Doll!) was an act of gross cruelty.

As it is a known fact that no other alleged scientist has been able to keep a killer whale in captivity for any length of time one wonders if this latest effort is being made at public expense in a genuine effort to establish intelligble contact between killer whales and the man in the street which has been heretofore a very lamentable lack in our system of communications.—Florence G. Barr, 965 Trans-Canada Highway.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Looking Back

From The Times of March 31, 1890:

A report in a New York newspaper says Queen Victoria is seriously considering abdicating. It attributed the story to high officials in London and said the matter was common gossip. It is said the Queen feels her son the Prince of Wales ought to play the leading role for the rest of her life, "which is certain to be short." When she is willing to abdicate, a bill will be introduced into Parliament, said the newspaper.

A Visit From a Yankee Slicker

OTTAWA—A feller came to town the other day to do some lobbying for an American pulp and paper company that wants the Canadian government to build it a dock.

Well, sir, Transport Minister Jack Pickersgill took up with this feller like a long lost brother. He got him in to meet Prime Minister Pearson. He put on a fancy lunch for him and had Public Works Minister Cardin there. Public Works builds docks. Labor Minister MacEachen was at the lunch too. So was Trade Minister Sharp, and Foreign Minister Martin.

You can see there's a lot more to building a dock than just whacking some pilings into the mud.

Then Mr. Pickersgill assigned one of his officials to show this feller around, to take him into the Commons' gallery, and then to the press gallery lounge so he could tell the reporters all about the dock and what all he's doing in the lobbying business.

★ ★ ★

Seems that the company this feller works for has got hold of some timber limits in Newfoundland so they can build a pulp mill. The deal with Premier Joey Smallwood is all signed and sealed.

"He sort of runs things down there in Newfoundland," this feller tells us with a sly little smile, like he was letting us in on something.

He talked big, all right: an investment of 50 million U.S. dollars in a pulp mill that would provide jobs for 6,000 Newfoundlanders. But he didn't know how much paper the mill would make, or even how many paper machines it would have. He was only here to talk dock with the government.

Well, we asked, where did he want this dock?

He got a kind of glassy look in his eyes like an actor that forgets his lines. He scratched a blue-black chin with a hairy hand.

"It's at, uh, a place in Newfoundland, uh, I can't quite . . ."

"Come-by-Chance!" prompted Mr. Pickersgill's official.

"Yes, that's the town!" the feller says. "Come-by-Chance. I can't remember it because it doesn't sound like a town." He grins weakly. "Anyway, that's the likely location; what you might call the number one location."

★ ★ ★

At this point another reporter winked at me, like to say here's this Yankee slicker wants us to build him a dock and he's not sure where he wants it to go. Likely Come-by-Chance, he says. But mebbe not, and who's to pay if we build it at Come-by-Chance and then the Yankees saw no, we changed our minds — put the dock at Joe Batt's Arm or at Tickle-Me-Quick?

It was like he read our minds, because he swung right into who's to pay.

"Up here," he says, "these things like dock facilities are normally provided by the government, but the cost is amortized and paid entirely by those who use the facility."

I know a couple of fellers who spent $50,000 building a dock at Port Simpson, B.C., to load timber. Government didn't pay for that dock. Then they asked the Industrial Development Bank, owned by the government, to lend them $200,000 against signed timber sales contracts. They needed the loan to build roads to get out the timber, but the government bank turned them down flat. They ended up by selling out to the Japs.

Maybe if they'd had this feller to do their lobbying they'd have got both the dock and the road money from the government. Or at least he'd have fixed it so the Yankees would take over, instead of the Japs.

Feller's a lawyer from New York, name of Richard Nixon.

North American 'Revolutionists' Latest Target for Red Chinese

The Moscow-Peking ideological quarrel has severely strained the unity of Communist parties all over the world.

In Canada last summer several comrades were reportedly expelled from the Communist Party of Canada for publicly supporting the Red Chinese "hard line" calling for armed revolution against the non-Communist system everywhere.

Among those expelled was John A. Scott, Vancouver, who formed a new group called the Progressive Workers' Movement, which has attracted some support from "left-wing" Communists. At the organization meeting of the PWM in Vancouver last December, Scott stated that the movement favored revolution against the capitalistic system and warned that the capitalists will have to be "given a shove" before they will relinquish control of the means of production.

Following is an account by an American news analyst of the impact of the Moscow-Peking quarrel on "revolutionary" organizations in the United States:

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Alliance

NEW YORK—Red China, in search of Marxist - Leninist allies against Russia, is now courting "revolutionary" splinter groups in the United States —outfits like the one that plotted to blow up the Statue of Liberty.

Judged by Peking's propaganda, Mao Tse-tung even hopes for the emergence of a pro-Chinese party in the United States based on the Negro population as the "vanguard of the American working class."

Even the Russian press was unusually restrained in comments on the recent assassination of Malcolm X, dissident Black Moslem leader. But according to Red China's leading People's Daily the slain man was a "martyr" whose death showed that "in dealing with imperialist oppressors violence must be met with violence."

Little Success

So far Mao has been conspicuously unsuccessful in his efforts to inspire the creation of an organization to oppose the pro-Russian Communist Party of the United States.

Few Negroes regard the Red Chinese dictatorship as an improvement on the rule in Selma. This was said bluntly in a message to Mao Tse-tung that the Congress for Racial Equality (CORE) sent in 1963 after a Peking rally in support for the American Negroes in their struggle against discrimination.

"While CORE often is critical of actions or inactions of the federal government, we reject the view that the United States of America has an imperialist policy of racial discrimination," the message informed Mao.

"We are for freedom and democracy for all, including the Chinese people. CORE believes that with its methods success can be achieved without slave labor camps and mass exodus of people from their homes which occurred in China."

But Mao's future hopes, as Chinese propaganda indicates, are not based on Negro leaders like Dr. Martin Luther King, Roy Wilkins of the NAACP or CORE's James Farmer.

Revolutionaries

The allies he seeks in the United States are "revolutionary" outfits like the Progressive Labor Movement and the Revolutionary Action Movement.

Several leaders of the Progressive Labor Movement were arrested in New York recently on contempt charges for refusal to answer questions in a grand jury investigation into a possible conspiracy to incite to riot during last summer's Harlem disorders. William Epton, PLM leader in Harlem, is awaiting trial on a charge of criminal anarchy.

The mastermind of the Revolutionary Action Movement is said to be Robert F. Williams, a native of North Carolina now working for Communist Cuba and China. He is believed to have directed from Havana, where he now resides, the plot to bomb the Statue of Liberty, the Liberty Bell and Washington Monument.

Another obscure American group which, according to Moscow, promotes Mao Tse-tung's policy of revolutionary brinkmanship is known as Hammer and Steel.

Ignore Reality

It is a measure of Moscow's and Peking's ignorance of American reality that this miniscule group figured prominently in an exchange of "open letters" between Russia and China.

As one of Moscow's letters said, "In the United States" Chinese "support is rendered to the subversive activities of the left-wing opportunist group Hammer and Steel which sets itself the main task of fighting against the Communist Party of the United States."

Here again the pot is calling the kettle black (or too Red) which is one of the ironic features of the Chinese-Russian global conflict.

Perhaps Mao is not so naive as to assume that groups like PLM, RAM or Hammer and Steel will have much influence on Negro and white Americans. But they can foment disorder, chaos and commit acts of violence which is all that he can hope for at the present.

Violence is the major theme in Chinese propaganda to American Negroes. "The American Negroes have begun to discard the doctrine of nonviolence and are determined to oppose counter-revolutionary repression with revolutionary violence," said a hopeful editorial in the People's Daily.

A Martyr for the Chinese Reds?

A POWERFUL FORCE IN KENYA POLITICS

By CLYDE SANGER, Manchester Guardian

NAIROBI — The Lumumba Institute has begun its first three-month course for political party workers and it is immediately clear that this ideological centre will become a significant new force in Kenyan politics.

The buildings, six miles outside Nairobi, were formally opened by President Kenyatta in December. Among the nine-man board of management are the five politicians who were tried with Kenyatta at Kapenguria on the charge of managing an illegal society.

Mboya Absent

Notably absent from the list of founders and managers is Tom Mboya who is the ruling party's secretary-general, as minister of economic development.

The chairman of the board of management is Bildad Kaggia, who earlier this month told a rally that he had resigned from the government last year—he was a parliamentary secretary — because he disapproved of many government policies.

He welcomed about 70 students from 21 of the Kenya African National Union's 39 branches.

A key part of their studies, he said, would be learning the biography of Jomo Kenyatta.

"Many of us grew up reading about Churchill and Abraham Lincoln but we hope that if the students follow President Kenyatta's example of never loving luxuries and giving himself for the struggle they will become great politicians like him."

Other subjects being taught include party organization, the African road to socialism, and the principles of socialism — the last subject by the first two Russian teachers to come to Kenya. Several of the eight Kenyan lecturers at the institute have also studied in Russia.

Mr. Kaggia was reluctant today to say who had provided the £27,000 spent on the institute in its 20-acre site. All he would say was: "All the cost has been met through contributions from friends."

It is clear anyway who the most forthcoming of the friends are. Two Russian-decorated cinema vans stood in the forecourt near the statue of Lumumba.

Even before Mr. Kaggia's speech of welcome classes had got under way: on one blackboard was chalked the five-stage "evolution of society" progressing from a primitive communal society through slavery, feudalism and capitalism, to socialism.

Is this institute going to take Kenya away from nonalignment and towards communism? On opening day it was reassuring to hear the Kenyans there greeting each other as brother rather than as comrade.

But in a country where there is a one-party state and where that party is admitted by is leaders to be in a weak state of organization, this institute is clearly in a disturbingly strong position to influence, if not to control, the party's future thinking.

Liberty, Equality, Maternity

Observer News Service

PARIS — French women, who constitute one-third of the total national working force, are outraged by their working hours. At a recent congress of women's associations in Paris, doctors, sociologists and delegates agreed that the 80 to 100-hour working week of many French women, especially those with families, is intolerable.

The number of working mothers with two children has risen by 84 per cent since 1954, and those with one child by 51 per cent. French women are now demanding a 40-hour week and two days' rest.

Maternity Rest

The congress also demanded a 16-week maternity rest period with full salary, and a guarantee from employers of re-employment in an equivalent job when they return to work. One sociologist, Mme. de Lauwe, said: "There is no equality between the sexes if the rights of mothers are not recognized."

Business bosses reject these demands. They say high cost machinery cannot be fully exploited by part-time women workers. It would cause personnel problems and double the time needed for training if workers have to be replaced. To reduce working hours without reducing salaries would increase production costs by 6 to 7 per cent.

"Women," said one boss, "are complex beings. On the one hand they want professional equality with men and on the other rights to assume their role as mothers." As L'Express, the French weekly, put it, "liberty, equality and materitny."

Federal Pay For 1 In 4

(From The Clip Sheet)

"A survey just completed," says a news story out of Ottawa, "shows that almost one out of four—25 per cent of the population—receives a cheque each month payable wholly or in part by the public purse." In the survey month, December last, about 4,500,000 Canadians received cheques drawn on the federal treasury for pensions, allowances, salaries, wages or other payments.

More than four million of the monthly cheques are in the category of social security benefits — family allowances (2,712,000), universal old age pensions (999,000) disability and blind pensions (61,000), veterans and dependents pensions and allowances (178,000), old age assistance (105,000). Nearly another half million of the cheques cover wages and salaries — civil servants (202,000), employees of government agencies and proprietary corporations (131,000), the armed forces (120,000), and the RCMP (9,000).

The Ottawa report notes that while the number of recipients has risen by one million to 4.5 million over the past 10 years, the cost to the treasury in that time has risen from $6 million to $11 million per day. And that's a lot of payroll for the taxpayer to meet.

NATURE on the ISLAND

By Cliff Carl

The one feature that distinguishes birds from all other groups of animals is the possession of feathers. From all points of view these are most remarkable structures and serve the bird in a number of ways which are also remarkable.

Feathers are primarily for insulation. Without them or some similar covering a bird could not live; the heat lost by radiation would be so great that no amount of internal chemistry could provide the necessary energy. And since the bird's superiority over the so-called lower vertebrates depends upon it maintaining a non-fluctuating body temperature despite its surroundings an effective means of reducing heat loss to a minimum is essential.

The feathers' efficiency as an insulator depends upon entrapped air which in itself is a poor conductor of heat. Air fills the numberless enclosed spaces that are found throughout each feather forming an effective block against the transfer of heat and numerous other air spaces occur between adjacent feathers and between the feathers and the skin. The air within the feathers is fixed but that trapped in the plumage can be varied in amount by raising or lowering the feathers. Thus a bird can regulate its temperature to some degree by fluffing out the feathers in cold weather or by squeezing air out when it is too hot.

So effective is their cleverly designed outer covering that a mite of bird such as a chickadee can maintain a body heat of about 100 degrees during the coldest weather even during long inactive periods when sleeping at night.

Feathers also protect a bird from mechanical injury. Though individually they are rather fragile-looking structures, when layered together feathers form a resilient coat of armor against shrubbery, blows in combat, or the very air itself when in flight. They will even deflect shot from a gun if the pellets are directed more or less head on.

At the same time feathers perform a valuable function in streamlining the bird's body. By filling in the natural concavities and rounding off the projecting surfaces they improve the air-flow pattern and cut down resistance in flight. Again the direction of growth and the over-lapping plan add to their efficiency in this role also.

To all but the flightless birds, however, a most important use of feathers is in flying. The large quilled feathers of the wings and tail provide the necessary surface area for support and control. They are strong, resilient, long-wearing yet exceedingly light. Each flight feather occupies a special position on wing or tail and each can be moved independently or in unison with its mates according to need.

These remarkable feathers combined with the equally amazing wing result in a structure mechanically perfect for flight. The convex upper surface creates the greater art of the lifht, just as in the case of an airplane wing, and the greatest upward force is borne by the inner section of the wing nearest the body. The outer wing is more flexible and provides propulsion by a sculling motion. On each down stroke each primary wing feather presents its maximum surface; on the quicker return stroke each feather rotates enough to spill the air from its vane and the whole rhythmic movement enables a bird to travel through the air with grace unequalled by any other living creature.

'Prophetess' Alice Seeks Reconciliation

Observer News Service

LUSAKA, Zambia — An appeal for reconciliation has come from the detention camp in which she is held from the African "prophetess" Alice Lenshina whose Lumpa sect has been banned by Zambia's President Kenneth Kaunda. Alice has asked to be allowed to join the United Church of Zambia into which all the country's Free Churches recently merged.

The request was made public by Rev. Colin Morris, president of the United Church who said: "This is the first glimmer of hope that some permanent solution may be possible to the tragedy created by the estrangement of the Lumpa sect."

Last year the sect fought the police and troops in the wild northern areas of Zambia. More than 700 people died and several thousand were sent to rehabilitation centres. Now, with the government's permission, a group of Free Church clergy will hold discussions with Alice and her senior "deacons" at Mumbwa jail near here to decide whether her plea for religious reconciliation can be accepted.

Cling to Tenets

On the surface a great chance is offered for ending the quandary over the future of Alice and her followers who still cling grimly to Lumpa tenets. But at the moment Alice still maintains she rose from the dead after talking with God and it is difficult to see how this can be reconciled with orthodox Christian beliefs.

THE GALLUP POLL

World War Unlikely

(Canadian Institute of Public Opinion)

More than five-in-ten people do not think we will have another world war and only one-in-a-hundred feel there could be a war within this year.

In a breakdown of age groups, those in their thirties are most serene (58%) about the unlikeliness of another world war. Fewer in their forties (49%) say a world war is unlikely.

Nearly a quarter of the people would not hazard a guess as to the next war.

The question: "How long do you think it will be before there is another world war—or do you think it is unlikely we will have another world war?"

BETWEEN OURSELVES

By Elizabeth Forbes

Last Monday, down in South America, the people of Chile experienced the terror of another major earthquake that left death and desolation in its wake.

On that day, in Victoria, we went about our daily affairs with no thought that the ground might turn to jelly under our feet or that our houses might tumble down around us.

Let's suppose, for a moment, that it had been different.

That a major earthquake had hit Vancouver Island and our city had been right in the disaster area.

That you and I were searching today for missing loved ones, under the rubble of our homes and our streets. That our houses were gone, our places of business a shambles and all we had left was the clothes that happened to be on our backs.

A state of emergency would have been declared. Our government and other governments would, no doubt, have come to our aid. Volunteer organizations would be sending us clothing . . . even food.

But I'm willing to wager, that the group most in evidence—and in the shortest space of time—would be the Red Cross.

★ ★ ★

This organization is Canada-wide (world-wide for that matter). When disaster happens in one place, every other branch is ready and willing to help.

Just a little over a year ago now—on Good Friday, March 27, 1964—following the Alaska earthquake, the Victoria branch headquarters was manned 24 hours a day to assist in efforts to trace possible victims of the disaster.

In connection with the subsequent Alberni tidal wave, this branch also gave assistance.

Disaster doesn't always mean earthquakes. A home may be lost through fire. A family may be faced with an emergency through accident to the bread-winner. The Red Cross is there to assist with bedding, clothes and food, if required.

In the Greater Victoria area, it maintains an arts and crafts department that gives recreational therapy to patients in Veterans' Hospital, a women's corps that gives thousands of volunteer hours of service in various departments during the year, a home-makers' service that provides experienced housekeepers during sickness or emergency and a cupboard where sickroom supplies, including hospital beds, wheelchairs, bed-side rails and other smaller articles are available on loan.

There's an individual emergency service where young and old are given special assistance, a water safety group that gives instruction to grown-ups and young people, also a women's work committee that sews, knits and makes quilts and other articles of clothing.

Through co-operative efforts of schools, teachers, pupils and senior Red Cross members, a successful junior group is maintained. These boys and girls prepare health kits, make toys and other articles, distribute bedding to needy families, collect coupons that are given out, where needed, for household utensils, give concerts and hold sales to raise funds.

There's the blood donor panel, too. It works to maintain a supply of this life-bringing fluid for hospitals and other emergencies.

Last year, 2,507 patients in three Greater Victoria hospitals, were helped by this service and many of them owe their lives to it.

Perhaps someone you love was amongst them. Perhaps that person is walking around today, strong and well.

Perhaps you know people who have been helped in other ways and in other emergencies by this worthwhile organization.

Which brings us smack up against a question—have you given your 1965 contribution to the Red Cross?

The fund-raising campaign has been going on throughout the month of March. Officially, it ends today.

Constant Race Between Food And Population

Associated Press

RAWALPINDI—Amid many difficulties, Pakistan is launching an attack on its rising birth rate.

President Mohammed Ayub Khan says:

"In the race between food supply and a progressively growing population, we may have to run twice as fast in order merely to stay where we are. Family planning is a long-term process, so the sooner we address ourselves to it, the better.

"I undertake to ensure that improvement in the standard of living is not neutralized by unbalanced increase in population."

Pakistan's economy is advancing but the 110,000,000 people—a poulation increasing 2.8 per cent or more annually—have about the same standard of living they had 10 years ago.

Construction begins on first of ferry triplets at Victoria Machinery Depot.

WORK STARTS WITHOUT CEREMONY

Keel Laid for Powell River Queen

Keel-laying of the first of three double-ended provincial government ferries was completed without ceremony Tuesday afternoon at Victoria Machinery Depot.

First keel laid was that of the Powll River Queen. She will be followed by the Mayne Queen and Bowen Queen.

The ferries will be of all-steel construction, carry 50 cars, 240 passengers and a crew of seven.

Cost of the "triplets" will be in the neighborhood of $3 million.

"The ferries will be finished in accordance with the standards of other ships in the government ferry service," said Bill Weston, operations manager of B.C. Ferries.

"They will have wheelhouse control and a coffee bar to accommodate 60 people."

Their service speed will be 12 knots.

TWIN SCREWS

The 207-foot-long vessels will have twin screws at each end, powered by White Superior diesels.

Their designer is T. A. McLaren, a Vancouver naval architect who designed the Comox Queen.

Powell River Queen will ply the Jervis Inlet route and is expected to go into service Aug. 3, this year, replacing the Jervis Queen.

The Mayne Queen will take the Gulf Islands route between Mayne and Saturna Islands on Nov. 31.

BOWEN QUEEN

Bowen Queen will take the Snug Cove-Horseshoe Bay run, replacing another vessel, also named Bowen Queen.

The old Bowen Queen will be switched to another run under a new name when she is replaced Jan. 31, 1966.

A splendid new stage coach was built in Victoria in 1865 for use by travellers to the Cariboo gold towns. Built by Duck and Sandover it would accommodate 16 persons "on a pinch."

Girl, 15, Quits School —Husband Objected

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—A 15-year-old girl who said she did not attend high school because her husband did not want her to has been told that she must go to classes or her mother must go to jail.

Milwaukee County Judge F. Ryan Duffy Jr. ordered Mrs. Doris Lewis, 39, to spend a day in jail for every day her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Roby, misses school, beginning today.

Mrs. Lewis was charged with failing to send her daughter to school.

Mrs. Roby told the judge last Friday she had been married in Mississippi last August, when she was 14 and her husband 21.

She said she had dropped out of her freshman class at north division high school at her husband's request.

Loader To Help Sooke Monster Gobble Hill

A $31,388 tractor-loader will be bought to help a 40-ton monster chew its way through the Sooke Hills.

Greater Victoria Water District directors Tuesday approved a tender from Finning Tractor to supply a rubber-tired loader to fill trucks with muck from Japan Gulch water supply tunnel.

The project is being bored out by Intermountain Construction Ltd. with a specially-built machine that chomps an 8½-foot tunnel through subterranean rock.

★ ★ ★

The board approved the lease of 3.47 acres of land to Canadian National Railway at $30 a year.

A check of old records showed the railway had been using the land near Sooke Lake since 1918, not knowing it was part of the watershed.

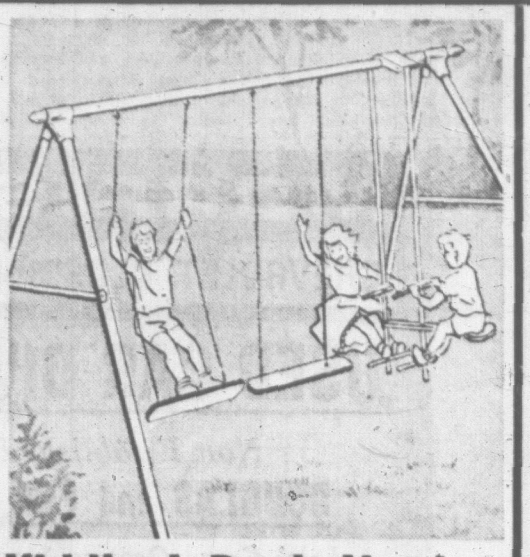

Earlier, in 1962, it was found the water district had been using 2,000 feet of CNR land without any recorded right, and the railway gave right of way for pipeline use.

Station Credit To Fade Away

Customers with good records will be able to continue credit at service stations for one month if they have applied for credit cards, a dealers' meeting agreed Tuesday night.

"But I realize that for many of our customers April 1 will be the deadline," meeting chairman Walt Smith said.

Starting Thursday, more than 150 service station dealers on Southern Vancouver Island will stop being creditors to their customers.

If anyone needs to charge purchases and repairs at a service station, financing will have to be arranged with banks, finance companies or other sources.

Dealers said carrying accounts receivable was proving too costly with profit margins declining in recent years.

A show of hands among the 40 persons at the meeting indicated many of these accounts have dropped since it was agreed to the cash-or-credit card policy in February.

The move began in Nanaimo more than a year ago and has spread to many parts of B.C.

Mr. Smith said two finance companies in Victoria will provide forms to service stations for customers to apply for the necessary financing. A telephone call would confirm or deny the application.

Floating Gas Price Urged By Retailer

Competition should be restored to retail gasoline sales, a meet- of service station dealers was told Tuesday night.

Singled out for criticism by Lloyd Kinneard of Vancouver, secretary of the Automotive Retailers' Association, was the consignment system of gasoline sales.

In this arrangement, oil companies set both the wholesale and retail prices of gasoline.

In the last few years, the difference between the two prices which represents the dealer's margin has been reduced to 7 cents a gallon from 8½, he said.

"If we can buy at competitive wholesale prices, we don't need to worry about retail competition," he said.

"When business levels out on a competitive level the margin is usually 8 or 8.5 cents if you can remember that far back."

Mr. Kinneard said the association has asked the Royal Commission on Gasoline Prices to consider a Gasoline Handling Act.

RETAIL LEVEL

"What we want is the same degree of free enterprise at the retail level as the oil companies have on the wholesale end," he said.

He recommended oil companies publicly post the wholesale refinery price for all customers adding the one cent a gallon per 100 miles it costs for transportation.

He wanted a total prohibition of the consignment system.

In parts of Ontario near Toronto service stations had seen their margins decline to 5.5 cents a gallon.

"Unless the royal commission re-establishes free enterprise, that is what we have to look forward to," he said.

Hit, Run Drivers Again Warned

Magistrate William Ostler again warned in city court Tuesday that he regards hit-and-run driving as a serious offence.

But he only imposed a $100 fine on John Van Nes, 2342 Howard, for what he called "a minimal offence."

Evidence was that Mr. Van Nes allowed his car to roll back and collide with a parked car on Fort near Pandora March 8. He drove off but was pursued and stopped three blocks away.

Mr. Van Nes said he did not commit the offence wilfully, because he though he had only run into a power pole. The magistrate said persons involved in an accident must stop and find out exactly what they hit.

Cash Only Limit For Uvic

Several departments at the University of Victoria are "quite prepared" to enter graduate studies but can't because of too little money, Dr. Gordon Fields said Tuesday.

Dr. Fields, head of the biology department, said his department is prepared and able to go ahead with graduate studies.

"We are not able to go on until we get sufficient financial support from the provincial government.

"It is a question of bringing the entire university up in all departments before we can start graduate work in any one department.

"There is a tremendous need for graduates throughout Canada and the provincial government should be willing to support us.

"Until then we shall just have to be doing what we can on a limited budget.

"It is a question of getting enough money to do what we are already prepared to do."

LESAGE PROTESTS TO GORDON

Quebec Joins Fight Against Bank Share Ban

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—The Quebec government is strongly protesting the federal government's move to prevent provincial investments in chartered banks.

Letters tabled in the Quebec legislature Tuesday show Premier Lesage wrote to federal finance minister Walter Gordon last month stating Quebec, like British Columbia, would like to invest in chartered banks.

He received the same answer as B.C.'s Premier Bennett — a flat rejection.

Lesage claimed in his letter this ban was a serious restriction, especially when the Quebec cabinet was considering the best way to invest funds from the Canada Pension Plan.

He said he could not see why limited ownership of shares in a chartered bank could not be allowed.

HAS JURISDICTION

Gordon stated in his reply that banking is an exclusive federal jurisdiction and the effective presence in banking of any other government could create confusion.

"In my opinion," Gordon wrote, this is not a serious restriction, since many other ways can be found to invest public funds."

In a speech to a Montreal service club Tuesday, Quebec Revenue Minister Eric Kierans said Gordon's ban would interfere seriously with provincial initiatives and obligations.

He said the federal plan to bar provinces and municipalities from ownership of bank shares amounts to virtual nationalization of the federally-chartered banks.

"The supremacy of the central bank over monetary policy is in no way threatened by provincial ownership of bank shares or by wholly owned provincial banks," he argued.

Cherry Trees Preparing Annual Show

Best ornamental tree display of the year come to full flower on Victoria boulevards in the next two weeks.

City parks department today issued its second pocket guide to flowering cherries and other blossom-bowed trees, listed according to streets.

Most popular is the Yoshino, a flowering Japanese cherry forming the basic planting in Washington D.C. tidal basin, and known widely at blossom time.

The largest examples are on Heywood and Trutch streets, which were planted 30 years ago. Younger trees are on the following streets:

Belmont Avenue, Cambridge, Carnsew, Fairfield, Moss, Hillside, McClure, Pandora, Richardson, Rupert, South Turner and Vining.

The Sargent, featuring single pink blossom, is planted on Belmont, George, McKenzie, Pandora and Sutlej; the Higan can be found on Brighton and Prior streets.

A Higan-Yoshino hybrid is grown on Franklin Terrace, Park Boulevard, Montgomery and Phillipa Place.

An autumn-blooming Higan, under mild conditions, continues blooming from November to early April. It grows on Manor Road, Prior, St. Andrews, Southgate and Robertson.

The double white Higan is found on Redfern, the double pink Higan or Atsumori and the double rose Higan or Fukubana on Vancouver.

And, again like Washington, Victoria has a showing of magnolia, examples of which can be seen at 1000 Fairfield and on Linden Avenue.

Dr. Fields, head of the biology department, said his department is prepared and able to go ahead with graduate studies.

"We are not able to go on until we get sufficient financial support from the provincial government.

"It is a question of bringing the entire university up in all departments before we can start graduate work in any one department.

"There is a tremendous need for graduates throughout Canada and the provincial government should be willing to support us.

"Until then we shall just have to be doing what we can on a limited budget.

LESAGE PROTESTS TO GORDON

Quebec Joins Fight Against Bank Share Ban

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—The Quebec government is strongly protesting the federal government's move to prevent provincial investments in chartered banks.

Letters tabled in the Quebec legislature Tuesday show Premier Lesage wrote to federal finance minister Walter Gordon last month stating Quebec, like British Columbia, would like to invest in chartered banks.

He received the same answer as B.C.'s Premier Bennett — a flat rejection.

Lesage claimed in his letter this ban was a serious restriction, especially when the Quebec cabinet was considering the best way to invest funds from the Canada Pension Plan.

He said he could not see why limited ownership of shares in a chartered bank could not be allowed.

HAS JURISDICTION

Gordon stated in his reply that banking is an exclusive federal jurisdiction and the effective presence in banking of any other government could create confusion.

"In my opinion," Gordon wrote, this is not a serious restriction, since many other ways can be found to invest public funds."

In a speech to a Montreal service club Tuesday, Quebec Revenue Minister Eric Kierans said Gordon's ban would interfere seriously with provincial initiatives and obligations.

He said the federal plan to bar provinces and municipalities from ownership of bank shares amounts to virtual nationalization of the federally-chartered banks.

"The supremacy of the central bank over monetary policy is in no way threatened by provincial ownership of bank shares or by wholly owned provincial banks," he argued.

Cherry Trees Preparing Annual Show

Best ornamental tree display of the year come to full flower on Victoria boulevards in the next two weeks.

City parks department today issued its second pocket guide to flowering cherries and other blossom-bowed trees, listed according to streets.

Most popular is the Yoshino, a flowering Japanese cherry forming the basic planting in Washington D.C. tidal basin, and known widely at blossom time.

The largest examples are on Heywood and Trutch streets, which were planted 30 years ago. Younger trees are on the following streets:

Belmont Avenue, Cambridge, Carnsew, Fairfield, Moss, Hillside, McClure, Pandora, Richardson, Rupert, South Turner and Vining.

The Sargent, featuring single pink blossom, is planted on Belmont, George, McKenzie, Pandora and Sutlej; the Higan can be found on Brighton and Prior streets.

A Higan-Yoshino hybrid is grown on Franklin Terrace, Park Boulevard, Montgomery and Phillipa Place.

An autumn-blooming Higan, under mild conditions, continues blooming from November to early April. It grows on Manor Road, Prior, St. Andrews, Southgate and Robertson.

The double white Higan is found on Redfern, the double pink Higan or Atsumori and the double rose Higan or Fukubana on Vancouver.

And, again like Washington, Victoria has a showing of magnolia, examples of which can be seen at 1000 Fairfield and on Linden Avenue.

Policemen Promoted

Toronto Bureau Plans Counsel On Debt Issue

The Toronto Credit Bureau is planning to establish a debt counselling service, bureau manager R. M. Cox said in Victoria Tuesday.

Mr. Cox told delegates at a consumer credit conference that there is a backlog of between 4,000 and 5,000 people in the Toronto area who need the service.

He said once the initial backlog has been taken care of, he expected the service would handle about 200 persons a week who are in financial difficulty.

"Seven out of 10 persons using the service would only need advice on how to handle their debts. But the financial commitments of the rest would likely have to be pro-rated."

He said it is hoped the $35,000 a year budget which the service would require would be split between the municipality, social service organizations and businesses. The service would be free to the debtor.

Similar plans already exist in some centres with costs shared by the debtors and creditors.

Two-Tongue Politicians Urged for Canadian Cabinet

TORONTO (CP) — The royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism was told today that Canada's prime minister and all his cabinet should speak both French and English.

So should all federal employees and at least the higher ranks in the armed services, says the Byelorussian Canadian Alliance in a brief to be discussed by the commission.

The alliance's brief is the most extreme so far met by the commission. It insists on compulsory study of French and English in schools from the elementary level on.

In another brief to be discussed today, two publishers' organizations turn thumbs down on the idea of a uniform Canadian history book for all Canada.

The Canadian Book Publishers' Council says its affiliated Canadian Textbook Publishers' Institute feels a single version is neither "practicable nor desirable."

The council says regional interests and emphasis and scholarly interpretations vary too much. And the University of Toronto Press says:

"The notion that French-speaking and English-speaking Canadians should arrive at some general and mutually agreeable average view of the facts of history . . . is as unreasonable as to suppose that Liberals and Conservatives should have identical political views. . . ."

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind will ask the commission today to recommend government funds for it to carry out its program in French and English. Recordings and braille books would be equally available in both languages.

Three individual briefs question how far the rest of Canada should go in making Quebec happy.

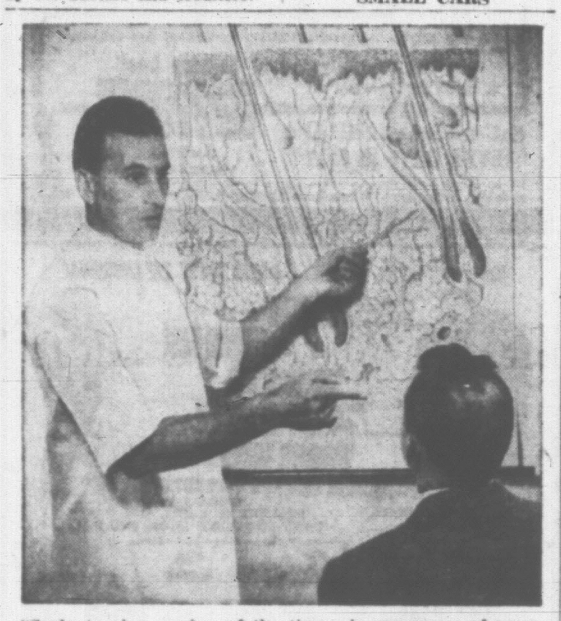

Dr. Edward McWhinney, law professor at U. of T., says apparently Quebec's demands for a bicultural dualistic conception of Canadian federalism have already been largely accepted. Everyone knows no viable federal government can be formed without French-Canadian support, so Quebec's constitutional spokesman should rely on political consensus rather than on mutual recriminations.

R. G. Andrews, marketing manager for a Toronto - area sales firm and a student of biculturalism, said Quebec should remember that it does not make up in size or population half of Canada. "Therefore, does it have the prerogative to seek 'equal partnership'?"

The Andrews and McWhinney briefs are to be discussed today. The third individual brief is that of Jean Howarth, editorial writer for The Globe and Mail.

She says Quebec's suddenly-heightened involvement in national affairs has had the "alarming" effect of emasculating Parliament. "If the price of Quebec's remaining in Confederation is the destruction of responsible government," she says, "then the price is too high."

"Scalp tension, a sign of the times, is one cause of your hair loss," says trichologist, M. D. Harrison to balding man. Harrison directs the famous Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists, whose main office is in Vancouver. He will be here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

How to save and improve your hair – demonstrated by expert here Thurs. and Friday

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness — and growing thicker hair—will be demonstrated in Victoria this Thursday and Friday, April 1 and 2. This news was released here today by M. D. Harrison, internationally famous director of Harrison's Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In his announcement, Harrison said that he, himself, will conduct the Victoria clinic. He will personaly examine hair-worried men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday at the Empress Hotel.

EXAMINE YOU FREE

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by seeing me," director Harrison said.

"Your only obligation is to yourself—to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison Home treatment, we will frankly tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

OFFERS NO CURE-ALL

Harrison emphasized that his new home treatment is neither "mail-order" nor "cure-all."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting any treatment," he pointed out. "There is no one cure-all that will correct every one of the 18 scalp disorders that cause most baldness."

Harrison said that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks, to get the best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the Harrison headquarters in Vancouver.

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Harrison trichologist at regular intervals."

WHO CAN BE HELPED?

Will this new treatment cure baldness? "No," said Harrison sincerely. "We cannot help men who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. Usually, we can grow more hair even where you have only 'fuzz' now."

The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late!

Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth of the organization behind it. Harrison and his affiliates maintain treatment clinics in Canada, the U.S., and Mexico. And their staff of trichologists regularly do extension work in more than 100 other cities.

Leonard A. Floyd before and after scalp treatment. Unretouched photographs made four months apart.

SATISFY 95%

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declared Harrison. "We satisfy more than 95 per cent of our clients, and have records to prove it.

"But to overcome the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate—and baldish—by the time he nerves himself to see a Harrison trichologist. He's tried everything. So he starts consoling himself with one of the old superstitions about hair That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss—and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today.

FREE SCALP EXAMINATION

See Mr. Harrison in person, learn how baldness can be stopped, and new hair grown on your own scalp. The new Harrison method permits you to actually stop your baldness and regrow hair in the privacy of your own home.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk at the Empress Hotel Thursday or Friday between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m. for Mr. Harrison's suite number.

You don't need an appointment. You won't be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Examinations are given in private.

Here is a spoofish thriller in which director Rene Clement follows the current vogue for mixing murder with merriment and chills with chuckles — and the clever black-and-white photography imbues the story with a gleaming menace.

There is also a noisy, clamorous musical score to emphasize the nightmarish quality of wild auto chases, faces behind mirrors, assassins creeping out of closets and trap doors and murderers hiding in attics.

Overall, in spite of the fine acting and expert direction, I found the story rather tedious. But it opens in fiercesome style when an American millionaire discovers that his wife has had an affair with a French gigolo (Alain Delon).

In somewhat medieval fashion he tells his henchmen:

"Go to Europe and bring me his head. I want to give it to my wife."

The wife screams in the approved style for horror films, and the action moves to Monte Carlo where Delon is captured by his pursuers and tortured as a prelude to decapitation.

There is more than a hint of morbid sadism in this sequence which I found distasteful. But Delon, of course, escapes and leads his pursuers a merry chase along the Cote d'Azur.

He finds refuge in a mission for down-and-outs; then goes to work as chauffeur for a sleek, wealthy young widow (Lola Allbright) and her coltish cousin (Jane Fonda).

★ ★ ★

In their Italian-style castle, he discovers Andre Oumansky living in an attic, roaming through concealed passages at night and watching through peep-holes and double-view mirrors.

Confronted by his suspicions, the wealthy widow admits that Oumansky is a bank robber who killed her husband two years before. He has been her lover ever since and she keeps him hidden from the police.

Delon makes love to Allbright and they plan to run away together. But Jane Fonda is jealous and thwarts their plans. The stage is set for another murder and a succession of dramatic surprises, very capably handled by director and cast.

It all builds up to an ironic climax, but somewhere between the dramatic opening and the clever finale, the story is lost between farce and melodrama.

ST. ROCH SCHOONER TO GO ON DISPLAY

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP schooner St. Roch, first vessel to navigate the Northwest Pasage from west to east, will be preserved as a national historic monument at a cost of $70,000, the northern affairs department announced Tuesday.

The ship also was the first to conquer the passage in a single season and to circumnavigate North America, the department said.

The 134-fool long, two-masted vessel, built in 1928 at North Vancouver, will get a closed shelter near Vancouver's Maritime Museum.

'Not So Much' Show Not Any More Now

LONDON (AP)—The stinging satire show that gave ulcers to the management of the BBC is going off the air as scheduled April 11 and will not return in its present form.

The BBC's director-general, Sir Hugh Greene, announced Monday night that Not so Much a Program, More a Way of Life will, like its satirical predecessor, That Was the Week That Was, become the show that was.

Greene told a BBC interviewer last weekend that the show would go on next fall. But the show came under new attack after its Sunday night broadcast.

A panellist, acid-tongued critic Bernard Levin, called Conservative Party Leader Sir Alec Douglas-Home "a cretin." The program also included a skit on the Duke and Duchess of Windsor only hours after the death of the Princess Royal, the duke's sister.

'ERROR OF JUDGMENT'

Greene conceded the skit was "an error of judgment."

"The difficulty is to combine freedom of expression with responsibility," he said. "The format used is not entirely successful."

The BBC's first try at satire began in the fall of 1962 with That Was The Week That Was (TW3), now running in the United States. David Frost, master of ceremonies on the original version, is handling the same job on the U.S. version and on Not So Much A Program. . . . He commutes between New York and London by jet.

TW3, more popular than its successor, was bounced off the air last year before the campaign for the Oct. 15 general election. TV critics said the show was doing too good a job of ribbing pompous politicians.

82 Flee from Cuba

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A group of 82 men, women and children defected from Cuba in two boats Saturday. The U.S. Coast Guard utility boats towed the open boats ashore. Some in the group were armed and about six of them wore Cuban army uniforms.

WINNER of Harvard Lampoon's annual 'Roscoe' award as worst actress of the year is Carroll Baker. The student newspaper cited "all the films she made" in 1964. Named worst actor is James Franciscus for his performance in Youngblood Hawke. Worst movies of the year included The Greatest Story Ever Told and The Carpetbaggers.

Bail Allowed For Woman Shoplifter

A woman who pleaded guilty to shoplifting Monday was released on bail Tuesday by Magistrate William Ostler.

The magistrate said he would allow her free on bail awaiting sentence only because of her family situation.

But he told Mrs. Patricia Winder, 1535 Morrison, that he had no sympathy for her.

Magistrate Ostler said shoplifting is on the increase in the city. He said offenders should realize that shoplifting is just as serious an offence as any other form of theft.

BEST ACTRESS AWARD

LONDON (AP)—Fifteen years ago Audrey Hepburn began her active career as a chorus girl on the stage of the London Hippodrome in High Button Shoes. She was back Tuesday night—to collect a British film academy award as the best British film actress of the year. The award was for her performance in Charade. She walked on the same stage.

LOVE COMMUNIST STYLE

'Work Hard on Wedding Day'

TOKYO (AP) — How should newlyweds in Communist China conduct wedding receptions?

Engaged couples took the question to the editor of the Nan - Fang Jih - Pao (Southern Daily) in Canton. He solicited opinions from his readers and they came up with an answer:

"Continue working on your wedding day so as not to affect production, buy some sweets (to symbolize a 'sweet' future life) and give a simple evening party."

All the readers opposed lavish banquets, once popular.

"Holding a feast was a practice adopted by landlords and rich people who lived by the labor of others," commented one reader.

Issues of the provincial newspaper received in Tokyo indicated couples were torn between allegiance to the government's austerity programs, and pleas from parents to follow traditions and hold lavish parties.

One reader told newlyweds to forget about age-old customs that required dowries—"a bourgeois idea"—and to concentrate on hard work and frugal living.

Medicare Costs Hike 'Reasonable'

REGINA (CP) — Dr. R. G. Murray of Saskatoon, chairman of the Saskatchewan Medical Care Insurance Commission, expressed "cautious optimism" on the future of the medical care plan in the commission's annual report released today.

"The increase in costs is felt to be reasonable in the light of rising costs for physicians' services across Canada. This subject is under constant review and measures have been initiated to keep increases at a minimum," Dr. Murray said.

In the report for 1964, the commission said 99.87 per cent of the population was covered under federal and provincial programs compared with 99.81 per cent in 1963.

During the year the medical care insurance act covered 879,224 persons, or 93.24 per cent, other provincial programs covered 3.5 per cent.

MORE CLAIMS

The commission paid 12.6 per cent more, 2,203,900 claims representing $20,438,948 during the year compared with 1,956,415 claims in 1963.

The payment represented a gross increase of 11.6 per cent over the $18,329,564 paid in 1963.

However, the commission said adjustments had been made to avoid a "misleading" comparison. Some services were not provided before 1964 and these adjustments resulted in a net increase of 7.7 per cent.

Using this percentage, the commission said the per capita cost rose to $23.53 from $22.25.

While costs for services increased, administration costs decreased. Last year administration cost $1,262,124 or 5.45 of the total. In 1963 the figure was $1,225,855 of 5.71 per cent.

TOTAL PAYMENTS

Including payments for scholarships and bursaries and a grant to the Swift Current Health Region, total payments amounted to $23,155,188 in 1964, an overall total increase of eight per cent compared with 1963.

The report showed 87 per cent of the families covered received benefits during 1964. The average payment was $75 compared with $67 in 1963.

On an individual basis, payments were made to 601,000 people.

The medical care insurance plan, inaugurated by the then CCF government on July 1, 1962, provides prepaid coverage to Saskatchewan residents for a wide range of physicians and physiotherapists services. Together with other programs such as prepaid hospital care, cancer and mental health services administered by other agencies, it forms part of the province's publicly financed compulsory health services.

The plan is financed by premiums, and by part of the four per cent (five per cent in 1964) sales tax. Premiums now are $72 for a family, $24 for medical and $48 for hospital, and $36 for a single person, $12 medical and $24 hospital.

Premiums last year amounted to $5,272,212 or 24.59 per cent of the total payments. The government contributed $14,954,000 from the sales tax receipts of 69.74 per cent and 5.67 per cent or $1,217,767 was realized from interest and miscellaneous receipts.

The report showed there were 980 registered physicians in the province during 1964, a ratio of one for every 962 people. It showed there were 900 physicians in the province in 1961 at the height of the medical care crisis.

One year later, the number of doctors registered dropped to 881, but climbed to 939 in 1963.

APPOINTED western Canada information officer for Expo 67 is Ron Gadsby, recreation department co-ordinator of service for the past seven years. He will make his headquarters in Vancouver.

'GOVERNMENT STREET INVIOLATE'—MAYOR

Talks Resume on Empress Rezoning

New talks on rezoning Empress Hotel property were held at city hall Tuesday between Canadian Pacific Railway officers and Mayor R. B. Wilson.

The proposal to allow commercial development has been made before but rejected by city council which wants to maintain the character of the area.

Talks in the mayor's office were informal and came to no conclusions, according to Empress manager Leslie Parkinson and Mayor Wilson.

With Mr. Parkinson was CPR regional vice-president, C. A. Colpitts of Vancouver, and Fred Joplin, special projects engineer.

CPR CONCERNED

The mayor said the railway company is concerned about how to improve hotel accommodation and provide better service for such functions as large conventions, and how to make the best possible use of the land available.

Previous suggestions were for construction of an apartment building adjoining the hotel, a convention centre, and a specialty shopping arcade at Government and Humboldt.

"Any way we can assist them without destroying the beauty of the harbor would seem to make sense," the mayor said.

"We would want to preserve the Inner Harbor, of course. It wouldn't be the same without the hotel. The Government Street area is inviolate," the mayor stated.

Everyone Buy Canadian And Profit

TORONTO (CP) — Canadians could give themselves a Confederation birthday present of 100,000 additional jobs a year if they could be sold on an effective "buy Canadian" program, George Hees, former Conservative trade minister, said Saturday.

Addressing a conference of Rotary Clubs of southern Ontario, Mr. Hees, now president of the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges, said:

"It can be done if we are willing to make a determined and planned effort to do it. It seems to me that such an effort would be about the best birthday present we could give our country and our fellow Canadians when we celebrate our 100th birthday, July 1, 1967."

Mr. Hees cited an example set by Northern Electric Company Limited, which has decided to buy Canadian-made components when possible.

Of 10,000 parts imported in 1962, about 92 per cent were ordered from Canadian manufacturers;

Canada thus saved $15,000,000 annually in foreign exchange because of the company's policy and 2,500 new jobs were created. The company profited, too.

Eatons Plan New Saskatoon Store

TORONTO (CP) — The T. Eaton Co. Ltd. has announced it plans to build a three-storey department store at a shopping centre to be constructed in Saskatoon.

The company said its store will be substantially larger than its present 140,000-square-foot store in Saskatoon, which will be offered for sale when the new one opens in 1967. The cost of the proposed building was not revealed.

'Reserves Should Double'

OTTAWA (CP)—Alberta and Southern Gas Company Limited told the National Energy Board Tuesday that Canada's total natural gas reserves of 40,700 billion cubic feet should more than double in the next 10 years.

Alberta and Southern, applying to the board for permission to export more Alberta gas to Californian markets, said there is a correlation between the reserves and the market incentive for gas in western Alberta.

Growth of initial marketable reserves of 3,400 billion cubic feet a year can be expected as an average for the next 10 years, bringing initial reserves to about 86,000 billion cubic feet by the end of 1974.

The energy board said in its 1964 report on an application by Westcoast Transmission Company Limited that total remain-British Columbia were estimated at 4,800 billion cubic feet.

But Westcoast, intervening in the application by Alberta and Southern, told the board Tuesday that Westcoast already has 6,473 billion cubic feet of B.C. gas available, plus 932 billion cubic feet of Alberta gas from the Peace River district.

Westcoast geologists and engineers said that in its Fort St. John pipeline system the company has 500,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas a day through 1977. Available to the Fort Nelson system is 600,000,000 cubic feet a day.

CPR PROFITS REGISTER GAIN

$2.50 Paid on Ordinary Shares

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Pacific Railway Co. paid $2.50 a share on ordinary stock for 1964 compared to $1.50 the previous year.

The company's annual report released Tuesday night, said net income from railway and miscellaneous sources, and with fixed charges subtracted, with $44,069,952, compared with $40,126,111 for 1963.

After providing for four-percent dividends on preference stock, the balance of such income amounted to $40,679,894, or $2.89 on each share of the ordinary stock. The 1963 figure was $36,719,131 or $2.56 per share.

From this, dividends of $1.50 per ordinary share were declared and the sum of $19,181,210 was transferred to retained income.

Income from Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary, came to $14,332,456, equivalent to $1 per ordinary share of the parent company.

This brought dividends paid on ordinary stock for 1964 to $2.50. Net income on Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd. for 1964 was $19,229,131, the report said. This compared with $496,516 the previous year.

SAYS INCOME DROP

The company said CPR's 1964 income from miscellaneous sources other than railway operations and from such investments as steamships, airlines, hotels, telecommunications and highway transport, was $16,789,523.

This figure came after provision for income taxes of $5,660,000, and marked a decrease of $4,612,874, from such income in 1963.

The company said "an improvement of some $5,000,000 in air line results was more than offset by the reduction in income related to securities and assets transferred to CPL."

The report listed anticipated capital appropriations of $81,415,633 for 1965.

Major expenditures will be for new diesel locomotives and rolling stock, telecommunications, and for truck, signals and other road facilities.

The report said CPI income for 1964 included dividends of about $13,600,000 from Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co.; $2,500,000 from Canadian Pacific Oil and Gas Ltd.; $519,317 from Pacific Logging Co. Ltd; and $200,0000 from Marathon Realty Co. Ltd.

Dividends and interest income from CPI's investment portfolio amounted to $3,400,000, said the report.

West Kootenay Profits Decline

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—The profit of the West Kootenay Power and Light Co. declined in 1964 for the second straight year, president R. G. Anderson said Tuesday.

In his annual report, Mr. Anderson said 1964 net earnings were $738,136, down about $24,000 from $752,850 1963 earnings.

Return on investment fell below 6 per cent, compared to an even 6 per cent return the previous year.

Mr. Anderson attributed the decline to substantial cost increases—particularly in wages, property taxes, water fees, depreciation and interest.

Are you unhappy because you didn't receive your income tax form?
Are you unhappy because you lost it?

Cheer up.
You can get one at the Post Office.

If you've changed your address, or did not file a return last year, you likely won't receive an income tax form in the mail. It isn't that we forgot you. It's just that we don't know where you are — yet. So we've made sure that there are lots of extra forms at all local Post Offices (or if it's handier, your District Taxation Office). They aren't the new Personalized income tax forms. But you'll have that to look forward to next year.

Maybe you did receive an Income Tax Form in the mail and now you can't find it. Seems a pity to lose it. That was your Personalized form and it had your own identification code number on it. Why don't you have one last look before you go to get another plain old everyday tax form from the Post Office.

$350,000 Renovation For Key Radio Station

The 44-year-old weather and marine radio station at Bull Harbor on Hope Island near the north end of Vancouver Island will be completely renovated.

Cost of the project is expected to be around $350,000.

Tenders will be called and a contract awarded in July. Work should be completed before the winter of 1966.

The announcement was made Tuesday by R. A. Cole, regional controller of telecommunications and electronics, department of transport.

He said rehabilitation will include construction of a wharf, road, oil pipeline, water supply, two additional dwellings, a fire-protection system, a new radio transmitter building and services plus installation of larger diesel electric generating plants.

The Bull Harbor radio station has served coastal and trans-Pacific shipping since it was first set up in 1921.

Exposed to the wind and weather of the north Pacific, it has been a key staiton in assisting marine operations.

Its present officer-in-charge is J. H. Whiteside.

Intensive Care Unit For Hospital

DUNCAN—The new $4,000,000 Cowichan District Hospital will be the first in B.C. to have a 12-bed intensive care unit.

Details of the new building were disclosed Tuesday as the April 10 date approaches when Duncan and North Cowichan electors vote on meeting their shares of the extra cost. (This was made necessary after the lowest bid turned out to be $500,000 higher than original estimates.)

Administrator Ken Noton said the intensive care unit would cater to acutely ill patients, with a nurse on duty 24 hours a day.

Although a small four-bed ward in St. Joseph's Hospital, Victoria, serves the same purpose, the Cowichan hospital is the first in B.C. to provide facilities on such a large scale.

FOURTH FLOOR SHELL

Other features of the hospital, which will be sited on 10½ acres at Government Street and Gibbons Road, are:

A fourth floor will be a shell for future expansion. Total capacity will be 187 beds but only 125 will be available when the hospital opens.

Another 25 can be installed quickly if needed. The basic need of 125 was set by B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

Main items on the ground floor will be a complete emergency unit, a four-room operating theatre and a post-anaesthetic room.

Other features will be complete radiology, X-ray and physiotherapy departments, two psychiatric rooms, a children's admitting room, board room, sun rooms, case rooms, treatment and conference rooms for each ward, central supply room, lab and dietary facilities, outpatients' clinic, women's auxiliary gift shop, small chapel, general offices, medical records centre and admitting office.

Help Asked In Getting Sewer Loan

LADYSMITH — Ladysmith council Monday asked the support of Colin Cameron, MP, and the Vancouver Island Association of Municipalities, in getting a federal loan towards the installation of a $500,000 sewer system.

Mr. Cameron and the association will be asked to press the government to extend the municipal loan development fund to guarantee Ladysmith a $237,000 loan.

Mayor Kathleen Grouhel explained B.C. had used up its quota. Work in this province was more extensive and more costly compared to the eastern provinces, she said.

Ladysmith wants the surplus of other provinces diverted to B.C.

The rest of the necessary money will come from the NHA and through government-approved debentures.

Lions Postpone Minstrel Show

NANAIMO—The Lions Club here has postponed its annual minstrel show which was to have been held April 21 to 24.

No date for the show has been set.

V.I.-MAINLAND LINK 'NOT IN THE CARDS'

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi Tuesday put a damper on any hopes of a road or rail link between Vancouver Island and the mainland in the near future.

The minister was commenting in Vancouver on a suggestion for such a scheme proposed recently by the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

The chambers set up a committee to study the possibility of a link. They will report their finding at next year's annual meeting.

Mr. Gaglardi said the move was "premature", and was "not in the cards" at present.

OTTAWA IN MAY

Youbou Youth Going To Smoking Parley

James Perkins of Youbou has been chosen to represent Vancouver Island at a Canadian youth conference on smoking and health in Ottawa May 13 and 14.

He is one of four students chosen from B.C.

Health Minister Eric Martin said Tuesday each has at least one year of school left. Selection was made through the education department.

The minister said a senior member of his department will accompany the youths as a chaperone.

"Although none of the students is a smoker," he said, "there was no insistence on their being non-smokers.

"On the contrary, it is thought that the conference may be more productive of ideas concerning the motivational aspects of smoking if cigarette smokers are included and it is probable representatives from other provinces may include smokers."

The conference, first of its kind, is sponsored by the department of national health and welfare.

Three Projects for Centennial

NANAIMO—The local centennial committee Monday night announced a three-fold project to mark Canada's 1967 centenary.

The project consists of a 10-sheet curling rink which could be adapted to summer hockey and figure skating schools, a museum and theatre.

Cost is estimated at $410,000.

The rink and theatre would be on the old Madill property next to Nanaimo Civic Arena and the museum would be incorporated into the Gordon Street development.

The centennial committee has asked to meet with city council to further discuss the plans.

Government Ready to Pay Indians' Legal Expenses

OTTAWA (CP)—Two British Columbia Indians whose rights to hunt out of season have been upheld by the provincial court of appeal will be offered legal aid by the federal government if the province appeals to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Citizenship Minister Nicholson Tuesday told the Commons it has been departmental practice to give legal aid in cases concerning Indians' hunting and fishing rights where the expected decision will clarify the law.

B.C. Court of Appeal has upheld a previous decision that a royal proclamation of 1763 giving Indians on the west coast of North America their hunting and fishing rights still applies to west coast Indians.

SHOT DEER

Clifford White and David Bob of the Nanaimo Indian band shot deer out of season to feed their families. They were charged and convicted by a magistrate under B.C. game laws, but a County Court judge reversed the decision. The province's appeal to the B.C. appeal court was rejected.

Reports have indicated the province may appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

'NO CITY HALL CONTROL'

Purdy Wants Trustee-Run Theatre

The McPherson Playhouse should be run by trustees, a leading theatre supporter said today.

"I want to see the theatre come out of city hall control," said Allan Purdy, administrator of the Festival Theatre Society.

Expanding on an address he made to Victoria Kiwanis, he questioned the qualifications of city officials to operate the civic theatre.

It was like saying an insurance company claims manager or a reporter were competent to go into the mining business.

Whoever was theatre manager, he could not move on any major policy without going through city hall channels.

MUST ACT FAST

If there was a hit show in Vancouver or Seattle and an empty night at the McPherson, the manager needed to act immediately to book and arrange publicity.

"Under the city hall atmosphere this is impossible," he said.

The theatre needed a sign showing where the box office is, and it has to go to the treasurer, bids called and then a decision made.

"Yet, we are trying to sell tickets," he said. "A trusteeship would avoid this."

In many European cities where civic theatres have been successful, direct management of the theatre has been removed from all forms of political control.

LEFT ALONE

Trustees were appointed, including representatives from the city, and left to pursue their policies utilizing people with the knowledge and experience necessary in such a specialized field.

"I know of no successful civic theatre that is left under the direct control of city management and certainly I'm sure that none could exist for long in that kind of atmosphere," he told Kiwanis.

$50,000 LOSS

He said annual operating cost of the McPherson will approach $100,000 but guessed maximum income in a good year will not exceed $50,000.

He said it gives him no pleasure to suggest criticism of the city's management policy for the new theatre.

"I have inquired into what policy there is—or might be for the theatre. I can find none."

It might be too late if a policy evolves as a result of trial and error.

Errors in the entertainment field can be costly and when these costs are carried by taxpayers "then we have a right to question the reason why."

Fund to Help Homeless City Family

A fund has been started by neighbors to repair fire damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Young, 1165 Oscar, and their six children.

The upstairs of the Young residence was destroyed by fire last Thursday night leaving the family homeless. They had no insurance coverage.

Neighbors on Oscar Street and in the Fairfield district have opened the Young Benevolent Trust Fund at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce at Douglas and Cormorant. Donations should be sent there.

A benefit dance will be held April 9 at the Elks Club Hall and tickets will be available through district merchants or the Elks Club.

'Sex Orgies' Alleged During March

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative William L. Dickinson (Rep.-Ala.) charged Tuesday that "drunkeness and sex orgies", marked last week's civil rights march in Alabama.

He said in a speech to the House of Representatives that such misconduct was "the order of the day in Selma, on the road to Montgomery and in Montgomery."

He charged also that "the Communist party and the Communist apparatus is the undergirdling structure for all the racial troubles in Alabama for the past three months."

Dickinson represents the congressional district which includes Montgomery.

Charles Blackwell, program director of march leader Dr. Martin Luther King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference, called Dickinson's remarks "garbage."

Hospital Stays Open Unless . . .

NANAIMO—The Indian hospital here will not be closed unless provincial and local authorities have enough space to handle a possible increased caseload.

The statement was made by federal Health Minister Judy LaMarsh in a letter to Nanaimo lawyer Douglas Greer, a federal Liberal candidate.

In reiterating the explanation she gave Parliament in February, Miss LaMarsh said the three Indian hospitals in B.C. are used mainly for tuberculosis treatment.

Improved treatment methods have cut down the caseload and more hospital space is available than needed.

The hospitals are located in Sardis, Nanaimo and Prince Rupert. Miss LaMarsh hinted one would be closed but not before April, 1966.

She reported informal talks have been held with BCHIS but the provincial body has not informed Ottawa of its official position on the closure question

TWO SURVEYS ORDERED ON CENTRAL COLLEGE

NANAIMO—Businessmen and students will be interviewed in the coming months to establish the need for a regional college in central Vancouver Island.

Plans for two surveys to determine the answer to the long-standing question were announced Tuesday by Nanaimo district school board.

Running the surveys will be a special co-ordinating committee under Dr. Leonard Marsh of University of British Columbia.

The committee will include representatives from all Island school districts north of the Malahat.

One survey will check the background, interests and future plans of virtually all grade 12 students in the area.

The second survey will canvass industries and businesses to learn future employment and training needs.

Both will be conducted by school counsellors who have volunteered their services.

Dr. Marsh expects to deliver a preliminary report in September and a comprehensive report in January.

The January report will include recommendations on whether a college is needed and if so, where.

It will also suggest what courses might best be offered, financial arrangements and successive steps in organization.

Careful phrasing of questions to students will allow statistical study of the answers through computers.

Red Cross Drive Expected To Hit Target

DUNCAN—Today was the last day of the Cowichan fund-raising campaign of the Red Cross Society.

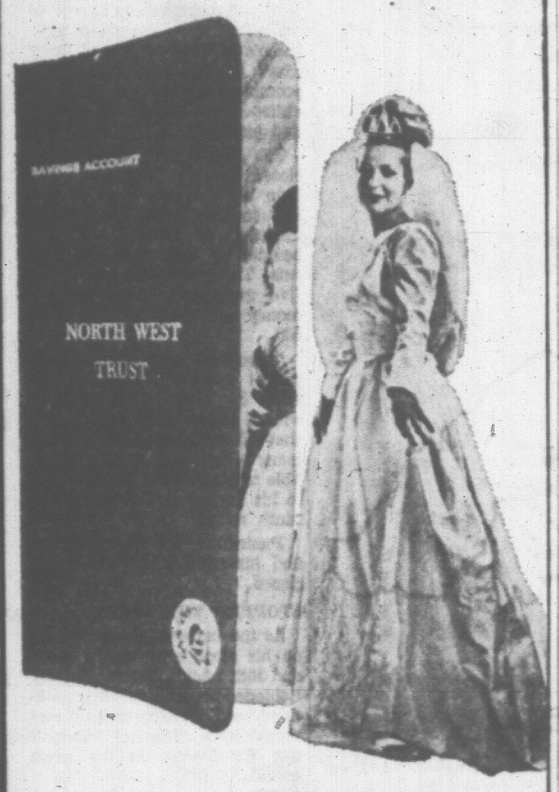

Campaign chairman Harold Whitfield of Duncan said this morning: "We have passed the halfway mark and when all the returns are in from our 225 canvassers we expect to have hit the target of $7,500."

Last year the Cowichan branch fell short of the same target figure by some $600.

Mr. Whitfield blamed the slow start to this year's campaign on the lengthy layoff in the logging industry which meant serious local unemployment.

Peppy Power Play Lifts Leafs' Hopes

Pilous Predicts Victoria Win In Six Games

A pepped-up power play could prove to be the key to Victoria Maple Leafs' hopes of a semifinal victory in the Western Hockey League playoffs.

The Leafs, displaying quiet confidence, moved into Seattle Tuesday night and will open their best-of-seven series with the Totems tonight.

The second game also will be played in Seattle, Friday, before teams move into Victoria's Memorial Arena for games Saturday night and next Tuesday.

Other games, if required, will be played April 9 (in Seattle), April 10 (in Victoria) and April 11 (in Seattle).

SIX, HE SAYS

Victoria coach Rudy Pilous predicted Tuesday his Leafs would "win in six games."

"I'm not much on predictions," Pilous said at the Leafs' weekly hockey luncheon, "If you hit it right, people say, 'What the heck, he's supposed to know.' And if you don't hit it, they say, 'This guy doesn't know . . .

"But someone asked me, and here's what I think: If we stay strong, physically, we'll get the job done in six games. I emphasize 'physically' because we haven't got that strong kind of a bench.

Happy to be in the post-season parade, Pilous likes his team's chances because "the players are skating. Mentally and physically, they're in as good shape as they have been at any time this season."

FINISHED STRONGLY

He also points to the improved power play.

During the regular, 70-game schedule, Leafs scored only 46 goals while enjoying a man advantage. Only Los Angeles Blades, who finished in the cellar, fared worse in that department.

In a weekend series with Vancouver, however, the Leafs scored four power-play goals.

Winger Ed Ehrenverth, inserted into the odd-man attack "by chance," seems to have made the difference.

"Ed's fitted in perfectly," said Pilous. "It's tough to get five guys to think alike, but I think we have the right five out there now."

In addition to Ehrenverth, the new-look power play consists of Lou Jankowski at centre, John Sleaver and the Hucul brothers —Sandy and Fred.

Tonight's Victoria - Seattle game will be broadcast over radio station CKDA, starting 8:05.

Insurance for Canucks

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Canucks have acquired some playoff goaltender insurance in the form of Jean-Guy Morrisette.

Manager Max McNab said Morrisette was purchased from the New York Rangers just in case something else happens to Gilles Villemure, Canucks' star goaltender.

Villemure suffered a leg injury in Victoria last weekend but will play in Portland Wednesday in the first game of the best-of-seven Western Hockey League semifinal.

JOSE TORRES
. . . wants Cassius

Bankroll Opened Route; Torres' Fists Did Rest

NEW YORK (CP)—Until a Brooklyn real estate operator came along with a bankroll, Jose Torres for years had to perform in the shadow of Floyd Patterson.

Today, Torres is the new world light-heavyweight champion and the darling of New York's huge Spanish community. Now he wants to fight Cassius Clay for the heavyweight championship, and he may get the chance.

The Puerto Rican belter dropped world champion Willie Pastrano with a jolting left hook to the kidney and took away his 175-pound title on a technical knockout in the ninth round Tuesday night, winding up a doubleheader championship card.

In the opener, Emile Griffith retained his welterweight crown on a unanimous 15-round decision over Jose Stable.

A crowd of 18,112 paid a record $239,056 to watch the first twin championship show in the 40 - year history of Madison Square Garden. The crowd would have been larger, but the management decided not to sell standing-room tickets.

Torres, 28, and Patterson were once managed by Cus d'Amato. Patterson climbed to the heavyweight title but Torres, fighting as a middleweight, never got a crack at a title until Tuesday night.

GUARANTEED PURSES

A year ago Cain Young, a Negro real estate dealer, took over Torres' career and began guaranteeing the purses of the top contenders in the middleweight and light-heavyweight divisions.

Young guaranteed Bobo Olson $10,000 and Torres knocked out Olson in the first round last Nov. 27 and that led to the match with Pastrano.

Young made Tuesday night's card possible when he agreed to make up any losses in Pastrano's $100,000 purse. But there won't be any even though the promoters staked virtually the entire gate money on purses and expenses.

The profit will come from closed circuit television. The twin bill was shown in 86 outlets in the United States and Canada. In Canada, it was beamed to Edmonton and Toronto. The promoters expect the live gross gate and the TV money will total around $700,000.

"Who's an overstuffed middleweight now?" shouted Torres after he tore Pastrano apart with a tremendous body attack that left the 29-year-old New Orleans - born champion barely able to stand when he struggled to his corner at the end of the ninth round.

STOPPED THE FIGHT

As the battered champion sat on his stool between the ninth and 10th rounds, referee Johnny Loblanco stopped the fight. Under New York State rules it was scored as a technical knockout win for Torres in the ninth round.

Torres started Willie's downfall early in the sixth round when he caught the champion with a left hook to the kidney. It paralysed Pastrano.

The stunning blow, coming on top of the heavy punishment Pastrano had absorbed almost from the start, dropped the champion for the first time in his 14-year ring career. He barely got to his feet at the count of nine.

Torres gave him a merciless lacing for 90 seconds, working on both the body and head. But Pastrano wouldn't go down for good.

"I was too eager," said Torres in his dressing room, admitting that he had almost punched himself out.

However, Pastrano's starch was gone by the halfway mark and his legs were heavy. It then became a question of how long Pastrano would last in his third defence of the title he won from Harold Johnson on a 15-round decision June 1, 1963.

It was the 13th loss for Pastrano, who has won 63 and drawn eight in a career started when he was 15 years old.

Torres weighed 171¼, Pastrano 174½.

SHOWED GOOD FORM

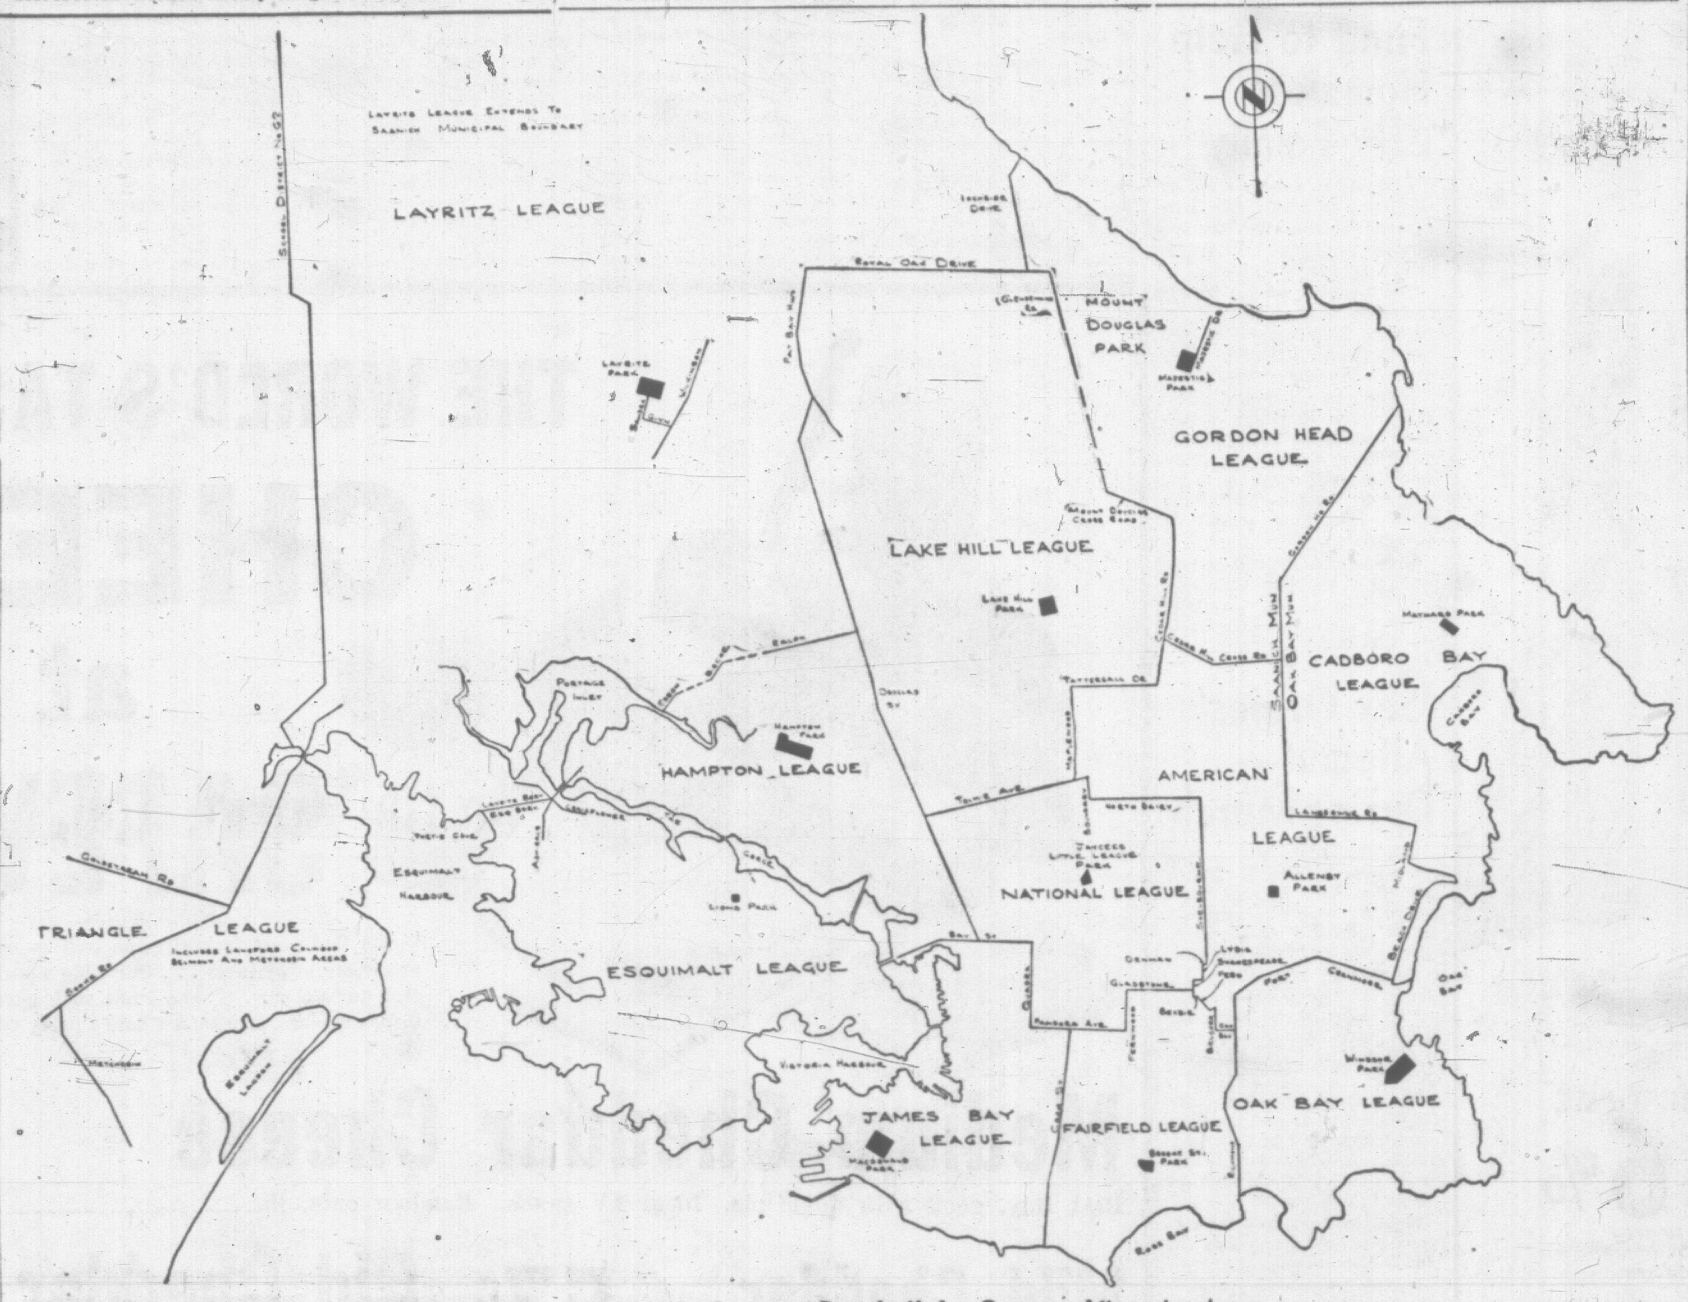

Griffith, the only fighter to win the welterweight title three times, was making his 11th appearance in a title fight, and he showed he's just about the best boxer - puncher for his weight around.

He jabbed beautifully against Stable, used his right to slow up the onrushing slugger when he needed to, and then whacked Stable good with right uppercuts in the closing rounds. There were no knockdowns.

Referee Art Mercante had it 11-4 and judges Al Berl and Frank Forbes 9-5-1 and 8-6-1 respectively.

Griffith weighed 146½, Stable 146.

Emile, once a milliner but now a wealthy man, picked up at least $70,000 for his efforts.

PHOENIX HAS IDEAS

Offer to Buy Canucks 'Ridiculous' Says Max

VANCOUVER (CP)—A report that Phoenix hockey promoters were negotiating to buy Vancouver's franchise in the Western Hockey League have been termed "ridiculous" by Max McNab, Vancouver Canucks' general manager.

Don Porteous, manager of the Phoenix Hockey Club, said in Phoenix that $100,000 would be offered for the outright purchase of both the Vancouver Canucks and its league franchise.

He said another $100,000 would be required to make the transfer, meet player contract commitments and set up a training camp.

★ ★ ★

McNab said he had not heard of any offer from Phoenix and "the price is ridiculous. It would have to be a better offer than that to even be considered."

Porteous said Phoenix plans to build an independent operation had to be abandoned because "there just weren't enough uncommitted players around."

He said the present Vancouver arena will only seat about 4,000 which was insufficient to meet demands for expansion.

★ ★ ★

In Seattle, Al Leader, president of the WHL, commented: "I haven't heard a thihg about it. I don't think the Vancouver owners know about it either, except through the news report."

Little Leaguers Now Have Chance For Canadian Title

Little League baseballers will finally get a chance to win a Canadian championship.

For the first time since Little League started mushrooming across Canada, a true Canadian champion will compete in the Little League World Series at Williamsport, Pa., Aug. 23-28.

In past years, Canada has been represented by the Eastern Canada champion while western teams attempted to qualify by playing in the Pacific Northwest zone.

This season, a national final will be played in Toronto, with the western winner in the field.

Next year, a full-scale tournament is planned for Victoria. It will include the Ontario, Quebec-Maritimes, Prairie and B.C. champions.

FIRST STEPS

Victoria's Little Leaguers take their first steps this week on the trail they hope will lead to a national crown for one of the area's teams.

Youngsters between eight and 12 who wish to play baseball must register this weekend.

All boys who were born between Aug., 1952, and July 31, 1956, are eligible to play with major clubs. Any boy who reaches his eighth birthday before Aug. 1 will be eligible for play in the minor system.

Boys must register with leagues in the areas in which they reside. The map above shows area boundaries.

Birth certificates will be required by all boys registering for the first time in any league.

All leagues except the James Bay League will hold registrations Friday from 6:30 to 8 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Sunday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

James Bay boys will sign up on only two days—Friday from 6 to 8 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Registration sites are:

American, Allenby Park.
Cadboro Bay, Maynard Park.
Central and North Saanich, North-Sanscha Hall, Central Centennial Park (Wallace Drive).
Esquimalt, registered earlier.
Fairfield, Hollywood Park.
Hampton, Hampton Park.

PASTRANO MAY RETIRE

My Effort 'Horrible' Admits Weary Willie

NEW YORK (UPI)—"I wanted to knock him out," roared the jubilant but surprised Jose Torres, new light heavyweight champion of the world.

"I was stunned for a minute when they stopped it but Willie Pastrano was a great champion and I took his best punches all the way. Now I want the middleweight champion (Joey Giardello) and the heavyweight champion (Cassius Clay). I'm ready for anybody."

WILLIE SOBS

Pastrano, cut and badly beaten for nine rounds, sobbed in his corner as referee Joe Lobianco signalled the bout was over and his title had gone.

"But he was justified," Pastrano said later in his dressing room. "My performance was horrible. I'm very tired and I'll have to think a long time before I ever fight again."

NO AUTHORITY

But if Willie was contented at the referee's decision to stop the fight, his handlers were not.

"The referee has no authority to stop a fight between rounds," stormed his manager, Angelo Dundee. Willie's corner men agreed.

Countered the fallen champion: "I never took such a beating in my life."

Torres, who said he trained to defend against Pastrano's jabs and left hooks, called it a fight "every bit as tough as I expected."

"You think it looked easy? It wasn't. I had respect for him to the end but after knocking him down with a left to the ribs in the sixth I wanted to keep wearing him down and knock him out to prove I am a great champion."

First to see Pastrano after the fight were his wife Faye and three doctors who checked him over for 45 minutes before other visitors were admitted.

"Every round was uphill," he finally admitted. "A rematch? No! I don't even know now whether I want to fight ever again."

After a few brief statements, Pastrano said wearily, "Fellas, I'd like to go now if it's okay with you."

It was.

Tiger Pilot 'On Schedule'

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) —Charley Dressen, manager of Detroit Tigers, will be released from hospital Thursday.

Dresen, 66, who suffered a heart attack March 8, was reported in "good shape" and "right on schedule" on his way to recovery.

NHL Scheme for Expansion May Skip Seattle, Portland

EDMONTON (CP) — Two National Hockey League officials said Tuesday professional hockey will return to the Prairies about the time the NHL expands.

President Clarence Campbell of Montreal and Stafford Smythe, Toronto Maple Leaf president, said in phone interviews a proposed new league would be patterned after the successful Central Professional Hockey League which operates in the United States.

Smythe said the new league would include some Western Hockey League clubs and provide professional hockey for certain Prairie centres. He predicted it would operate as a two-division league with the CPHL, including an interlocking schedule.

Campbell said it is possible Seattle and Portland would be left out of NHL expansion plans.

"This is one reason many of us thought Portland and Seattle were wrong to play with the California cities (Los Angeles and San Francisco) who were behind the exit of the Prairies from pro hockey."

If the CPHL standard is adopted, Campbell said, each club would have 10 players 23 years or younger. He said new major league teams would have to introduce their own farm systems and indicated the Prairies would be a natural place to start.

Campbell indicated Edmonton's chances of entering the new circuit would be "excellent" if a new arena was built.

FALONEY'S DEMANDS . . . . . STARTLE ALOUETTES

Pay Me $200,000 or Trade Me

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says Bernie Faloney, former quarterback of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference, wants more than $200,000 over a three-year contract to play football for Montreal Alouettes.

Sports editor Jim Vipond quotes Faloney in a copyright story as saying that if the contract demand is out of line, he would like to be traded to Toronto Argonauts.

Faloney, 32, was traded to Montreal by Hamilton during the winter in a deal involving eight players. A former all-American at the University of Maryland, he played for Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference before coming to Hamilton in 1957.

He has become a Canadian citizen and makes his home in Hamilton where he has business connections.

The Globe says the contract demand was made about four weeks ago and so startled Alouette officials that they felt sure Argonauts had been tampering with Faloney.

Commissioner Sydney Halter of the Canadian Football League said in an interview with the newspaper that he had written Argonaut officials seeking assurance there had been no dealings with Faloney and that the Argonauts had denied talking to Faloney.

Faloney, winner of the 1961 award as Canada's outstanding player, quarterbacked the Tiger-Cats to six Grey Cup finals, winning the trophy twice.

Hull's Knee Brace Key to Hawks Hopes

Chicago Ace Tests Gimpy Limb But Reay Not Very Optimistic

By The Canadian Press

A small knee brace may get Bobby Hull into the Chicago lineup when the Black Hawks open their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semifinal series against the Red Wings at Detroit Olympia Thursday night.

But coach Billy Reay said Tuesday he's not too optimistic about Hull's capabilities and the left winger won't be assigned to his usual duties of checking Gordie Howe.

Thursday's Stanley Cup semifinal game between Montreal and Toronto will be telecast over Channels 2 and 6, starting at 5:30 p.m.

Hull skated for the first time in 10 days Tuesday, wearing the brace on his damaged left knee while taking part in the Black Hawks' 90-minute skating, shooting and scrimmage drill at Chicago.

"It stood up today," Reay said after the session.

"He'll try it again tomorrow. We won't make a decision until we see how it is 24 hours after the first exercise. He won't be on Howe, at least not at the start."

After the practice, Hull said: "I feel pretty good. It didn't hurt."

He played on left wing but took the faceoffs instead of centre Phil Esposito. His usual position is away from the face-off circle, waiting for the pass that will set up his big shot.

Red Wings 'Surprisingly Healthy'

On the other hand, the Red Wings, who came to life in the last half of the National Hockey League schedule to win the championship, were "surprisingly healthy" according to manager Sid Abel.

"We held Doug Barkley out of the weekend games to cure that groin muscle injury and they injected him at the hospital," said Abel Tuesday.

After Tuesday's practice, which Abel waived for veteran players, the Wings went to Toledo, Ohio, for a period of relaxation before returning to Detroit for the opening game.

Montreal Canadiens, who open their best-of-seven series against Toronto Maple Leafs at Montreal Thursday, were also described as relaxed and healthy.

The club's general feeling was that they wouldn't bow out to the Leafs this season as they have during the last two years.

Punch Feeding Leafs 'Ugly Pills'

The club's superb condition was summed up by centre Henri Richard who said: "For myself, I feel at top shape. We're not the same club that went into the playoffs last year."

Coach Hector (Toe) Blake, who saw the Leafs defeat his charges in seven games last year before going on to defeat the Red Wings for their third straight Stanley Cup, said: "I feel confident we'll take them this year."

But, while the other three clubs were tapering off, coach George (Punch) Imlach was working his Leafs into an ugly mood at their retreat near Detroit.

Except for Bob Pulford, who is a doubtful starter Thursday because of a leg injury, the Toronto club seemed fit and hardy.

"I'm not running a popularity contest," Imlach said.

"I don't care what they think of me. If they get mad enough they'll take it out on the other team."

And the philosophy seemed to be working as the defending Stanley Cup champions rocked and rolled around the ice during Tuesday's practice in a session that had the management at Detroit Olympia wishing they had sold tickets.

Badminton buffs have a treat in store April 5.

Three of the world's top players, from England and Scotland, will participate in a badminton exhibition at Victoria Racquet Club at 8 p.m.

Sponsored by the Racquet Club and Vancouver Island Badminton Association, the feature match will pit Tony Jordan and Jennie Pritchard against Robert McCoig and Mimi Nilsson of Vancouver.

Canadian singles king Wayne Macdonnell of Vancouver and Island ace Bob Hunt will play in other matches.

Jordan has represented England for 13 straight years in international competition. He is considered one of the world's top doubles players and has won the All-England mixed doubles title three times. He has played on five English Thomas Cup teams.

Jennifer Pritchard is Jordan's partner, co-holder of the All-England doubles crown. Last year she also won the English national singles and mixed doubles and the Scottish Open women's doubles. She has represented England in 12 international matches.

Robert McCoig is making his third visit to Canada. Scotland's outstanding player in recent times, he partnered Erland Kops to the Canadian and U.S. Open men's doubles championships in 1963. He has won the Scottish Open singles and mixed doubles three times each, the Scottish national singles six times and has played with three Thomas Cup teams.

Tickets are available at the Racquet Club.

Six Clubs Rate As Top Threats In Senior Loop

By Associated Press

The National League green book, guide to the senior circuit's 10 teams, boasts on its cover that just three pennant winners have managed to repeat in the last 20 years.

The world champion St. Louis Cardinals, who emerged from baseball's tightest pennant race ever last season with their first flag in 18 years, must rate as favorites for 1965, but five other clubs shape up as strong threats.

Philadelphia Phillies, Cincinnati Reds and San Francisco Giants who all had a shot at the pennant going into the final frantic weekend of play last year, figure to stay near the top. Los Angeles Dodgers, with baseball's strongest pitching staff, and Milwaukee Braves, with considerable power, also rate consideration.

The Cards, Phillies and Reds all were active on the winter trade market.

St. Louis moved to bolster its pitching staff, picking up Tracy Stallard, a 10-game winner with New York Mets last year, and Bob Purkey, who won 11 for the Reds. Utility man Tito Francona, acquired from Cleveland Indians, strengthens the bench.

Philadelphia, which missed by a whisker after leading all season long, swapped pitcher Dennis Bennett to Boston Red Sox for slugging Dick Stuart, whose hitting they could have used down the stretch last year.

The Phillies also picked up Bo Belinsky, Los Angeles Angels' problem child, and veteran pitcher Ray Herbert from Chicago White Sox. Manager Gene Mauch needs a tightened defence, especially at third base where Rookie of the Year Richie Allen led the league in errors.

Cincinnati grabbed pitcher Roger Craig and outfielder Charlie James in the swap with St. Louis for Purkey.

Reds Have Problem, Giants Talent

The Reds have a problem at third where manager Dick Sisler has been experimenting with Deron Johnson, who batted .273 with 21 homers. If Johnson can't make it there, Steve Boros, a lighter hitter, or Chico Ruiz will get the job and Johnson will play first.

San Francisco has Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda and Juan Marichal and any club with that kind of talent should be in the race all the way.

The Giants, under new manager Herman Franks, need comebacks from shortstop Jose Pagan and outfielder Willie McCovey as well as bullpen help.

Milwaukee has a strong young pitching staff, the best catcher in the league in Joe Torre and one of the last year's top rookies in Rico Carty, whose .330 average was second-best in the league.

The Braves, playing their last year in Milwaukee before next season's move to Atlanta, hope infielders Frank Bolling and Eddie Mathews can come back. They also need a quick recovery from ankle surgery by slugging outfielder Hank Aaron.

Los Angeles, with Sandy Koufax seemingly recovered from last year's arm trouble, has the top pitching in the league with Don Drysdale, an 18-game winner, and left-hander Claude Osteen, who won 15 for Washington Senators last year.

Help Needed From Clemente, Davis

Manager Walt Alston needs some hitting though. He gave up Frank Howard in the Osteen trade but got infielder John Kennedy who could solve the Dodgers' third base problem, in the swap. Tommy Davis, NL batting champ in 1963 and 1964, who slipped to .275 last season, has had an outstanding training camp and could be the difference.

Pittsburgh's batting champion Roberto Clemente was slowed by a bout with malaria this spring and the Pirates need his bat to be a threat.

Freshman manager Harry Walker is a bit thin in pitching but he has Bob Veale, the major league's strikeout leader with 250 last year.

Houston has virtually the same cast that finished ninth in 1964—but with a different name. The Colts have become the Astros but manager Luman Harris may find it tough to get them soaring.

New York Mets, or the Youth of America as manager Casey Stengel, who is 74, prefers to call them, have the all-star second baseman in Ron Hunt and little else.

The Mets seem set at first with young Ed Kranepool and at shortstop with veteran Roy McMillan. After that, there are Stengel and player - coaches Warren Spahn and Yogi Bera to capture the fans' imagination.

New Leader In Pin Meet

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Bob Rehder of St. Paul capped his American Bowling Congress tournament appearance Tuesday by taking the lead in regular all-events.

The 48-year-old salesman contributed 650 when the St. Paul team piled up a 2,942 series Monday night to take command of the regular team division.

He came back Tuesday with 639 in the doubles and 574 in the singles to boost his nine-game total to 1,861, 10 pins more than Dick Coughlin of Williston, N.D., who had held the all-events lead since Sunday with 1,851.

Skier Guilty Of Negligence

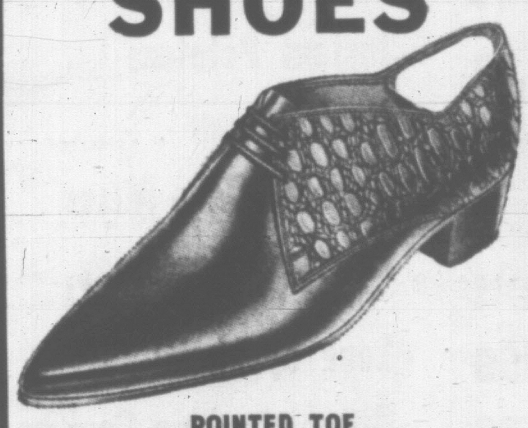

CHUR, Switzerland (AP) — West German Olympic skier Willy Bogner was given a two-month suspended sentence today after being found guilty of negligence that caused the deaths of ski aces Wallace (Bud) Werner nd Barbi Henneberger.

Werner, of Steamboat Springs, Colo., and Miss Henneberger, a West German and Bogner's fiancee, were killed by an avalanche while shooting a sports film near St. Moritz last April 12. Bogner was directing the film.

Clark Cleared

MONZA, Italy (AP) — Jim Clark, ace British automobile racing driver, has been cleared of responsibility in a 1961 accident that took the life of another driver and 16 spectators.

We're testing Gold Keg Beer on the world's toughest critics:

Our jury awaits us at The King's Arms, where Charles II often tarried.

Englishmen.

We undertook Operation Gold Keg to find out how Englishmen would react to Canada's popular Gold Keg Beer.

Because, as everyone knows, Englishmen love good beer. If a Canadian beer can pass muster in England, it's good.

So we've airlifted a cargo of Gold Keg to London, and we're touring the pubs. We're going to find out how Gold Keg stands up to such illustrious company as Bass, Whitbread's and Worthington's.

The first few tests have been wildly successful.

Englishmen tell us they love Gold Keg's delicious flavour and its fine amber colour. Some of them even said it was "smashing".

But we can't be satisfied till we've covered many more pubs. That's what we're doing now.

Further reports on Operation Gold Keg will follow.

Track Hit by Strike

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Yonkers Raceway called off its Tuesday night racing pragram when efforts to settle a strike of mutuel clerks failed.

Local 32E of the Building Service Employees Union (AFL-CIO), which represents about 500 mutuel ticket sellers and cashiers, seeks $1-a-night pay raises in each year of a proposed three-year contract. The track has offered $1 raises in each of the last two years but nothing this year.

Wages range from $24 to $52 a night for about four hours' work.

It was estimated that New York state will lose about $250,000 in revenue each night that racing is cancelled.

Off-Track Betting Opposed

TORONTO (CP)—The Jockey Club Limited board of directors is opposed to legalized off-track betting, E. P. Taylor, board chairman, told the annual shareholders' meeting Tuesday.

Taylor, responding to questions from the floor, said the club opposes off-course betting "like all responsible racing organizations in the United States."

He said the club is also opposed to the twin double, a popular betting form at some U.S. tracks and any proposal to add more races to the regular eight on daily program.

Tribe Gets Pitcher

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The New York Yankees sold right-handed pitcher Stan Williams to Cleveland Indians Tuesday in a straight cash deal. The price was estimated to be about the waiver price of $20,000.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31, 1965—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

For most of a year now, we have been entertaining as our guest a domestic shorthair cat of Egyptian elegance. She has a flawless pelt, a tail of extravagant length, and a pretty face dominated by eyes round, yellow and enormous, which stare unblinking through coaxings, endearments, and occasional bursts of language from me, her captive host.

She scorns bottle milk, insisting on the canned variety. This she supplements with a morning draught from the bowl inhabited by my goldfish, Suki. The goldfish likes her. Occasionally he flips up to touch noses.

This super-cat's name is Cleopatra, and she has given us to understand that she is in an interesting condition.

If a pear shape, a large yet finicky appetite and a fondness for napping in unlikely spots are signs of approaching maternity, she is indeed about to become a little mother.

On the other hand, and in spite of my family's indignant rebuttals, I'm halfway convinced the beast is faking. Circumstantial evidence, I point out, should be approached warily.

All I know for sure is that we have—and have had for quite some time now—a fat cat. I'll believe Cleopatra is serious about motherhood when she gets off the dime and shows us kittens in the basket.

★ ★ ★

I am not normally so hard-hearted, but the plain fact is that from the night Ron fetched her home, a drenched and shivering waif in his jacket, she has treated me like a dog.

It isn't just that when I first attempted to tickle under her chin, she sank all four meathooks in my leg and bit me.

She used to treat all four of us so; in fact we boasted that we were possessed by the toughest, meanest cat in the city. By degrees, though, she has made friends in her aloof way with everyone else. I'm the standout; my dear ones suggest that she simply likes the way I taste.

Always, I have been scrupulosuly correct in my dealings with cats. When an overgrown hoodlum type with white face and paws began hanging around the place some weeks ago, I scatted him off with nothing heavier than harsh words and a couple of fir cones.

Cleopatra disappeared soon after. For four days we didn't catch a glimpse of her, although Mister White-Face once gave me a go-to-hell stare through the glassless window of Susan's long-disused playhouse.

On the fifth morning, Cleopatra came home, purring. She rubbed affectionately against three sets of ankles, strolled over and bit me, then condescended to eat a tin of chopped tuna and lap up half a can of milk.

It was the last half of the last can in the house, so I took my coffee black, with comments about snooty cats for whom the best was none too good.

Not long after that episode, everyone but me started lining up homes for Cleopatra's anticipated brood.

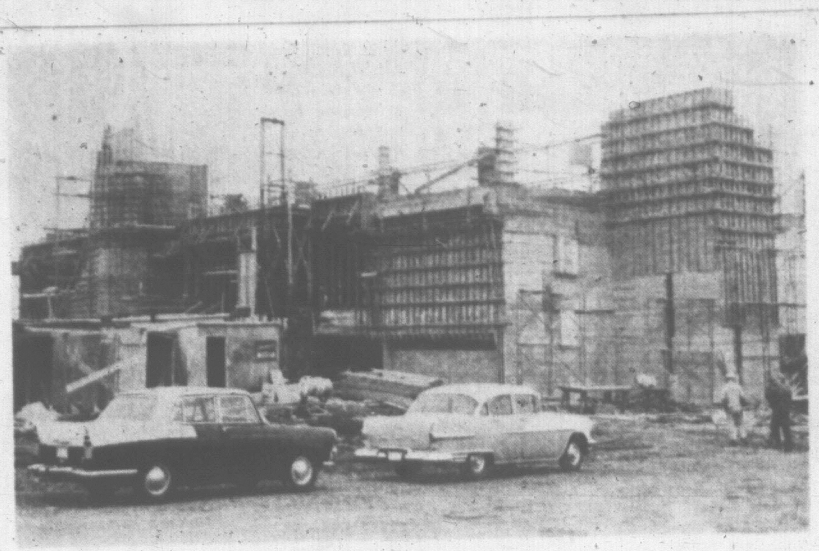

★ ★ ★

That's how life wags at the moment. When her feline majesty gives me a conversational nip, I'm forbidden to strike back. Three separate maternity boxes have been prepared in strategic spots, one of them lined with a fishing shirt I wasn't half ready to discard.

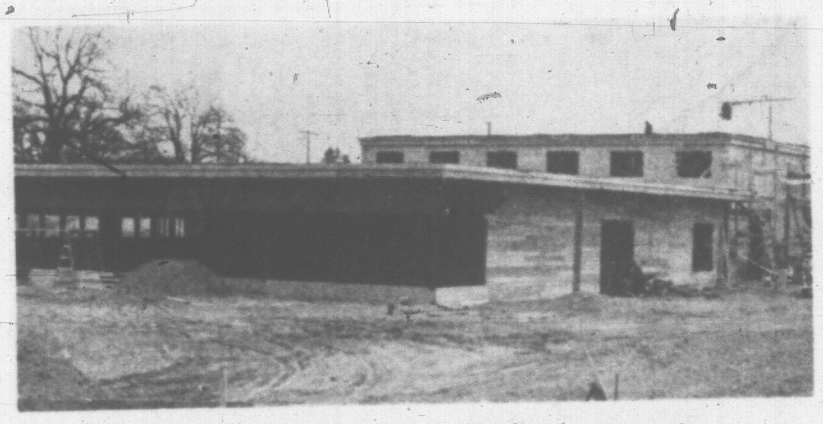

Come to think of it, Cleopatra hasn't bitten me for a couple of days now, at least not with malice, and I'm hopeful she will soon quit, mistaking me for an overgrown mouse.

Yesterday evening, too, she emitted only the gentlest of growls when I stroked her glossy back. Later, she tiptoed in from the kitchen and favored me by sharing my pillow.

That last display of dawning affection, if such it is, I can get along very well without. After all, Cleopatra may not be faking!

Building Boom Bowls Right Along

Construction boom in Greater Victoria is shown in progress at three buildings—two in Saanich and one in the city.

Saanich's $700,000 municipal hall (top picture), is rapidly taking shape on Vernon Avenue off the Patricia Bay Highway.

The hall should be completed by late summer when municipal employees will move from their present quarters at Royal Oak.

The Senior Citizens' Recreation Centre at Centennial Square (centre), costing $225,000, will be completed in early May.

New home for Sjegg Brothers at Quadra and Reynolds (bottom photo), should be ready in June when the Sidney headquarters will become a branch.

The building, covering 18,000 square feet on a five-acre site, will handle both wholesale and retail lumber and the company's construction business.

Topics of the Day

Government House in Ottawa announced today that George Cowley, 35, of Victoria has been appointed attache to Governor-General Vanier.

Mr. Cowley, the son of the late air vice-marshal A. T. Cowley and Mrs. Marion Cowley of Victoria, is a graduate of the Royal Canadian Naval College, Royal Roads and of McGill University in Montreal.

Barry Cox, 1743 Pembroke, was convicted of dangerous driving on Carey Road March 12 after a trial Tuesday afternoon in Saanich magistrate's court.

Constable John Post testified that Cox admitted when first questioned by police that he had been racing with another car but subsequently denied this.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded Cox to April 19 for sentence.

Serving and retired members of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals and the Royal Signals are invited to attend a memorial service for the Princess Royal in Christ Church Cathedral Sunday at 3 p.m.

The service is organized by the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) in memory of the Princess Royal, its former colonel-in-chief.

The princess was also colonel-in-chief of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals and the Royal Signals.

★ ★ ★

A fire of unknown origin did about $3,000 damage Tuesday evening to the home of R. J. Alm, 3020 Devon, and also damaged valuable books and paintings.

Exact total of the loss is not yet determined. Oak Bay Fire Chief William Pearson said the fire started in a closed package of clothes.

He said he will investigate today to try to determine the cause.

Mr. Alm said he discovered the bathroom filled with smoke when he returned home after work. The fire started in the basement.

★ ★ ★

Victoria Machinery Depot today side-launched a 175-foot general cargo barge for Riv Tow Towing Co. of Vancouver at its Dallas Road shipyard.

The all-steel, green and white barge has a 44-foot beam and cost "in excess of $100,000," a VMD spokesman said today.

★ ★ ★

Arthur Hawes, 3533 Saanich Road, was given a six-months suspended sentence for theft when he appeared in Saanich court Tuesday.

He pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to stealing $2.75 from Loomer Lanes on March 20. He collected the money from five youths were were bowling at the alley.

All B.C. branches of the Royal Canadian Legion will attend a provincial convention in the Curling Rink May 23-26.

All Victoria branches will participate.

Ask The Times

Q. Is it illegal or disrespectful to fly a foreign flag below the Canadian flag on the same rope and flag pole? When flying foreign flags, is it correct to fly a larger foreign flag below the Canadian flag or should they be of equal size?

R. J.

A. To begin with, flag etiquette is not clearly defined in Canada—only custom.

It is considered poor etiquette to fly another nation's banner below the Canadian flag.

In wartime, if an enemy vessel is captured, the victor is permitted to fly his flag over that of the vanquished.

It is better etiquette to fly another nation's flag on a separate stave and halyard—and never higher than the Canadian flag.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

METROPOLITAN UNITED

Church Rite to Mark Sally Ann's 100th

The Salvation Army will join with Metropolitan United Church next Sunday in celebrating the army's 100th birthday.

Morning and evening services in the church will actually mark the birthday of General William Booth, who founded the Salvation Army in April, 1865.

Capt. Don McMillan, leader of the Victoria Citadel at 757 Pandora Avenue, will preach at the 11 a.m. service in Metropolitan and the Citadel Band will play with the church choir at the evening service.

"These services will culminate the first 100 days of our centenary year," Capt. McMillan said, "and we are happy to share them with a downtown church."

Capt. McMillan recalled that General William Booth was born at Nottingham, Eng., on April 10, 1829. The son of a builder, he became a revivalist preacher at the age of 15.

In 1864 he went to London and conducted services in tents and on street corners. One day he said to his son, Bramwell:

"I wish I had a volunteer army to preach the gospel all over the world."

In 1865 he formed what was called the Volunteer Army and, with a handful of supporters, held services all over London. This organization was renamed the Salvation Army in 1878.

"We now have 16,659 citadels all over the world" Capt. McMillan said, "and our work is carried on by 25,474 officers and thousands of volunteers.

Budget Shocker Jolts Aldermen

'Bleak Picture' Says Comptroller As 7.4-Mill Boost Faces Chopping

A proposed $865,000 increase in city spending—or 7.4 mills on the 1965 tax rate—was greeted today with dismay by aldermen going into budget-trimming sessions.

"It doesn't look very good," said Ald. M. H. Mooney as the preliminary picture was presented by comptroller James Bramley.

"I guess I was just a pipe dreamer to think we could hold the mill rate with the increase in assessment and higher provincial grant," he added.

A ray of hope was introduced by Mayor R. B. Wilson, who suggested council may be justified in holding the line with extraordinary expenditures since work is being done by capital budget plan.

Mr. Bramley said the net proposed budget increase does not take into consideration the school tax question.

TWO MILLS

"I'll go out on a limb and predict a school rate increase of two mills, but we could be wrong."

The actual amount should be known by mid-April.

Last year the total Victoria mill rate was 57.9, including 20.4 mills for school purposes and 37.5 mills for general purposes. This was a 2.9-mill increase over 1963.

The proposed budget increase for 1964, requiring an additional 6.2 mills, was chopped down in estimates by 3.3 mills.

Last year's budget ended up at $11.5 million.

The comptroller said the mill this year is valued at $103,000.

"There is the bleak picture," Mr. Bramley said.

"You have quite a task to bring the mill rate down to a level acceptable by ratepayers," he told the committee in estimates.

"No doubt we are involved in all these additional activities but how far should we go?" he said, referring to such extras as McPherson Playhouse, Crystal Garden, Canadian Centennial.

Ald. Austin Curtis noted an increase of $61,125 in ordinary expenditure for McPherson Playhouse.

$1,000 WEEKLY

He asked Mr. Bramley if the theatre would "lose about $1,000 a week" this year. The comptroller agreed.

Ald. Curtis suggested department heads go over the list of increased ordinary expenditures—totalling $732,214 without considering police and fire salary increases, Memorial Arena operation and a university grant—to cut some more out.

"Mr. Bramley has gone over these estimates very carefully," city manager Dennis Young said.

"Quite frankly, there is little slack in these ordinary expenditures."

Even without an increase in salaries, police department expenses will be near $1 million.

ARBITRATION

Both police and fire department bargaining goes to arbitration next week, which could result in more money for police and additional staff for the fire department.

Extraordinary expenses submitted in estimates come to $494,970, including $10,365 to cover opening week loss at McPherson Playhouse, $130,145 for parks development, $22,235 for Crystal Garden improvements, $237,325 for public works, $76,900 for sanitation and waste removal, and $18,000 for the police department.

Two Charged After Large Drug Seizure

RCMP seized a large quantity of narcotics and arrested two men in Victoria Tuesday.

The men appeared in city court this morning charged with unlawful possession of drugs.

They are Norman Bradley, a Victoria man now living in Prince George, and Robert Paul of Vancouver.

Crown prosecutor Rodney Taylor said: "In view of the amount of narcotics seized the authorities are considering laying a more serious charge."

Bradley elected trial by judge and Paul elected trial by magistrate. Bradley was remanded one week to fix a date for the preliminary hearing of the charge and Paul was remanded one week for plea.

Mr. Taylor said bail should be substantial for both men. Magistrate William Ostler fixed bail at $2,500 for Bradley and at $1,500 for Paul.

RCMP refused to disclose how large a quantity of drugs was seized or its value. A spokesman said the narcotics, identified in court as pethidene hydrochloride, is being analyzed.

Strike Vote Next Week

Government-supervised strike votes will be taken next week among more than 2,600 truck drivers, warehousemen and swampers in B.C.

The move follows overwhelming rejection of conciliation recommendations by members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

About 150 men working for five companies are affected in Victoria.

Final results are not expected to be announced until the following week because some truckers live in the interior.

Results of Study Submitted Tonight

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria has more separate fund appeals than any other city of comparative size—but the social problems they attempt to ease keep growing.

Is a new approach to social planning needed?

Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria is hoping for an answer tonight.

In September last year an independent committee on social planning was formed by the council. Its members were drawn from University of Victoria, Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Victoria Medical Society, Victoria Labour Council, Capital Region Planning Board and the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C. Study the matter and report, it was told.

Chairman S. J. Cunliffe presents the committee report at the annual meeting of the Community Welfare Council tonight at Spencerhouse.

★

Hints to the committee's findings are probably contained in these facts that are worrying the welfare council:

- During the two years 1962-1963 there was a 50 per cent increase in the number of children declared wards of the community.
- In 1963 there was a 50 per cent increase in Family and Children's Service cases of children born out of wedlock—319 cases in one year.
- While the over-all population of boys in the 10-17 age group increased 56.3 per cent (1956 to 1963) the number of delinquent boys increased 74.4 per cent.
- The number of boys charged with traffic offences jumped by 68 per cent. Other offences jumped 85 per cent.
- In 1963 one out of every 264 boys in Greater Victoria was sent to industrial school while the urban average in B.C. was one in 290.

The committee also learned that Greater Victoria's rapid rate of growth is changing former patterns. The number of elderly persons is declining slightly and the number of persons aged under 19 is increasing.

Greater Victoria still has twice as many people aged over 65 than Canada generally, per thousand of population, but the percentage of elderly in Saanich is reduced. Victoria has 21 per cent, greatly adding to need for special services.

The welfare council told the committee, "The present pattern of health, welfare and recreational services can be described only as a hodge-podge."

Given as reasons were different boundaries of operations for various welfare agencies and government departments, duplication of services and a lack of policy as to which agency should offer certain services, and how financing should be set.

The committee learned that there are "glaring inadequacies" in current services—particularly mental health care for children and home care services for the ill.

★

Victoria has no complete assessment of its needs or its resources to meet these needs, the committee was told.

It also was told that several recent provincial acts have forced more responsibility for services on the municipalities.

And the terms of reference pointed out, "In spite of the fact that the Community Chest (United Appeal) has taken into membership eight additional agencies in the past eight years, there still exists no little confusion and competition in annual "charitable" and "health" appeals and a probably more serious chaotic situation exists in the area of capital campaigns.

"Greater Victoria has more separate appeals than any other Canadian city of comparable size."

The committee also was asked to study the fact that "all taxing and fund-raising authorities are finding it continually more difficult to obtain adequate financing for existing services in the face of increasing demands on these services.

"But to date, no attempt has been made by anyone to make a comprehensive review of our needs and resources or to establish any logical system of priorities."

★

Will the committee report make firm recommendations for decisive moves to counteract these trends—or will it merely recommend new committees and new studies?

Will the various municipal councils and the provincial government accept whatever recommendations are put forward, and act on them—or will the report be pigeon-holed and the committee frustrated.

Two years ago the Community Welfare Council had prepared a report on recreation needs for this district.

Copies were sent to all municipalities and the recommendations were highly publicized. Esquimalt passed a bylaw establishing its own recreation council, but an intermunicipal committee tabled the report.

Victoria included a Senior Citizens' Recreation Centre in Centennial Square plans. Oak Bay voters rejected a similar project. No Greater Victoria recreation commission evolved, nor was the welfare council given authority or funds to undertake district-wide improvements.

What will happen this time?

Stars Flicker Out For Hotels, Motels

The star rating system for hotels and motels in B.C. will soon be a thing of the past.

Members of the Provincial Tourist Advisory Council representing hotel, motel and resort owners from all over the province, decided this morning that the star system has outlived its usefulness.

SEAL

In its place will be a government seal of approval in the form of a decal to be placed in a prominent place.

Annual inspections of all hotels and motels will still take place with only those meeting minimum standards of courtesy, comfort and cleanliness granted the seal and a place in "The Green Book" and official publication listing all approved accommodation.

The decision was reached at the spring meeting of the council held in the Empress Hotel this morning.

Uvic Professor Awarded Grant For Research

A University of Victoria professor has been awarded a $6,000 Defence Research Board grant.

Prof. Harry W. Dosso, an assistant professor in the physics department, was given the award to continue his research into the earth's magnetic field as related to the structure of the surface.

Prof. Dosso will continue his research at the University of Victoria.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Children Use Walls As Drawing Boards?

By Penny Saver

If you remember, Penny was telling you, some time ago, about this friend of hers who was redoing his rumpus room. Well, most of it is finished now, with only a few mishaps and a two-hour session in the emergency ward, and he is ready to put the finishing touches on the walls.

He's painted three of the walls a flat color and now he wants to highlight the room with some sort of patterned wallpaper or wooden siding. And, not being able to find what he wanted in his price range, he appealed to Penny for help.

I have the ideal answer for him, too. It is a new vinyl wallpaper, available in patterns or wood designs. Selling at $3.99 for a single roll—one roll will cover 30 square feet of a wall area—it is the perfect wall covering for a family that has younger children. Why?

Because you can write on it, scribble or crayon on it, splash jam or grease on it! It just washes right off. (I was given a practical demonstration of this.) The man showing me the paper scribbled with a ball point pen all over a piece and washed it right off with a wet rag.

Hanging this paper is just like snapping your fingers. There is no worry about paste because the rolls are self-adhesive. Just run the paper through a special trough (the trough sells for 49 cents) so that top and bottom are immersed. Then prepare to hang. (Cut your paper to size, first.) When the paper is on the wall, smooth out with a sponge.

My friend's rumpus room is situated in the basement and the windows peek just over the top of the ground level. He doesn't like the idea of anyone being able to peek in so again he called for help.

Here's the ideal answer. It is a frosted-looking cellophane material which you just cut to the right size, strip off the paper backing and stick—it is adhesive-backed—to the window. There is no loss of light, just an attraetive design which filters light coming through.

Price of this is $1.09 for a square yard. (It's perfect for a bathroom window.)

In the market for any of these decorating ideas? Give me a call, then, at 382-3131.

The Victoria Kiwaniannes will hold their annual mammoth rummage sale in Maynards auction rooms, Friday at 7 p.m. Co-conveners are Mrs. Gordon Scott, left, and Mrs. Jack Lee, right. They're seen with president, Mrs. Stan Britt. Many new items will be sold in addition to household wares, clothing, shoes, toys, books, jewelry, shrubs, plants, cut flowers and garden equipment.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Dating While Waiting

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and practically engaged to a boy I'll call Bill. He is overseas in the service right now. Before he left, he said I could date if I wanted to. I didn't date at all for the first month, then this boy I'll call George started asking me out. I went out with him because it was better than sitting home, but I told him from the start that we could only be friends, as I had a boy friend in the service I was waiting for. He said he understood, but he also told me on our third date that he was in love with me. I don't want to stop dating George because he is a nice guy and a lot of fun, but I don't want him to get hurt, either. My mother says I shouldn't be dating at all, but I don't see any harm in it as long as I don't lead anyone on. What do you think about all this? I don't want to hurt anyone.

WAITING FOR BILL

DEAR WAITING: I think that YOU think you are "in love" with Bill. But if you really were, you wouldn't mind "sitting home." George may be a "nice guy and a lot of fun," but he regards you as more than just a friend, and given the time and opportunity (which you are allowing him) he could change your mind about him. Don't worry about "hurting" George. I have an idea he can look after himself.

DEAR ABBY: My experience with people who never knock, but just walk in, beats the one you had printed in your column recently. Back in 1947 we had a neighbor woman in Hammond, Indiana, who always walked into our house without knocking, and she'd walk into any room of the house the same way. She didn't know whether or not my husband was home. (He traveled). So to make a long story short, she came into my house and went hunting for me in all the rooms. (I happened to be out in the back yard emptying the garbage pail). Well, she walked into the bathroom just as my husband was stepping out of the bathtub. She fainted dead away and when my husband went to catch her, he slipped back into the tub and broke his leg. The lady cracked her head on the doorknob and fractured her skull. I had to call TWO ambulances!

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice:

Recently I purchased material for draperies and got two different opinions on how to line them. One clerk advised me to use the lining separately, the other clerk said to use the lining and drapery fabric as one fabric. Since the fabric must be dry cleaned, which method would you advise?

Mrs. E.W.

Dear Mrs. E.W.:

This column is devoted to dressmaking and tailoring primarily, however any home sewing that is of general interest will be answered where space permits.

Since this is not my field, I will only be able to give you the answer I have been given by professional decorators. They seem to be in agreement that the lining should be sewed to the drapery fabric on the sides and the top, leaving the hems open. The hem of the lining and the hem of the drapery fabric are finished separately. If any of our readers have had success by any other method, please let us know so we can provide additional help with this question.

Members and their friends turned out in full force, Tuesday, for the opening spring luncheon of the ladies' division, Uplands Golf Club. Among them were, left to right, Mrs. G. Silburn, buying committee; Mrs. A. B. Sanders, Mrs. Doug Peden, Mrs. Ken Lawson and Mrs. J. B. Price, committee member. (Photos by Bill Halkett.)

Cool breezes on the sea-girt greens of Victoria Golf Club did not deter a good turnout at Tuesday's opening spring luncheon of the ladies' division. Among those attending were former captains, left to right, Mrs. Hew Paterson, Miss Ruth Jones, Mrs. J. Macdonald, Mrs. H. Weldon, Mrs. W. Parry and Mrs. H. P. R. Brown, present ladies' captain.

Women Golfers Begin Season

OPENINGS AT TWO CLUBS

Women took over two of Victoria's golf courses, Tuesday, when the ladies' divisions of the Uplands Golf Club and the Victoria Golf Club held their opening spring luncheons.

The sunny day started with a cool breeze but it didn't prevent 98 women from competing in a monkey foursome at Uplands Golf Club while 116 attended the luncheon. At the Victoria Golf Club, 71 women teed off in two-ball mixed foursomes while 101 attended the luncheon which followed.

Receiving guests at Uplands were Mrs. C. Dawson, ladies' captain, and Mrs. V. Hicks, vice-captain. Honor guest, Mrs. A. B. Sanders presented the prizes which included the New Year's vase which she had donated to the club 36 years ago.

Winner of the New Year's vase was Mrs. E. H. McGuire and runner-up, Mrs. D. Pinfield. The Semple Cup went to Mrs. F. Bett. Mrs. Ken Lawson received the Winter A Cup for low gross and low net Canadian Ladies' Golf Union brooch. Another CLGW brooch winner was Mrs. J. B. Price.

Runner-up for the Winter A Cup was Mrs. C. R. Locatelli. Mrs. F. W. Briggs was awarded the Winter B Cup with second place going to Mrs. M. Worth.

Winners of the morning's monkey foursome were Mrs. G. Silburn, Mrs. H. Townshend, Mrs. H. Barnes and Mrs. J. W. Blyth. Two teams were tied for second place. They were Mrs. T. J. Liddell with Mrs. R. A. Storrar, Miss F. Laurence and Mrs. J. Jones and Mrs. G. M. Coxworth with Mrs. W. Herbert, Mrs. F. G. Usher and Mrs. D. Gage.

Winners of the high score were Mrs. T. L. Christie, Mrs. J. O. St. Denis, Mrs. F. C. Bett and Mrs. E. P. Gill.

To add to the fun, Miss D. Cuthbertson donated several door prizes.

Mrs. J. H. Todd, president of the Vancouver Island branch of the CLGU and second vice-president of the provincial executive, was one of the head table guests at the luncheon in the Victoria Golf Club. Also at the head table with captain Mrs. H. P. R. Brown were former captains, Mrs. W. Parry, Mrs. H. Weldon, Mrs. J. Macdonald, Miss Ruth Jones and Mrs. Hew Paterson. Mrs. Paterson is proud of her membership record, having joined the club in 1904.

Other head table guests were Mrs. R. S. Dyer, immediate past captain, and Mrs. A. Osborough, vice-captain, who helped convene the affair. Serving with her were Mrs. R. R. Wilde, Mrs. Logan Mayhew, Mrs. H. Bigsby, Mrs. P. Sutherland Brown, Mrs. R. Baiss and Mrs. Brown.

Wednesday's winners were: Low net, first place, Mrs. H. Husband and Mrs. R. Siddall; second, Mrs. George Wheaton and Mrs. A. Dowell; low gross, first place, Mrs. H. Mearns and Mrs. W. Munro; second, Mrs. G. Dunn and Mrs. R. Alexander; high gross, Mrs. E. Watt and Mrs. J. C. Blowey; high net, Mrs. B. Keyes and Mrs. E. B. Aust; worst nine, first, Mrs. R. McColl and Mrs. W. A. McDonald; second, Mrs. E. Norris and Mrs. F. Hawes; putting, Mrs. Watt with Mrs. H. McFarland placing second.

At both clubhouses, feminine magic was evident in the colorful floral displays that added to the occasions. Spring flowers and white candles centred the head table at the Uplands Golf Club, while the rooms were bright with arrangements of blossoms, daffodils, tulips and iris.

The "magician" at the Victoria Golf Club was Miss Mary Campbell, who matched pink tulips with turquoise holders and masses of daffodils and narcissi with flowering currant. Dramatic in its understatement was a mantel decoration that relied on a single spray of rhododendron in a tall wine-toned vase.

Candy Can Satisfy and Help You Reduce, Also

The "sweet tooth" seems to be as old as man. The recorded history of candy goes back 4,000 years. The ancient Egyptians indulged in a confectionery art, using spices, herbs and honey. The ancient Greeks and Romans enjoyed sweetmeats made of honey, flour, fruits, nuts and herbs.

Candy has long had a black eye on the reducing diet. Yet, when used with caution and self-control, it can be a valuable aid in appetite curbing and in maintenance of energy.

Sugar is one of the fastest sources of energy. It is absorbed into the blood stream very rapidly. When our blood sugar level increases so does our energy while our appetite decreases. Because of the energy yield of candy it has long been useful to athletes, mountain climbers and the armed forces.

Most nutritionists feel that candy has an important place in the diet of children and younger persons because it supplies quick energy to these incredibly active people. It can be used with benefit for the same reason by the busy housewife or the career woman and man.

It can even be used by the reducer if it is taken in the correct amount, and if the right kind is eaten at the right time. Overindulgence in candy is a temptation to most folks because most folks like it very much. If it is eaten before a meal instead of afterwards, as a dessert, the danger is that the appetite may be blunted so that essential foods are passed by. Also, some candies are so high in calorie count that they should be avoided or used very sparingly while reducing, just as rich desserts should be.

I have often suggested two small pieces of hard candy after a meal on my reducing diets. It has also been found that eating a bit of candy an hour before a meal raises the blood sugar level so that it is easier to stick to medium helpings and no second servings.

In the January issue of Dun's Review, Dr. Harry J. Johnson, medical director of the Life Extension Institute, says, "People on reducing diets who eliminate sugar and slash carbohydrates, are likely to find that physical effort wears them out easily."

Some candies are very low in calories count. While they should not take the place of the items on a well-balanced diet, they can supply energy and are pleasant at the end of a meal. They even may be used as an appetite depressant an hour before a meal.

For instance, a sour ball has only 14 calories, a filled raspberry has 14 calories, a caramel 38 calories and a chocolate-covered mint patty 30 calories. Stick to the small hard candies and do not eat more than three after dinner or a couple before.

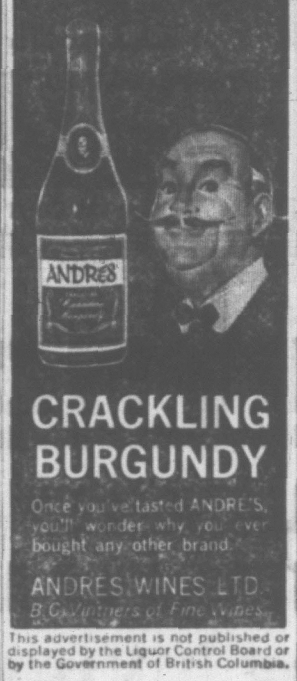

That sounds like losing your pounds and having your candy too!

If you would like to have my calorie chart send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

WINDSORS ATTEND SERVICE

LONDON (UPI)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor plan this Thursday to make their first official appearance in England together since the Duke's abdication in 1936.

They will attend a public memorial service at Westminster Abbey for the Duke's sister, the Princess Royal, who died after suffering a heart attack Sunday. A private funeral will take place at the Princess' home in Yorkshire.

The Duke, who recently underwent three eye operations, was advised by his doctors not to travel to the northern county for the funeral. Queen Elizabeth II and other members of the Royal Family were planning to make the trip.

THREE-PLANTING PROGRAM

Downtown Face Lift Approved

A program aimed at providing comfort and beauty for downtown shoppers was adopted Tuesday by aldermen.

The parks and urban renewal committees decided sidewalk canopy projects and a tree-planting program can proceed without too much conflict.

Parks committee asked administrator Herbert Warren to resubmit a plan for tree planting after he recommended Blanshard between Burdett and Pandora, and Yates between Blanshard and Cook to start the project next year.

He suggested as other possible areas Burdett, Humboldt, Pandora, Wharf, Hillside, Oak Bay and Fort, besides special locations suited for planting.

Trees must be ordered soon to be available in 1966, he said.

Members of the committee were not satisfied with exclusions in several areas due to various reasons — subsurface rock, narrow sidewalks, heavy pedestrian flow, impediment to traffic, underground vaults and overhead canopies.

The 700 block of Fort, for example, is too busy to permit trees, Mr. Warren felt. Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow disagreed.

Mayor R. B. Wilson and Ald. A. W. Toone also felt some excluded areas could have trees.

Aldermen adopted the principle of city manager Dennis Young's report on canopies, based on recent requests by businessmen for permission to build them, and particularly one from the north side merchants in the 700 block, Yates, who wish to cover the entire north sidewalk.

He recommended against covering whole sidewalks because supports interfere with pedestrian movement, street cleaning, parking, planting, and increase city liability.

But self-supporting canopies could project from buildings to within six feet of the curb without undue interference, he said.

Ald. Edgelow said council should encourage uniformity in canopies, pointing to the one covering much of the block on the south side of Yates, built at the expense of businesses a few years ago.

The opposite side of the street would be similar, businessmen suggest.

Mr. Young referred to conflicting programs — removal of street impediments to allow planting on the one hand, and on the other the erection of more canopies.

"I think we can have both, but we need uniformity," Ald. Edgelow said.

When the first common canopy was put up on Yates "we didn't have competition. Now we do," Ald. Edgelow said.

"The shopping centres all have shelters and people can shop in comfort out of the rain. We've got to move ahead. We've got to try to encourage merchants to provide all the comforts shoppers can get in a shopping centre."

But there is a stumbling block in the proposal for self-supporting canopies where businesses request construction by local improvement.

The Municipal Act forbids such an improvement on private property, which would be the case if there were no attachments to the sidewalk.

Ald. Edgelow said legislation should be requested.

COMPUTERS TO INVADE CANADIAN FARM LIFE

SASKATOON (CP)—Farms in future will be run by computers operated by scientists, Bill Forsythe of Toronto, general sales manager of Massey-Ferguson Company, said Tuesday in an address to a service club luncheon.

Mr. Forsythe said the number of Canadian farms will decrease 70 per cent in the next 15 years and world food needs would rise 25 per cent in the same period.

Prairie farmers must "become very shrewd business managers to meet the tremendous challenge," he said.

CHILD TRAFFIC DEATHS SPOTLIGHTED ON DAY

The provincial cabinet has agreed to a request from the B.C. Safety Council and declared May 2 Child Safety Day.

Last year 149 children under 10 died as a result of highway accidents in B.C. and 8,881 were hospitalized.

Child Safety Day is designed to focus attention on the growing death rate and appeal to motorists for greater caution throughout the year.

Vancouver Press Probe Requested

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Favreau was asked Monday to have the combines investigation branch of his department renew an investigation into the Vancouver newspaper situation.

Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur) suggested the action in the light of complaints by the new Vancouver Times which he described as being "about what it suggests are foul practices it has encountered from its competitors..."

Mr. Favreau said he would look into the matter.

Mr. Fisher mentioned that the restrictive trade practices commission several years ago issued a report regarding Pacific Press.

The Times said in an editorial Saturday that it is fighting for survival and needs $100,000 to retire immediate commitments and ensure a profit position by fall.

The editorial said the paper is fighting what it called a two-newspaper, one-company operation. The other Vancouver papers are The Sun and The Province.

Pacific Press owns the mechanical production resources and other assets of The Province, a morning newspaper, and the Sun, an afternoon paper. It employs the staff of both papers but they are independent organizations controlling their own editorial, advertising, circulation and promotional activities.

London Wins Grudge Fight

LONDON (AP) — Brian London, former British and British Empire heavyweight champion, easily outpointed Billy Walker in a 10-round fight at Wembley Stadium Tuesday night.

London weighed 200½, Walker 198¼.

The two boxers shared a reported $61,000 in something of a grudge fight.

ABANDONED in downtown Seattle department store last Friday, four-year-old boy has been identified by Mrs. Margaret Weatherill, of Vancouver, as Billy Boutillier. She said the boy stayed with the Weatherill family, along with his mother, for a month. She said the boy and his mother left her home Friday. She identified the child from a picture. (AP Wirephoto)

GROWING DOWN UNDER

The population of Australia, now less than 12,000,000, is expected to reach 20,000,000 within 25 years.

CLANGING PRESENT . . .

Nostalgia Slows U.K. Industry Boom

. . . HOLDS LITTLE LURE

Both management and labor are guilty of holding back the modernization British industry needs to compete for a bigger share of world trade. The following last of four articles by an Associated Press reporter gives an American viewpoint on the weaknesses in the British industrial setup and the remedies proposed.

By TOM OCHILTREE

LONDON (AP)—Britain's basic problem can be defined as a sort of sentimental softness toward inefficiency.

This is demonstrated by listless management, wasteful use of labor, outdated production methods and inadequate salesmanship.

White Britain makes a troubled search for a new place in a changing world, many of her people give the impression they prefer a drowsy contentment with the past to the clanging reality of the present.

The British are constantly being told that they must not look back but look ahead, must welcome what is new and acquire a thirst for efficiency. Their politicians of all parties, business executives and trade union leaders all stress this theme. But some of these men go counter to their own words by protecting their own little pockets of inefficiency.

Many people feel that Prime Minister Wilson, the Labor party leader, has one advantage over his Conservative predecessors in tackling the gigantic task of modernizing Britain.

NO NOSTALGIA

Wilson has no nostalgia for the aristocratic and rural ideals. He can face the industrial reality of this island kingdom.

But knowing that restrictive practices must stop and getting them abolished are two different things. The Conservatives tend to have difficulty tackling the management side and the Labor party has to be careful with the trade unions.

The Labor party's basic political strength rests on the 623 separate trade unions in this country with a combined membership of 9,872,000 workers.

There are far too many individual unions. The crafts they speak for tend more and more to overlap, involving the unions in jurisdictional disputes. With so many unions to deal with, contract negotiations become extremely complex for such industries as automobile manufacturing or shipbuilding.

JOBS OBSOLETE

Featherbedding also is encouraged in some unions. They demand job protection for men whose jobs have been eliminated by automation or other reasons.

Unemployment in Britain amounts to less than two per cent of the work force, but this statistic is not as happy as it looks. In many jobs two men do the work one energetic man could do.

Novelist C. P. Snow, who became Lord Snow when he was appointed assistant to the ministry of technology, said recently that "over a great range of industries the Americans produce per man about two to four times what the British produce."

Nepotism, not efficiency, is the factor governing promotions in many companies. Board rooms are filled, not by people who came up through the ranks of an industry, but by men with titles or men who went to the same fashionable public (private boarding) school.

It is often said that the old school tie strangles ambition in this country. The rising young man who really knows the business gets discouraged when advancement passes him by because of social reasons.

SUSPECT EXPERTS

Some managements also cling to a thinly disguised suspicion of technicians, engineers and efficiency experts. Salesmen occupy a much lower place in British industry than they do in North America.

Also, some firms have their own version of featherbedding. Where fear of a manpower shortage is acute, such managements tend to keep more men on the payrolls than efficiency would require against the time when they might be needed.

Ray Gunter, the government's labor affairs minister, has promised to stop restrictive practices by both sides of industry.

Atheists Appeal Costs Will be Borne by Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The government will pay the legal costs of an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada by a Dutch couple refused Canadian citizenship because they do not believe in God.

Citizenship Minister John Nicholson announced in the Commons Tuesday that the government does not agree with the Citizenship Court decision handed down last year against Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bergsma of Caledonia, Ont. The decision by County Judge W. W. Leach was upheld recently by the Ontario Supreme Court.

Mr. Nicholson said the justice department believes this decision should be fought all the way to the Supreme Court of Canada. But it was unfair to expect Mr. and Mrs. Bergsma to bear the cost.

For that reason, the government was advising the Bergsma lawyer, Ian G. Scott of Toronto, that it will pay all reasonable legal costs involved in carrying the case to the highest court.

Mr. Nicholson said it had not been expected that the Citizenship Act would be interpreted in the way that Judge Leach had done. If the judge's decision was sustained by the Supreme Court, an amendment to the act would be undertaken by the government.

Judge Leach turned down the Bergsmas' citizenship application when he learned they were atheists. He ruled that the oath of allegiance in the Canadian Citizenship Act requires that a person taking it believe in God.

NDP Leader Douglas congratulated Mr. Nicholson on the decision. The country generally would applaud it, he said.

"It seems to me if we are going to have a country in which there is religious freedom we should extend it to people who may have views which differ from those of the majority of Canadians," said Mr. Douglas, a former Baptist minister.

Que. Socreds Rebuff Creditiste Advances

QUEBEC (CP) — Dr. Guy Marcoux, member of Parliament for Quebec-Montmorency, said Monday Social Credit has flatly refused a conciliation with Real Caouette's Ralliement des Creditistes.

Dr. Marcoux said in a statement Social Credit members from Quebec met here during the weekend to discuss overtures by former federal member for Bellechasse, Bernard Dumont, "who begged us to join the ranks to stop the total collapse of their party".

Mr. Dumont was described as an important Caouette follower.

Mr. Caouette's Ralliement also met here during the weekend, and the fiery Creditiste leader blasted Dr. Marcoux and others who remained with Social Credit in a split two years ago.

"Could it have been our categorical refusal that unleashed the incomprehensible rage of Mr. Caouette?" asked Dr. Marcoux.

He denied Mr. Caouette's assertion that Conservative MPs Leon Balcer and Paul Martineau attended the Social Credit meeting.

Only Social Credit members of Parliament were present, he said, and they discussed the present political situation and Queec's position in Confederation.

B.C. Gas Price 'Out of Reason'

VANCOUVER (CP) — B. C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault Tuesday accused the Social Credit government of encouraging the extended use of electricity to the detriment of natural gas consumers.

The B.C. Hydro and Power Authority should be made answerable to a strengthened Public Utilities Commission, he said in a speech to North Surrey Liberals.

Referring to reductions made this week in electricity rates, Mr. Perrault said B.C. natural gas rates are out of reason."

"Evidence indicates that Hydro realizes something like $8,000,000 to $9,000,000 in profit from the sale of natural gas each year.

"This situation constitutes outright consumer exploitation."

He said consumers of both electricity and natural gas deserve services at the lowest possible cost.

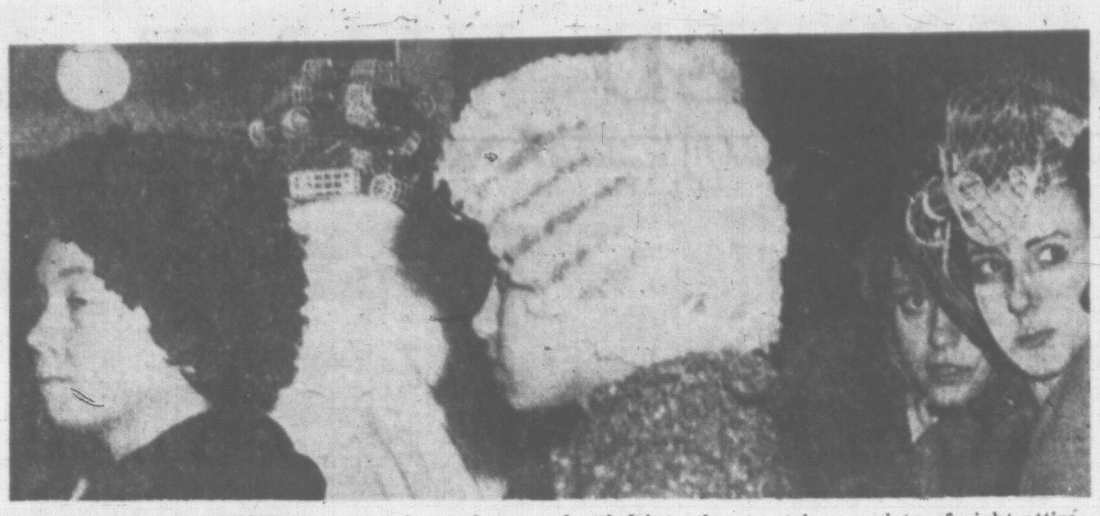

Meanwhile, Ald. Halford Wilson told Vancouver city council Tuesday that a corporation of metropolitan area communities should own and operate public transit as well as electricity and natural gas distribution systems.

Council will debate the proposal next week.

Ald. Wilson said cost of financing the systems could be done on a self-liquidating basis.

Costs of operating the transit system could be met by the profits of the electricity and gas distribution systems and metropolitan control would make possible lower gas and electricity rates, he said.

He said legislation required to establish a joint - municipality corporation to operate the systems already exists in the form of the new provincial "minimetro" legislation approved by the legislature last week.

Canada Fails to Locate Slippery Twins

OTTAWA (UPI)—The government was asked Tuesday if it knew the whereabouts of Canada's two most famous escapees —accused dope smuggler Lucien Rivard and former union boss Hal Banks.

The Commons reply given by Justice Minister Guy Fraveau was an emphatic "No".

Banks, former tough guy Canadian president of the Seafarers' International Union, was last seen on a yacht off Brooklyn, N.Y.

Rivard hasn't been seen since he escaped from jail March 2.

New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas asked Favreau if he was satisfied "reasonable precautions were taken to prevent" the Rivard escape.

Favreau replied it wouldn't be proper for him to comment "on the discharge by a provincial authority of its own responsibilities."

New Body to Replace Historic U.K. Council

LONDON (Reuters) — London bid farewell Tuesday to the civic government which has guided the metropolis for 76 years — the London County Council.

The LCC, formed in 1889 when London was largely a capital of widely-sprawled villages, held its last meeting Tuesday and faded into history to make way for the more powerful and modern Greater London Council.

Queen Elizabeth, in a special message, thanked the 13,000 councillors who had served on the LCC since its foundation and wished "good fortune" to the GLC, which takes over the reins of government today.

The LCC during its lengthy rule administered an area of 127 square miles, made up of 85 boroughs and housing 3,250,000 people.

But under the GLC, created two years ago by an act of Parliament to handle the affairs of this sprawling metropolis, the area of responsibility will become even wider.

Under the new plan, chunks of the surrounding counties of Surrey, Kent, Essex, Hertfordshire and Middlesex are incorporated into Greater London in order to include people who, although living in the suburbs, consider themselves Londoners.

The GLC area will cover 722 square miles and encompass 9,000,000 persons. The boroughs have been compressed into 32.

9 IN MEMORIAM

HOWE — In loving memory of a wonderful husband and father, Wallace Arthur Howe, who passed away March 31, 1964.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach;
Sweet to remember him who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as dear.

—Sadly missed by his loving wife, daughter and family.

KUNALEVICK — Gina Kunavelick, aged 4, who was taken from us March 31, 1961.

Little angel, in heaven, so dear,
Will live in our hearts from year to year.

—Jean and Don.

MANDEFIELD — Florence, who passed away March 31, 1960.

My lips cannot tell how I miss her,
My heart cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how I miss her
In a home that is lonesome today.

—Always remembered by husband Christopher, daughter Mrs. Lucy Hubbard, and son Robert.

Revenue $175 — let the tenants pay for your house, while you enjoy free rent, and free heat (not to mention light and water). This is one way to INDEPENDENCE. This building — occupied by quiet — tenants has a brand new oil furnace in the basement. New wiring and considerable new decoration. Some decorating remains to be done, hence the low price of $9,500. Try with a low down payment of $2,000 or if someone is paying you under an agreement or mortgage, by trading the paper. Call Wess Dickie, 382-4312, eves, EV 3-3640.

IS NOT QUITE WHAT YOU WANT
It isn't what you want because the acre and a half lot is long and narrow and the kitchen is compact and small.
BUT
None of the other properties you have looked at are quite what you want either. The one with a square lot is too far from town and the home with the large kitchen is too old.
THIS IS THE ONE
YOU SHOULD BUY
BECAUSE
1. It is reasonably close to town
2. It is near school
3. Only 10 years old
4. Full basement, rumpus room.
5. Three (or four) bedrooms
6. A barn for the horse

FABULOUS GORGE WATER VIEW

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Wayne and Shuster have found a success formula for a television show. Simply dig out old film of the master comics, edit carefully, write a few facts and voila, W and S Take an Affectionate Look at—.

Stephen

You know something? It works.

You know something else? It's great.

Monday, the Toronto pair devoted the hour to the Marx Brothers and it was one of the funniest pieces of business in the line of comedy seen this year. Maybe, like W and S, we too have a very soft spot for these zany brothers who proved to be perfect "tonic for the Hungry '30s" and are just as "funny in the well-fed '60s."

They dissected the brothers one by one, devoting most of the time to Groucho, Chico and Harpo because this trio are the most memorable of the family lot.

Groucho's secret, they felt, was satire. He kicked anything and everybody in the pants.

Everything Harpo did had a surrealist quality. He was wild and whimsical but was able, while playing his harp, to create a serious mood and sustain it.

Chico, whose piano playing reached the height of musical madness, was probably the greatest under-rated comedian in the business. He not only was a comedian but was also a great straight man.

Thanks, also, to Wayne and Shuster for introducing scenes with the most perfect comic foil, Margaret Dumont.

She passed away just a few weeks ago but her performance with the Marx Brothers will long be remembered. In fact, we can see Groucho and Miss Dumont next month when Groucho hosts ABC-TV's Hollywood Palace. She and he video-taped a comic bit for presentation on the show.

The whole success of the Marx Brothers was created not by their genius but by their hard-working mother, Minnie. Without her they wouldn't have gone into show business.

There were five brothers and their real names were not the ones we know them by today.

Chico was Leonard; Harpo, Adolf; Groucho, Julius; Gummo, Milton, and Zeppo, Herbert.

The strange names were given them by an old vaudevillian, Art Fisher.

It was a nostalgic hour full of reminiscenes and one, like the preceding "Affectionate Looks," worthy of repeating.

The summer doldrums would be an ideal time to spice up television fare.

This column has criticized W and S for individual performances in the past but in this hour can find no fault.

When you stop and think about it, the Canadian pair's contributions to the field of comedy would also make perfect material for "An Affectionate Look at Wayne and Shuster."

Picketer Wins Damages For Injuries

VANCOUVER (CP) — A picket line captain who received severe leg injuries in a fracas during a 1961 strike was awarded $9,750 in British Columbia Supreme Court Monday.

Mr. Justice Craig Munro made the award to Donald Leroy Stanton against Taylor, Pearson, Carson (B.C.) Ltd. and company truck driver Frank Milne.

He found that during an "ugly, noisy and emotion-charged" scene at the then strike-bound company's premises July 21, 1961, Milne had used a 15-foot timber as sort of a "flying wedge" when picketers were nearby.

Stanton was hit by the timber as Milne attempted to drive his truck over it. Mr. Justice Craig Munro assessed Stanton's damages at $19,000 but said that Stanton was 50 per cent to blame because he failed to take reasonable precautions for his own safety.

YOUR HEALTH

Those Two Highballs Can Provide Relief

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Many a wife of a man who has had a heart attack wonders if she should let him have his drink or two before dinner, especially when he says that it relieves his heart pain better than anything else does.

Alvarez

I see now that Dr. Paul Dudley White agrees that in some cases alcohol can give quick relief from angina pectoris. As Dr. White and Dr. Irving S. Wright of New York said, alcohol helps by relaxing the arteries in the heart, and thus letting more blood go through.

Dr. H. M. Marvin, another expert, agreed that alcohol dilates arteries and relaxes nervous tension. It would seem clear then that especially if a drink of two relieves a man's pain and his feeling of tension and perhaps anxiety, his wife should not insist on taking that comfort away from him.

I remember well many years ago, seeing a Scottish banker as he came through San Francisco on his way home to Chicago from Shanghai. Because of some heart pain, I suggested that he take a couple of highballs before dinner. He almost shouted, "Oh, Doctor! Will you put that in writing? My wife is president of a temperance union."

I laughed, and put it in writing, but his wife maintained that there had been some collusion between her husband and me, and so the poor man had to go without the "medicine" I had prescribed.

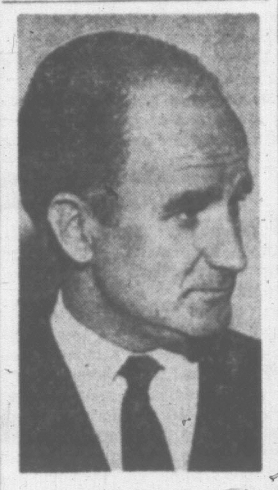

'PERSECUTION'

Another difficulty I have had with many an anxious wife of a man who has had a mild heart attack, well recovered from, is her tendency to keep saying, "Walk slowly; take it easy; don't lift that suitcase." As I tell such a woman, "That is a form of distressing persecution called love." If she had a little more love, she would leave the poor man alone.

A number of very able heart specialists have been saying that they do not believe in persecuting the man, especially if after his heart attack, he is comfortable, he is not suffering from anginal pain in the chest, and he is not short of breath.

My old professor at college used to say, "Let the man do whatever he can do comfortably." Actually, the more he does in the way of mental and physical work, the better it will be for him. Walking will strengthen not only his leg muscles, but his heart muscle and his lung muscle.

Now Dr. Daniel Brunner of Israel says that he has statistics to prove that patients who worked hard after they recovered from their heart attack survived longer than did those who remained sitting still.

PELLETIER
. . . others resign

Prominent Journalist Given Sack

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerard Pelletier, 44, editor-in-chief of Montreal La Presse and a prominent figure in Quebec journalism, announced Tuesday that he has been dismissed. He had occupied his post since 1961.

Mr. Pelletier said he received the dismissal notice Tuesday morning and that it took effect immediately. He said he was advised that the reason was the publication by La Presse of two erroneous headings last Friday.

A spokesman for the newspaper, Canada's second largest daily, declined to make any statement on the dismissal.

FOUR RESIGN

Mr. Pelletier told his colleagues and also repeated in a statement that "I suspect other motives for my dismissal."

At a meeting of the editorial staff, four of his colleagues announced they were resigning as members of the editorial board "as a gesture of solidarity.

Mr. Pelletier said in his statement that he had joined La Presse in June, 1961, when the "newspaper was going through a difficult crisis."

Mr. Pelletier said he had told the management that it would take several years to re-establish La Presse as an effective and efficient newspaper.

Boat Regulation

PERTH, Ont. (CP) — James Auld, Ontario minister of tourism, has served notice that the government intends to regulate the operation of small boats in the province and may go so far as to require boat operators to carry public liability insurance.

NEW BUILDING

YM-YWCA Planning Moving Day in June

The Victoria YM-YWCA will take posession of its new $1,300,000 building at 80 Courtney Street in June, building committee chairman S. J. Cunliffe said today.

"There is no doubt in our minds that we are standing on the threshold of an entirely new era of service to the Greater Victoria community," said Mr. Cunliffe.

The new building will include a coffee shop, a main lounge and clubrooms, a youth lounge and clubrooms, locker and shower rooms, a swimming pool, a gymnasium, a weight training and combatatives gym, a health club, a running track on the roof of the building, a chapel and administrative offices.

The main entrance is off Courtney Street and a youth entrance has been provided from Broughton Street to the first floor.

It is anticipated the new gym will allow expansion of the boys and girls physical program to 800 members in comparison with the present 500.

The new weight training and combatative gym will offer twice the space and facilities as the present one.

The new swimming pool is 25 metres long and 30 feet wide.

Because of this it can be used to swim metric lengths and if required, headboard can be put in to reduce the length to 25 yards.

An expanded aquatic program will serve about 1,000 students a week, including training in diving for competition.

The outdoor running track on the roof will be 308 feet around, or about 17 laps to the mile. It will be surfaced in an asphalt composition material to provide an all-weather surface.

The new health club will accommodate about 300 members. It will include a private exercise gym, steam bath, ultra violet lights, a lounge and showers.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Ray Fuller, age 11, of Winston-Salem, N.C., for his question:

How can white light be made of colors?

Our eyes surpass the finest of man-made cameras. Every waking moment they convey a multitude of moving pictures to the brain, and these images are captured both in color and in three dimensions. Animals also have vision, but so far as we know they do not see colors as we do.

When we see a vivid splash of color, our eyes are showing us some aspect of an invisible energy. For light is electromagnetic energy, and every color our eyes see is just one thread of this streaming energy. Light, of course, travels at roughly 186,000 miles a second. We know that several other travelers in the universe can equal its speed, but so far as we know nothing can surpass it. Most of our light is the daylight that spans the distance between us and the sun in about eight minutes.

The electromagnetic energy from the sun pulses along in wave lengths. Such wave lengths have been compared to the waves of the sea, and a single wave length is the distance from one peak of energy to the next. The sun's energy is a blend of a vast variety of wave lengths ranging from infinitestimally small to very long. Altogether these various wave lengths are known as the electromagnetic spectrum. The rainbow spectrum of visible light is just a small section in this larger spectrum of energy.

Light Bent and Scattered

Out in space, where there is no interference, the wave lengths of light are blended together. We call this ordinary daylight white light, though actually it is invisible. It remains invisible until it strikes the atmosphere and the solid earth. Then its different wave lengths are separated and split apart. Our eyes see these scattered wave lengths of white light as different colors.

When the shortest wave lengths of light are bent and scattered, we see them as deep purples and blues. They are bent and scattered by the small molecules of the gaseous air long before the daylight reaches the surface of the earth. We look up and see the color of these short wave length rays spread over the sky.

The short wave lengths that our eyes see as blues are bent or refracted at sharp angles. The ones that are slightly longer are refracted less. Our eyes see them as the yellows and greens of the spectrum. The longest wave lengths are bent least. Our eyes see them as colored rays of orange and red.

The world around us is made up from a vast variety of substances and different surfaces. The different objects refract the blended wave lengths of white light in different ways. A red rose absorbs all except the longest wave lengths of light and reflects them back for our eyes to see as red. purple pansy absorbs all the medium and long wave lengths and bounces the shortest waves back to our eyes.

MISS PEACH

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

A few days after she smilingly posed for pictures accompanying the announcement that she would portray Jean Harlow's mother in the Electronovision version of "Harlow," Judy Garland bowed out. The official reason given was "a commitment conflict," but anyone in the trade knows there's no such things if you have a booking agent or a personal manager—a star's contract sometimes has more pages than the scenario, everything is spelled out, lawyers get into the act, and it's not likely that someone suddenly would say, "Oops! Sorry. We just noticed that Judy's supposed to be doing four weeks at the Olympia in Paris." Bill Sargent, president of the firm making the picture, alleges that "billing problems" were introduced by Judy's agent, Freddie Fields, when she wasn't present at the Desilu Gower Studio in Hollywood one day while other members of the cast were rehearsing. But insiders loyal to Judy say she became "incensed and irate" because of a factor that made her feel she wasn't being treated as a pro . . . Herbert Bayard Swope is talking to Vaughn Meader about the starring role in a play titled "Abundantly Yours." If Vaughn says yes he'll road-tour the show all summer in preparation for a fall Broadway opening . . . Bobby Darin has just sold a TV series to Screen Gems via one of its top executives, Steve Blauner, his former manager, but still one of his closest friends.

★ ★ ★

Footnote to the Callas madness: A New Yorker called up a visiting friend and invited him to attend the third act of "Tosca." The out-of-towner asked, with not unnatural surprise: "Third act? Just the third act?"

The explanation was simple. The thoughtful host, realizing everyone wanted to see Callas, arranged for one chum to see the first, another the second, and a third the third.

Anthony Newley's ballad "Where Can I Turn To?" from his Broadway-bound musical, "The Roar of the Grease-paint —The Smell of the Crowd," already has 46 record versions on the market . . . A complete unknown, Alex Cord, will play the John Wayne role in the re-make of "Stagecoach." Alex is a complete unknown to the profession, an ex-rodeo champ from Montana who went to England to try to become an actor. Apparently succeeded. (Amazing they didn't change his first name to Rip when they got him to Hollywood.)

Something new will be present when Al Hirt plays his twin concerts at Carnegie Hall on April 22 and 24. His pet trumpet—the one he's used consistently throughout his career —was stolen out of the trunk of his car, and he's breaking in a new one for Carnegie.

★ ★ ★

Gotham's colony of British actors has found a home-away-from-home at the English pub in Greenwich Village. One group, spear-headed (pun intended) by talented actor Alan Bates, decided there was one authentic touch missing—so they're buying an old-fashioned dart board, something no self-respecting pub should be without . . . Guess which Broadway leading lady drives the other members of the cast crazy while they're onstage and she's not? Stands in the wings and pops and snaps bubble gum.

'Can't Outlaw Noise Without Measuring'

Noise nuisance in Victoria would need a measuring instrument to help police control it any better, city police commission was told Tuesday.

"I believe it is well under control," chief John Gregory said in discussion about a Victoria Noise and Smoke Abatement Club complaint of street noise.

"It is a matter of degree of noise; how do you judge the degree of noise?" the chief said.

"Under the bylaw, unless we had an instrument to measure noise, it is practically impossible to make a charge."

The club complained to city council of tire-screeching, horn-blowing and "rowdyism" around city streets, especially at tavern closing time.

Wedding processions often are a source of auto horn-blowing, the chief pointed out. These, too, are hard to stop, "but we do warn people occasionally," he said.

"We could outlaw weddings," commissioner Gordon Carter commented.

Skipper Guilty Of 'Inattention'

SEATTLE (AP)—Capt. Robert H. Ryning, master of the Alaska Steamship Co. freighter Tonsinia when she ran aground near Campbell River Jan. 20, has been found guilty of inattention to duty, the U.S. Coast Guard said Wednesday.

Herbert H. Plumb, third mate who was on watch, was found guilty of misconduct. His licence was suspended four months, with the suspension suspended for nine months, a spokesman said. Both are from Seattle.

NEW U.S. TACTIC IN VIET NAM

'Firestorm' Raid Clears Red Lair

LABOR MPs ALARMED

Wilson Faces More Unrest

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson faced mounting demands today from some members of his ruling Labor party to modify his unqualified support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The demands were made at a meeting of the party's foreign affairs group. Though private, it was clear from leaks that disquiet over American retaliation policies has spread beyond the party's extreme left wing.

Political sources said the extreme view was put by Konni Zilliacus, who demanded that Britain pull out of the Western alliance unless American bombing of North Viet Nam is stopped.

A more moderate viewpoint expressed by Michael Foot apparently found majority support. He urged that while expressing general support for American aims in Viet Nam, Wilson should make clear this support has limits and should assert a right to consultation.

DISLIKES GAS, NAPALM

He demanded also that the government should dissociate itself from the use of gas and napalm, and urgently appeal to the United States not to consider the bombing of its embassy in Saigon as justification for more ruthless action.

Another speech apparently reflecting a majority view came from William Molloy, representative of London's Ealing district. He suggested that a UN force be prepared to go into Viet Nam, with a British contingent if necessary.

Britain so far has limited its involvement in Viet Nam to a small force of jungle warfare experts who are advisors to the South Vietnamese forces.

Viet Nam is certain to be the main issue in a foreign affairs debate in Commons Thursday. Wilson is expected to stress that he is doing all possible to bring about peace negotiations but that any public move will have to await the return of his special representative, Patrick Gordon Walker, from Asia.

Gordon Walker hopes to visit Peking and Hanoi. It is not yet known whether the Communist regimes there will receive him.

Tempo Of War Steps Up

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States struck against Viet Cong guerrillas today with a new, awesome tactic of warfare — a "firestorm" that roared through a Communist-infested forest. At the same time U.S. and South Vietnamese planes mounted a massive 100-plane attack against the north.

In the suddenly stepped-up tempo of the war the Communist Viet Cong shot down three U.S. helicopters near Da Nang, killing two American marine officers and wounding 16 army men and marines.

One Vietnamese Skyraider fighter-bomber was shot down but there was no report on the pilot. The Communists claimed 14 planes were shot down.

SOFTENED SITES

Air force jets softened up the four radar sites and then jet and propeller-powered fighter-bombers followed with tons of bombs.

The spokesmen said the sites were near Vinh, north of the 17th parallel which divides North and South Viet Nam.

It was the 25th American air raid against North Viet Nam since the latest series of U.S. attacks began in earnest in February.

Maj.-Gen. Joseph Moore, U.S. air force commander for South Viet Nam, disclosed today a new type strike had been made against guerrillas operating northeast of Saigon—the use of fire bombs in Boi Loi forest to touch off an immense "fire storm" to drive the Viet Cong into the open.

Moore said the stage was set for the forest fire by the largest defoliation program ever undertaken in Viet Nam. Air force planes used chemicals to kill all shrubbery in the forest so it would burn better when the fire raid came today.

Hanoi Raid As Revenge Unlikely Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Informed sources discounted today any immediate U.S. attack on Hanoi, the capital of North Viet Nam, after the U.S. Embassy in Saigon was heavily damaged by terrorists.

Officials said a statement by President Johnson, denouncing the attack on the embassy, indicated no special retaliatory action was being planned.

In his statement, issued late Tuesday 18 hours after the embassy attack, Johnson said he would ask Congress for authority and funds to build a new U.S. Embassy in the South Vietnamese capital.

The request may go to Congress today. There is no reason to doubt that Congress will comply with his request.

"The terrorist outrage aimed at the American Embassy in Saigon shows us once again what the struggle in Viet Nam is about," Johnson's statement said.

"This wanton act of ruthlessness has brought death and serious injury to innocent Vietnamese citizens in the street as well as to American and Vietnamese personnel on duty."

LONG SESSION

Opt Out Plan Passes House As End Near

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's opting-out legislation was whipped through the Commons Thursday night as the push continued to end the marathon session and pave the way for a new throne speech and an Easter recess.

For the second successive day eight members agreed to sit well past the usual 10 p.m. adjournment hour and put finishing touches on priority government legislation.

The Canada Pension Plan was passed Monday night and now the Senate has the heavy workload of dealing with it and the opting-out bill before the parliamentary session can be prorogued.

The Commons turns today to an interim supply bill to enable the government to pay day-to-day expenses. Length of this debate is determined by the opposition which can speak on almost any subject it wants—from foreign affairs to justice and so on through all departments.

Final supplementary estimates for 1964-65 is the only other item facing the Commons.

WILL DELAY BUDGET

Prime Minister Pearson said Tuesday—on the 245 day of this record-length session — that a new session will be started immediately after prorogation and a throne speech presented. But he said the budget will be delayed until after the Easter recess.

The pension plan, lengthiest and most complicated bill of the session, is expected to be referred to the Senate banking committee today. There was no indication how long it would remain there.

The prime minister has said the session will not be prorogued until the plan is through both houses.

The opting-out bill, to permit provinces to quit some 17 well-established shared-cost programs, came under heavy opposition fire but late in the night sitting the talk stopped and the voting began.

In about 80 minutes the bill was given second, and then third or final reading, and two amendments were rejected.

A Conservative amendment to shelve the bill pending a federal-provincial conference to discuss provincial development priorities was defeated in a formal vote 109 to 69.

During clause-by-clause study, H. A. Olson (SC—Medicine Hat) moved an amendment to free the provinces from an obligation to continue the programs intact until the original federal-provincial agreements expire several years from now.

'IT'S A FARCE'

He said the requirement made the legislation a "farce" because the provinces would not gain a cent from the tax abatements or cash payments following any opting out.

Finance Minister Gordon explained that the bill was an interim measure until a federal-provincial tax structure committee reports next year and

TAX CUTS SEEN IN NEW BUDGET

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Finance Minister Walter Gordon is expected to bring down a tax-cutting sunshine budget on April 27, if the government's plans go according to schedule.

Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Tuesday that a new session will be called as soon as possible, but the budget would not be brought down before the Easter recess.

Government House leader George McIlraith hopes that the House will rise for the Easter recess on April 14. The date for resuming its sittings after Easter has been tentatively set for April 26, a Monday.

Spanish Airliner Crash Kills 50

FAMED British soccer star Sir Stanley Matthews, 50, officially ended his career as a professional player today. His contract with Stoke City was cancelled by mutual consent, but he will continue to play in exhibition games.

TANGIER, Morocco (UPI)—A Spanish airliner flying tourists to a vacation in Morocco encountered heavy fog while making a landing approach today and crashed into the sea, killing 50 persons, one of them an American.

Two women and a man survived the crash off the North African coast. They were plucked from the water by a fishing boat and rushed to El Kourtoubi hospital in Tangier where they were treated for minor injuries and shock.

Iberian Airlines said the American aboard was Virginia Colman.

The plane was carrying 30 Danes, 11 Swedes, three Britons, two Germans, an American, a Dutchman and a crew of five Spaniards.

FOUR MISSING

Fishing vessels picked up 46 bodies and continued the search for four missing persons who were presumed dead.

The plane was a twin-engine Convair of the Iberian Airlines.

Earthquake Causes Panic

ATHENS (AP) — Two strong earthquakes created wide-spread panic in Athens today, killing one person and injuring another in the central Greek tobacco centre of Agrinion.

National police said the violent tremor at Agrinion destroyed 150 houses and damaged 1,000 others. Thousands fled to open squares or the countryside and feared to return to their homes.

Greek army units were sent to the scene with tents and blankets to set up camps for the homeless.

In Athens, the earthquake sent thousands of residents fleeing outdoors. Upper floors of downtown buildings swayed and rocked. The earthquake's epicentre was near Agrinion, 155 miles northwest of Athens.

Pension Level Based On Average Earnings

(Third of four articles)

Under the Canada Pension Plan, pensions will be related to earnings.

According to information supplied by local actuaries, the pensions will be based on 25 per cent of earnings after a 10-year transitional period.

During the 10-year period, the percentage grades up to 25 per cent in equal steps of one-tenth per year. For example, for someone retiring in 1970, after the plan has been in effect for four years, the percentage will be 10 per cent—that is (4x1/10x25%). The following table illustrates percentages of earnings at given times:

Year	Percentage
1967	2½
1968	5
1969	7½
1970	10
1971	12½
1972	15
1973	17½
1974	20
1975	22½
1976 and later	25

Earnings in excess of contributory maximum do not count for Canada Pension Plan purposes. Initially, this maximum will be $5,000 per year.

A different transitional period applies to retirement age. The earliest retirements will take place in 1967, at age 68, 69, or 70. In 1968, it will be possible to retire at age 67, in 1969 at 66 and, from 1970 on, at age 65.

The pension benefit will be based on a person's average earnings from the effective date of the plan—Jan. 1, 1965—to the time when he starts to draw pension benefits.

Earnings will be adjusted in line with changes in the general level of salaries and wages. Years of low earnings, up to 15 per cent of the contributory period, may be excluded in calculating average earnings. Once pensions begin, they will be adjusted in accordance with upward movements in the consumer price index.

Assuming the $5,000 maximum is not changed, monthly pensions available would be as follows:

Average Monthly Earnings	Pension Payable In 1971	Beginning In 1976 or later
$100	$12.50	$ 25.00
200	25.00	50.00
300	37.50	75.00
400	50.00	100.00
417 or over	52.08	104.17

Old age security benefits will be paid in addition to the amounts above.

Retirement benefits payable before age 70 are subject to a retirement test, which provides for a reduction in pensions.

During this period, pensions will be reduced by one dollar for every two dollars earned in excess of $900 but not in excess of $1,500 per year, and are reduced dollar for dollar by earnings in excess of $1,500 yearly.

Thus, a person otherwise entitled to the maximum annual pension of $1,250, but earning $2,450 or more, will receive no pension until he reaches age 70. This test does not apply to any benefit payable under old age security.

Free-Look-At-Tilikum Petition Supported

Tilikum's outspoken defender, G. R. "Rebel" Mowat reports 100 people signed his petition Tuesday as soon as he drew it up

He is petitioning City Council to maintain the 105-year-old dugout as a free public attraction.

He hopes to send his petition to council Monday.

"This is a serious concern," he said. "Charging an admission to see Tilikum is a violation of a trust.

"And even if it were not, it is a sorry thing to see our finest attractions placed out of the easy view of the public and to require visitors to our city to pay a fee to see them.

"Soon they'll ask to cover up our gardens or put a turnstile on our parks," he said.

Tilikum, at the turn of the century, was sailed across three oceans by a Victorian, John Voss. In 1930 his abandoned vessel was donated to Victoria by a London yacht club. Until two weeks ago it was openly displayed outside Crystal Garden then at Thunderbird Park.

Now, after 35 years, it has been acquired by the new Maritime Museum where people will pay to see it.

Mr. Mowat says it was given to Victoria on condition it be displayed forever without charge. If it must go indoors for preservation, he wants it located in the proposed new B.C. Centennial Museum, to be built on Belleville Street.

"I've had no trouble at all in getting public support," says Mr. Mowat. He even has volunteers to help him collect signatures.

Tilikum seems to hev a lotta tillicums signin' thet petition.

ROUND-A-BOUT

Ray Johnson, 3751 Wilkinson, got his confirmation of a $1,100 win on the Irish Sweepstake Monday.

His ticket was drawn on a horse in Saturday's Grand National steeplechase in England but was scratched before the race started.

He became a bit worried when he didn't receive a cable confirming his ticket.

But it was confirmed in a letter which arrived Monday. He also found out if your horse runs but doesn't finish in the top three you get a cable.

If it's scratched, you get a letter.

Discard those foul rumors from Vancouver that the Union Club in Victoria can't decide which flag to fly atop its flagpole.

"Nonsense," snorted a club official this morning. "Utter nonsense. We shall fly the new Maple Leaf as soon as it arrives. It's been on order for weeks."

A story in the Vancouver Sun stated that a special committee set up to decide which flag should fly had been unable to form a quorum because of divided opinion on the Union Jack, the Red Ensign and the Maple Leaf.

The building inspector said if a fence is built there is no reason why it should exceed the five feet maximum set by Saanich.

Someone asked in our personal ad column last week, would anyone interested in Gurdjieff please make contact.

We didn't think we were interested at first. But the question of what is a Gurdjieff started to gnaw on us. So we went to the Oxford Dictionary, then the Encyclopedia Britannica.

We shook up our "morgue" staff. We pestered the reference section of Victoria Public Library. We even asked some professors at University of Victoria. They told us there is no such thing as a Gurdjieff.

We gave it the acid test—tried using it in a Scrabble game, and were threatened with divorce.

Finally, in Uvic's McPherson Library, we learned that Georgi Ivanovich Gurdjieff was a Russian author (1872-1949). He wrote one book, "Meetings with Remarkable Men" which was translated and published by Rutledge of London in 1963.

Now we can go back to work with a clear mind—except for one thing. What did Gurdjieff say that would inspire a fan club? Anyone care to include him in their summer reading program and report?

HOME GARDEN

Simple to Grow, And So Adaptable

By HILDA BEASTALL

The trollius, or Globe-flowers, are quite fitting plants for spring and early summer, hardy herbaceous perennials doing exceptionally well in our gardens.

Hilda

They are easy to grow, and beautiful additions in many situations, for they are also surprisingly adaptable.

Pale yellow globes like huge buttercups are borne on 12 to 18-inch stems of the earliest variety called, appropriately enough, Earliest-of-All. They will be open to the April sunshine, creating a fresh, pleasing picture with their background of dark, shiny green scalloped leaves.

Later, along in May, another variety, Golden Queen, carries on the good name of the genus. These are taller, 18 to 24-inches, and the large flowers are a rich gold.

Liking a loamy soil, with humus to hold a fair amount of moisture during summer months, trollius will even grow in a clay soil if it is not baked in full sun.

The partial shade of a moist woodland area is really more to its liking or it will enliven a bed shaded at times by tall trees and shrubs.

Trollius will take its place most happily with astilbes and candelabra primulas in boggy sections near pools and streams, or in simulated boggy conditions at the foot of rocks.

I have seen splendid clumps of trollius under tall trees, and in normally cool summers they will continue in bloom until late August.

The best time to plant them is just as growth begins in early April, or to wait until flowering has ceased which would mean early fall.

Apart from their cool beauty in the border, trollius blooms freely enough to provide long-lasting cut flowers for the house, combining well with the airy stems of coral-bells (heuchera) or the larger blossoms of mahogany and red daylilies (hemerocallis) which commences to bloom during June.

Mr. Olson's amendment was defeated 83 to 5.

Some Conservatives such as Erik Nielsen (Yukon), viewed the bill as part of a government pattern to weaken the central government and destroy Confederation. Others such as Marcel Lambert (Edmonton West) and Alvin Hamilton (Qu'appelle) saw the bill as an "innocuous" measure that gave no further power to the provinces.

Gilbert Rondeau (Creditiste, Shefford) and other spokesmen from the party also argued that the bill meant nothing to the provinces in terms of extra tax revenues. He called for an end to co-operative federalism because the provinces had not gained a thin

Nielsen delivered a slashing attack on the government.

He predicted that Prime Minister Pearson would be remembered in history as the man who drove the wedge of fragmentation into confederation.

Nielsen accused Pearson of being "almost indecent in his haste" to give away powers of the federal government that have taken 100 years to consolidate.

"He (Pearson) has shifted with every wind and swayed with every change in temperature . . . to cancel, to surrender, to give in, so long as no one gets annoyed with this pristine government, this aggregation of simon pures on the treasury benches," Nielsen charged. "It's a farce, I say."

He said the prime minister was willingly "shovelling out" federal powers to the provinces because he was "so starving and hungry for support.

DEEP FREEZE

"This dismantling of the constitutional structure and surrender of the federal authority . . . means placing this Parliament in the deep freeze," Nielsen said.

"Continue to weaken this nation at the centre and it will come apart. It is fragmentation leading to separation on the one hand and absorption into the United States on the other," he said.

FIRST CALL with Ben Wicks

"If they don't hurry up we'll be too old to enjoy it."

10,000 Demonstrate

MANILA (Reuters) — Some 10,000 persons demonstrated Monday in front of the Philippines Congressional building against a law seeking to authorize religious teaching in all public schools. At present religious instruction is optional. More than 80 per cent of the Philippines' 30,000,000 population is Roman Catholic.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31, 1965—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

For most of a year now, we have been entertaining as our guest a domestic shorthair cat of Egyptian elegance. She has a flawless pelt, a tail of extravagant length, and a pretty face dominated by eyes round, yellow and enormous, which stare unblinking through coaxings, endearments, and occasional bursts of language from me, her captive host.

She scorns bottle milk, insisting on the canned variety. This she supplements with a morning draught from the bowl inhabited by my goldfish, Suki. The goldfish likes her. Occasionally he flips up to touch noses.

This super-cat's name is Cleopatra, and she has given us to understand that she is in an interesting condition.

If a pear shape, a large yet finicky appetite and a fondness for napping in unlikely spots are signs of approaching maternity, she is indeed about to become a little mother.

On the other hand, and in spite of my family's indignant rebuttals, I'm halfway convinced the beast is faking. Circumstantial evidence, I point out, should be approached warily.

All I know for sure is that we have—and have had for quite some time now—a fat cat. I'll believe Cleopatra is serious about motherhood when she gets off the dime and shows us kittens in the basket.

★ ★ ★

I am not normally so hard-hearted, but the plain fact is that from the night Ron fetched her home, a drenched and shivering waif in his jacket, she has treated me like a dog.

It isn't just that when I first attempted to tickle under her chin, she sank all four meathooks in my leg and bit me.

She used to treat all four of us so; in fact we boasted that we were possessed by the toughest, meanest cat in the city. By degrees, though, she has made friends in her aloof way with everyone else. I'm the standout; my dear ones suggest that she simply likes the way I taste.

Always, I have been scrupulosuly correct in my dealings with cats. When an overgrown hoodlum type with white face and paws began hanging around the place some weeks ago, I scatted him off with nothing heavier than harsh words and a couple of fir cones.

Cleopatra disappeared soon after. For four days we didn't catch a glimpse of her, although Mister White-Face once gave me a go-to-hell stare through the glassless window of Susan's long-disused playhouse.

On the fifth morning, Cleopatra came home, purring. She rubbed affectionately against three sets of ankles, strolled over and bit me, then condescended to eat a tin of chopped tuna and lap up half a can of milk.

It was the last half of the last can in the house, so I took my coffee black, with comments about snooty cats for whom the best was none too good.

Not long after that episode, everyone but me started lining up homes for Cleopatra's anticipated brood.

★ ★ ★

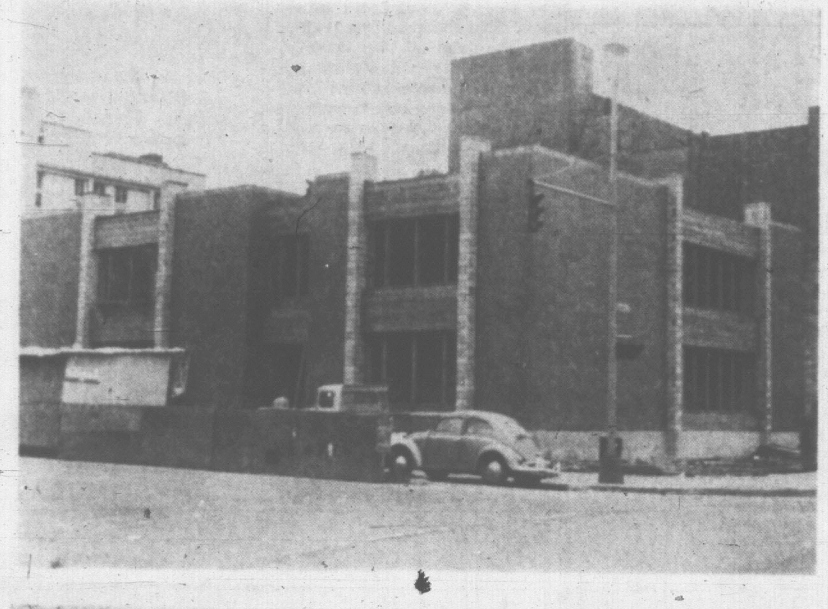

That's how life wags at the moment. When her feline majesty gives me a conversational nip, I'm forbidden to strike back. Three separate maternity boxes have been prepared in strategic spots, one of them lined with a fishing shirt I wasn't half ready to discard.

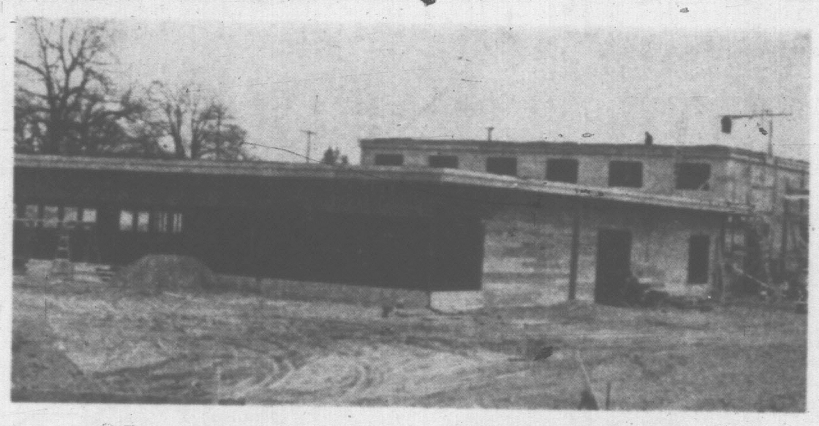

Come to think of it, Cleopatra hasn't bitten me for a couple of days now, at least not with malice, and I'm hopeful she will soon quit mistaking me for an overgrown mouse.

Yesterday evening, too, she emitted only the gentlest of growls when I stroked her glossy back. Later, she tiptoed in from the kitchen and favored me by sharing my pillow.

That last display of dawning affection, if such it is, I can get along very well without. After all, Cleopatra may not be faking!

Building Boom Bowls Right Along

Construction boom in Greater Victoria is shown in progress at three buildings—two in Saanich and one in the city.

Saanich's $700,000 municipal hall (top picture), is rapidly taking shape on Vernon Avenue off the Patricia Bay Highway.

The hall should be completed by late summer when municipal employees will move from their present quarters at Royal Oak.

The Senior Citizens' Recreation Centre at Centennial Square (centre), costing $225,000, will be completed in early May.

New home for Slegg Brothers at Quadra and Reynolds (bottom photo), should be ready in June when the Sidney headquarters will become a branch.

The building, covering 18,000 square feet on a five-acre site, will handle both wholesale and retail lumber and the company's construction business.

Topics of the Day

Government House in Ottawa announced today that George Cowley, 35, of Victoria has been appointed attache to Governor-General Vanier.

Mr. Cowley, the son of the late air vice-marshal A. T. Cowley and Mrs. Marion Cowley of Victoria, is a graduate of the Royal Canadian Naval College, Royal Roads and of McGill University in Montreal.

Barry Cox, 1743 Pembroke, was convicted of dangerous driving on Carey Road March 12 after a trial Tuesday afternoon in Saanich magistrate's court.

Constable John Post testified that Cox admitted when first questioned by police that he had been racing with another car but subsequently denied this.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded Cox to April 19 for sentence.

Serving and retired members of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals and the Royal Signals are invited to attend a memorial service for the Princess Royal in Christ Church Cathedral Sunday at 3 p.m.

The service is organized by the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) in memory of the Princess Royal, its former colonel-in-chief.

The princess was also colonel-in-chief of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals and the Royal Signals.

A fire of unknown origin did about $3,000 damage Tuesday evening to the home of R. J. Alm, 3020 Devon, and also damaged valuable books and paintings.

Exact total of the loss is not yet determined. Oak Bay Fire Chief William Pearson said the fire started in a closed package of clothes.

He said he will investigate today to try to determine the cause.

Mr. Alm said he discovered the bathroom filled with smoke when he returned home after work. The fire started in the basement.

Victoria Machinery Depot today side-launched a 175-foot general cargo barge for Riv Tow Towing Co. of Vancouver at its Dallas Road shipyard.

The all-steel, green and white barge has a 44-foot beam and cost "in excess of $100,000," a VMD spokesman said today.

Arthur Hawes, 3533 Saanich Road, was given a six-months suspended sentence for theft when he appeared in Saanich court Tuesday.

He pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to stealing $2.75 from Loomer Lanes on March 20. He collected the money from five youths were were bowling at the alley.

All B.C. branches of the Royal Canadian Legion will attend a provincial convention in the Curling Rink May 23-26.

All Victoria branches will participate.

Ask The Times

Q. Is it illegal or disrespectful to fly a foreign flag below the Canadian flag on the same rope and flag pole? When flying foreign flags, is it correct to fly a larger foreign flag below the Canadian flag or should they be of equal size?

R. J.

A. To begin with, flag etiquette is not clearly defined in Canada—only custom.

It is considered poor etiquette to fly another nation's banner below the Canadian flag.

In wartime, if an enemy vessel is captured, the victor is permitted to fly his flag over that of the vanquished.

It is better etiquette to fly another nation's flag on a separate stave and halyard—and never higher than the Canadian flag.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

CAPT. DON McMILLAN

METROPOLITAN UNITED

Church Rite to Mark Sally Ann's 100th

The Salvation Army will join with Metropolitan United Church next Sunday in celebrating the army's 100th birthday.

Morning and evening services in the church will actually mark the birthday of General William Booth, who founded the Salvation Army in April, 1865.

Capt. Don McMillan, leader of the Victoria Citadel at 757 Pandora Avenue, will preach at the 11 a.m. service in Metropolitan and the Citadel Band will play with the church choir at the evening service.

"These services will culminate the first 100 days of our centenary year," Capt. McMillan said, "and we are happy to share them with a downtown church."

Capt. McMillan recalled that General William Booth was born at Nottingham, Eng., on April 10, 1829. The son of a builder, he became a revivalist preacher at the age of 15.

In 1864 he went to London and conducted services in tents and on street corners. One day he said to his son, Bramwell:

"I wish I had a volunteer army to preach the gospel all over the world."

In 1865 he formed what was called the Volunteer Army and, with a handful of supporters, held services all over London. This organization was renamed the Salvation Army in 1878.

"We now have 16,659 citadels all over the world" Capt. McMillan said, "and our work is carried on by 25,474 officers and thousands of volunteers.

City Facing Crisis In Social Problems

Results of Study Submitted Tonight

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria has more separate fund appeals than any other city of comparative size—but the social problems they attempt to ease keep growing.

Is a new approach to social planning nedeed?

Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria is hoping for an answer tonight.

In September last year an independent committee on social planning was formed by the council. Its members were drawn from University of Victoria, Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Victoria Medical Society, Victoria Labour Council, Capital Region Planning Board and the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C. Study the matter and report, it was told.

Chairman S. J. Cunliffe presents the committee report at the annual meeting of the Community Welfare Council tonight at Spencerhouse.

★

Hints to the committee's findings are probably contained in these facts that are worrying the welfare council:

- During the two years 1962-1963 there was a 50 per cent increase in the number of children declared wards of the community.
- In 1963 there was a 50 per cent increase in Family and Children's Service cases of children born out of wedlock—319 cases in one year.
- While the over-all population of boys in the 10-17 age group increased 56.3 per cent (1956 to 1963) the number of delinquent boys increased 74.4 per cent.
- The number of boys charged with traffic offences jumped by 68 per cent. Other offences jumped 85 per cent.
- In 1963 one out of every 264 boys in Greater Victoria was sent to industrial school while the urban average in B.C. was one in 290.

★

The committee also learned that Greater Victoria's rapid rate of growth is changing former patterns. The number of elderly persons is declining slightly and the number of persons aged under 19 is increasing.

Greater Victoria still has twice as many people aged over 65 than Canada generally, per thousand of population, but the percentage of elderly in Saanich is reduced. Victoria has 21 per cent, greatly adding to need for special services.

The welfare council told the committee, "The present pattern of health, welfare and recreational services can be described only as a hodge podge."

Given as reasons were different boundaries of operations for various welfare agencies and government departments, duplication of services and a lack of policy as to which agency should offer certain services, and how financing should be set.

The committee learned that there are "glaring inadequacies" in current services—particularly mental health care for children and home care services for the ill.

★

Victoria has no complete assessment of its needs or its resources to meet these needs, the committee was told.

It also was told that several recent provincial acts have forced more responsibility for services on the municipalities.

And the terms of reference pointed out, "In spite of the fact that the Community Chest (United Appeal) has taken into membership eight additional agencies in the past eight years, there still exists no little confusion and competition in annual "charitable" and "health" appeals and a probably more serious chaotic situation exists in the area of capital campaigns.

"Greater Victoria has more separate appeals than any other Canadian city of comparable size."

The committee also was asked to study the fact that "all taxing and fund-raising authorities are finding it continually more difficult to obtain adequate financing for existing services in the face of increasing demands on these services.

"But to date, no attempt has been made by anyone to make a comprehensive review of our needs and resources or to establish any logical system of priorities."

★

Will the committee report make firm recommendations for decisive moves to counteract these trends—or will it merely recommend new committees and new studies?

Will the various municipal councils and the provincial government accept whatever recommendations are put forward, and act on them — or will the report be pigeon-holed and the committee frustrated.

Two years ago the Community Welfare Council had prepared a report on recreation needs for this district.

Copies were sent to all municipalities and the recommendations were highly publicized. Esquimalt passed a bylaw establishing its own recreation council, but an intermunicipal committee tabled the report.

Victoria included a Senior Citizens' Recreation Centre in Centennial Square plans. Oak Bay voters rejected a similar project. No Greater Victoria recreation commission evolved, nor was the welfare council given authority or funds to undertake district-wide improvements.

What will happen this time?

FRENCH SCHOLARSHIPS OPEN TO LOWER ISLAND STUDENTS

Lower Vancouver Island high school students have a chance to win scholarships to attend a conversational French language course at the University of Victoria this summer.

On April 10 the department of modern languages will administer an oral French test to select the winners of six $50 scholarships for students who wish to attend La Maison Francaise in July.

The awards are presented by the French Film Committee and are available to students of French 20, 91 and 92 of the public and independent schools in Greater Victoria and lower Island.

Budget Shocker Jolts Aldermen

'Bleak Picture' Says Comptroller As 7.4-Mill Boost Faces Chopping

A proposed $865,000 increase in city spending—or 7.4 mills on the 1965 tax rate—was greeted today with dismay by aldermen going into budget-trimming sessions.

"If doesn't look very good," said Ald. M. H. Mooney as the preliminary picture was presented by comptroller James Bramley.

"I guess I was just a pipe dreamer to think we could hold the mill rate with the increase in assessment and higher provincial grant," he added.

A ray of hope was introduced by Mayor R. B. Wilson, who suggested council may be justified in holding the line with extraordinary expenditures since work is being done by capital budget plan.

Mr. Bramley said the net proposed budget increase does not take into consideration the school tax question.

TWO MILLS

"I'll go out on a limb and predict a school rate increase of two mills, but we could be wrong."

The actual amount should be known by mid-April.

Last year the total Victoria mill rate was 57.9, including 20.4 mills for school purposes and 37.5 mills for general purposes. This was a 2.9-mill increase over 1963.

The proposed budget increase for 1964, requiring an additional 6.2 mills, was chopped down in estimates by 3.3 mills.

Last year's budget ended up at $11.5 million.

The comptroller said the mill this year is valued at $103,000.

"There is the bleak picture," Mr. Bramley said.

"You have quite a task to bring the mill rate down to a level acceptable by ratepayers," he told the committee in estimates.

"No doubt we are involved in all these additional activities, but how far should we go?" he said, referring to such extras as McPherson Playhouse, Crystal Garden, Canadian Centennial.

Ald. Austin Curtis noted an increase of $61,125 in ordinary expenditure for McPherson Playhouse.

$1,000 WEEKLY

He asked Mr. Bramley if the theatre would "lose about $1,000 a week" this year. The comptroller agreed.

Ald. Curtis suggested department heads go over the list of increased ordinary expenditures—totalling $732,214 without considering police and fire salary increases, Memorial Arena operation and a university grant—to cut some more out.

"Mr. Bramley has gone over these estimates very carefully," city manager Dennis Young said.

"Quite frankly, there is little slack in these ordinary expenditures."

Even without an increase in salaries, police department expenses will be near $1 million.

ARBITRATION

Both police and fire department bargaining goes to arbitration next week, which could result in more money for police and additional staff for the fire department.

Extraordinary expenses submitted in estimates come to $494,970, including $10,365 to cover opening week loss at McPherson Playhouse, $130,145 for parks development, $22,235 for Crystal Garden improvements, $237,325 for public works, $76,900 for sanitation and waste removal, and $18,000 for the police department.

Two Charged After Large Drug Seizure

RCMP seized a large quantity of narcotics and arrested two men in Victoria Tuesday.

The men appeared in city court this morning charged with unlawful possession of drugs.

They are Norman Bradley, a Victoria man now living in Prince George, and Robert Paul of Vancouver.

Crown prosecutor Rodney Taylor said: "In view of the amount of narcotics seized the authorities are considering laying a more serious charge."

Bradley elected trial by judge and Paul elected trial by magistrate. Bradley was remanded one week to fix a date for the preliminary hearing of the charge and Paul was remanded one week for plea.

Mr. Taylor said bail should be substantial for both men. Magistrate William Ostler fixed bail at $2,500 for Bradley and at $1,500 for Paul.

RCMP refused to disclose how large a quantity of drugs was seized or its value. A spokesman said, the narcotics, idenitfied in court as pethidene hydrochloride, is being analyzed.

Strike Vote Next Week

Government-supervised strike votes will be taken next week among more than 2,600 truck drivers, warehousemen and swampers in B.C.

The move follows overwhelming rejection of conciliation recommendations by members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

About 150 men working for five companies are affected in Victoria.

Final results are not expected to be announced until the following week because some truckers live in the interior.

Stars Flicker Out For Hotels, Motels

The star rating system for hotels and motels in B.C. will soon be a thing of the past.

Members of the Provincial Tourist Advisory Council representing hotel, motel and resort owners from all over the province, decided this morning that the star system has outlived its usefulness.

SEAL

In its place will be a government seal of approval in the form of a decal to be placed in a prominent place.

Annual inspections of all hotels and motels will still take place with only those meeting minimum standards of courtesy, comfort and cleanliness granted the seal and a place in "The Green Book" and official publication listing all approved accommodation.

The decision was reached at the spring meeting of the council held in the Empress Hotel this morning.

Uvic Professor Awarded Grant For Research

A University of Victoria professor has been awarded a $6,000 Defence Research Board grant.

Prof. Harry W. Dosso, an assistant professor in the physics department, was given the award to continue his research into the earth's magnetic field as related to the structure of the surface.

Prof. Dosso will continue his research at the University of Victoria.

Vancouver Press Probe Requested

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Favreau was asked Monday to have the combines investigation branch of his department renew an investigation into the Vancouver newspaper situation.

Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur) suggested the action in the light of complaints by the new Vancouver Times which he described as being "about what it suggests are foul practices it has encountered from its competitors..."

Mr. Favreau said he would look into the matter.

Mr. Fisher mentioned that the restrictive trade practices commission several years ago issued a report regarding Pacific Press.

The Times said in an editorial Saturday that it is fighting for survival and needs $100,000 to retire immediate commitments and ensure a profit position by fall.

The editorial said the paper is fighting what it called a two-newspaper, one-company operation. The other Vancouver papers are The Sun and The Province.

Pacific Press owns the mechanical production resources and other assets of The Province, a morning newspaper, and the Sun, an afternoon paper. It employs the staff of both papers but they are independent organizations controlling their own editorial, advertising, circulation and promotional activities.

London Wins Grudge Fight

LONDON (AP) — Brian London, former British and British Empire heavyweight champion, easily outpointed Billy Walker in a 10-round fight at Wembley Stadium Tuesday night.

London weighed 200½, Walker 198¼.

The two boxers shared a reported $61,000 in something of a grudge fight.

ABANDONED in downtown Seattle department store last Friday is "Billy." Meanwhile, police are questioning a woman in San Diego, Calif., concerning the four-year-old. Photograph of the lad was identified by a customs inspector at Blaine, Wash., who said he was on a bus which crossed the border from Vancouver. The boy, who was able to tell police only that his name is "Billy" is being cared for in Seattle.

CLANGING PRESENT . . .

. . . HOLDS LITTLE LURE

Both management and labor are guilty of holding back the modernization British industry needs to compete for a bigger share of world trade. The following last of four articles by an Associated Press reporter gives an American viewpoint on the weaknesses in the British industrial setup and the remedies proposed.

By TOM OCHILTREE

LONDON (AP)—Britain's basic problem can be defined as a sort of sentimental softness toward inefficiency.

This is demonstrated by listless management, wasteful use of labor, outdated production methods and inadequate salesmanship.

While Britain makes a troubled search for a new place in a changing world, many of her people give the impression they prefer a drowsy contentment with the past to the clanging reality of the present.

The British are constantly being told that they must not look back but look ahead, must welcome what is new and acquire a thirst for efficiency. Their politicians of all parties, business executives and trade union leaders all stress this theme. But some of these men go counter to their own words by protecting their own little pockets of inefficiency.

Many people feel that Prime Minister Wilson, the Labor party leader, has one advantage over his Conservative predecessors in tackling the gigantic task of modernizing Britain.

NO NOSTALGIA

Wilson has no nostalgia for the aristocratic and rural ideals. He can face the industrial reality of this island kingdom.

But knowing that restrictive practices must stop and getting them abolished are two different things. The Conservatives tend to have difficulty tackling the management side and the Labor party has to be careful with the trade unions.

The Labor party's basic political strength rests on the 623 separate trade unions in this country with a combined membership of 9,872,000 workers.

There are far too many individual unions. The crafts they speak for tend more and more to overlap, involving the unions in jurisdictional disputes. With so many unions to deal with, contract negotiations become extremely complex for such industries as automobile manufacturing or shipbuilding.

JOBS OBSOLETE

Featherbedding also is encouraged in some unions. They demand job protection for men whose jobs have been eliminated by automation or other reasons.

Unemployment in Britain amounts to less than two per cent of the work force, but this statistic is not as happy as it looks. In many jobs two men do the work one energetic man could do.

Novelist C. P. Snow, who became Lord Snow when he was appointed assistant to the ministry of technology, said recently that "over a great range of industries the Americans produce per man about two to four times what the British produce."

Nepotism, not efficiency, is the factor governing promotions in many companies. Board rooms are filled, not by people who came up through the ranks of an industry, but by men with titles or men who went to the same fashionable public (private boarding) school.

It is often said that the old school tie strangles ambition in this country. The rising young man who really knows the business gets discouraged when advancement passes him by because of social reasons.

SUSPECT EXPERTS

Some managements also cling to a thinly disguised suspicion of technicians, engineers and efficiency experts. Salesmen occupy a much lower place in British industry than they do in North America.

Also, some firms have their own version of featherbedding. Where fear of a manpower shortage is acute, such managements tend to keep more men on the payrolls than efficiency would require against the time when they might be needed.

Ray Gunter, the government's labor affairs minister, has promised to stop restrictive practices by both sides of industry.

Heads B.C. Scouts

VANCOUVER (CP) — George Mussallem, a 47-year-old Haney automobile dealer, has been elected president of the Provincial Council of Boy Scouts for British Columbia and the Yukon. He succeeds Reg Miller, president for the last two years.

Fire Hits Resort

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fire last week destroyed three homes and for a time threatened 30 others at the nearby summer resort area of Crescent Beach. Damage was estimated at $100,000. The fire was believed caused by a faulty furnace in one of the homes. No one was injured.

Leeds Advances to FA Cup Final

LONDON (Reuters)—A goal one minute from time tonight put Leeds United into the English Football Association Cup final for the first time in the team's history.

Leeds beat Manchester United 1-0 in the semifinal replay at Nottingham Forest's ground.

Leeds will meet Liverpool in the final at London's Wembley Stadium May 1. Neither team has ever won the Cup.

Winter Works Decision Soon

OTTAWA (CP)—Extension of the municipal winter works program due to end April 30 is under consideration and a decision will be announced later, Labor Minister MacEachen told the Commons today.

He was asked about an extension by T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, who said severe winter conditions have hampered contractors.

KITIMAT (CP)—Mrs. Helen Moira Parsley, a 48-year-old Kitimat housewife, was shot in the chest Tuesday night and was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

RCMP said today they were holding a man for questioning. A .38-calibre revolver was recovered from the woman's home.

'Firestorm' Raid Clears Viet Reds

SAIGON (UPI)—The United States struck against Viet Cong guerrillas today with a new, awesome tactic of warfare—a "firestorm" that roared through a Communist-infested forest. At the same time U.S. and South Vietnamese planes mounted a massive 100-plane attack against the north.

In the suddenly stepped-up tempo of the war the Communist Viet Cong shot down three U.S. helicopters near Da Nang, killing two American marine officers and wounding 16 army men and marines.

One Vietnamese Skyraider fighter-bomber was shot down but there was no report on the pilot. The Communists claimed 14 planes were shot down.

SOFTENED SITES

Air force jets softened up the four radar sites and then jet and propeller-powered fighter-bombers followed with tons of bombs.

The spokesmen said the sites were near Vinh, north of the 17th parallel which divides North and South Viet Nam.

It was the 25th American air raid against North Viet Nam since the latest series of U.S. attacks began in earnest in February.

Maj.-Gen. Joseph Moore, U.S. air force commander for South Viet Nam, disclosed today a new type strike had been made against guerrillas operating northeast of Saigon—the use of fire bombs in Boi Loi forest to touch off an immense "fire storm" to drive the Viet Cong into the open.

Moore said the stage was set for the forest fire by the largest defoliation program ever undertaken in Viet Nam. Air force planes used chemicals to kill all shrubbery in the forest so it would burn better when the fire raid came today.

LABOR MPs ALARMED

Wilson Faces More Unrest

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson faced mounting demands today from some members of his ruling Labor party to modify his unqualified support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The demands were made at a meeting of the party's foreign affairs group. Though private, it was clear from leaks that disquiet over American retaliation policies has spread beyond the party's extreme left wing.

Political sources said the extreme view was put by Konni Zilliacus, who demanded that Britain pull out of the Western alliance unless American bombing of North Viet Nam is stopped.

A more moderate viewpoint expressed by Michael Foot apparently found majority support. He urged that while expressing general support for American aims in Viet Nam, Wilson should make clear this support has limits and should assert a right to consultation.

DISLIKES GAS, NAPALM

He demanded also that the government should dissociate itself from the use of gas and napalm, and urgently appeal to the United States not to consider the bombing of its embassy in Saigon as justification for more ruthless action.

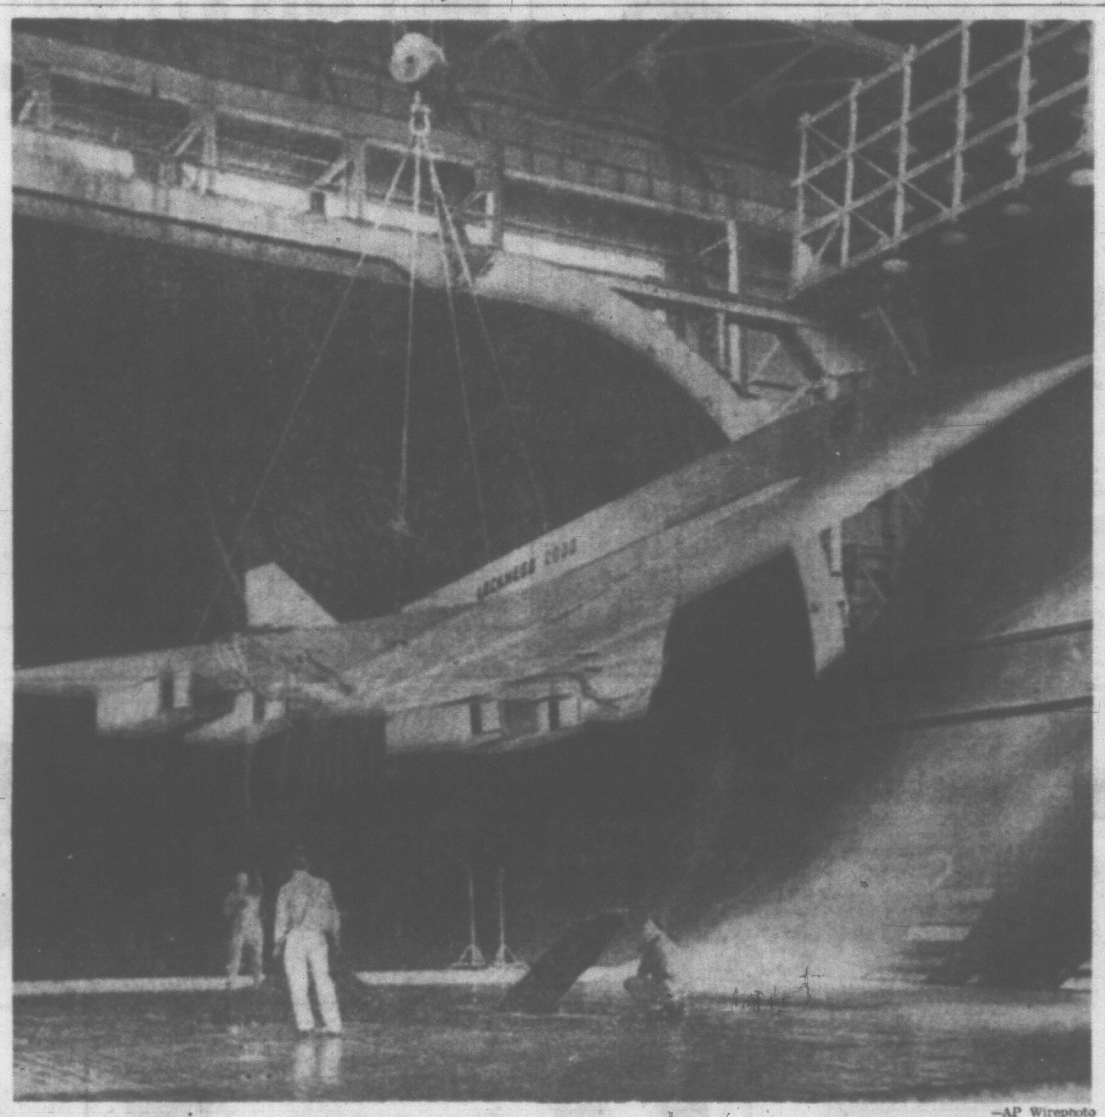

Another speech apparently reflecting a majority view came from William Molloy, representative of London's Ealing district. He suggested that a UN force be prepared to go into Viet Nam, with a British contingent if necessary.

Britain so far has limited its involvement in Viet Nam to a small force of jungle warfare experts who are advisors to the South Vietnamese forces.

Viet Nam is certain to be the main issue in a foreign affairs debate in Commons Thursday. Wilson is expected to stress that he is doing all possible to bring about peace negotiations but that any public move will have to await the return of his special representative, Patrick Gordon Walker, from Asia.

Gordon Walker hopes to visit Peking and Hanoi. It is not yet known whether the Communist regimes there will receive him.

Opt Out Plan Passes House

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's opting-out legislation was whipped through the Commons Thursday night as the push continued to end the marathon session and pave the way for a new throne speech and an Easter recess.

For the second successive day eight members agreed to sit well past the usual 10 p.m. adjournment hour and put finishing touches on priority government legislation.

The Canada Pension Plan was passed Monday night and now the Senate has the heavy workload of dealing with it and the opting-out bill before the parliamentary session can be prorogued.

The Commons turned today to an interim supply bill to enable the government to pay day-to-day expenses. Length of this debate is determined by the opposition which can speak on almost any subject it wants—from foreign affairs to justice and so on through all departments.

Final supplementary estimates for 1964-65 is the only other item facing the Commons.

WILL DELAY BUDGET

Prime Minister Pearson said Tuesday—on the 245 day of this record-length session — that a new session will be started immediately after prorogation and a throne speech presented. But he said the budget will be delayed until after the Easter recess.

The pension plan, lengthiest and most complicated bill of the session, is expected to be referred to the Senate banking committee today. There was no indication how long it would remain there.

The prime minister has said the session will not be prorogued until the plan is through both houses.

The opting-out bill, to permit provinces to quit some 17 well-established shared-cost programs, came under heavy opposition fire but late in the night sitting the talk stopped and the voting began.

In about 80 minutes the bill was given second, and then third or final reading, and two amendments were rejected.

A Conservative amendment to shelve the bill pending a federal-provincial conference to discuss provincial development priorities was defeated in a formal vote 109 to 69.

During clause-by-clause study, H. A. Olson (SC—Medicine Hat) moved an amendment to free the provinces from an obligation to continue the programs intact until the original federal-provincial agreements expire several years from now.

He said the requirement made the legislation a "farce" because the provinces would not gain a cent from the tax abatements or cash payments following any opting out.

Finance Minister Gordon explained that the bill was an interim measure until a federal-provincial tax structure committee reports next year and

TAX CUTS SEEN IN NEW BUDGET

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Finance Minister Walter Gordon is expected to bring down a tax-cutting sunshine budget on April 27, if the government's plans go according to schedule.

Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Tuesday that a new session will be called as soon as possible, but the budget would not be brought down before the Easter recess.

Government House leader George McIlraith hopes that the House will rise for the Easter recess on April 14. The date for resuming its sittings after Easter has been tentatively set for April 26, a Monday.

'Bleak Picture' Says Comptroller

A proposed $865,000 increase in city spending—or 7.4 mills on the 1965 tax rate—was greeted today with dismay by aldermen going into budget-trimming sessions.

"It doesn't look very good," said Ald. M. H. Mooney as the preliminary picture was presented by comptroller James Bramley.

"I guess I was just a pipe dreamer to think we could hold the mill rate with the increase in assessment and higher provincial grant," he added.

A ray of hope was introduced by Mayor R. B. Wilson, who suggested council may be justified in holding the line with extraordinary expenditures since work is being done by capital budget plan.

Mr. Bramley said the net proposed budget increase does not take into consideration the school tax question.

TWO MILLS

"I'll go out on a limb and predict a school rate increase of two mills, but we could be wrong."

The actual amount should be known by mid-April.

Last year the total Victoria mill rate was 57.9, including 20.4 mills for school purposes and 37.5 mills for general purposes. This was a 2.9-mill increase over 1963.

The proposed budget increase for 1964, requiring an additional 6.2 mills, was chopped down in estimates by 3.3 mills.

Last year's budget ended up at $11.5 million.

The comptroller said the mill this year is valued at $103,000.

"There is the bleak picture," Mr. Bramley said.

"You have quite a task to bring the mill rate down to a level acceptable by ratepayers," he told the committee in estimates.

"No doubt we are involved in all these additional activities, but how far should we go?" he said, referring to such extras as McPherson Playhouse, Crystal Garden, Canadian Centennial.

Ald. Austin Curtis noted an increase of $61,125 in ordinary expenditure for McPherson Playhouse.

$1,000 WEEKLY

He asked Mr. Bramley if the theatre would "lose about $1,000 a week" this year. The comptroller agreed.

Ald. Curtis suggested department heads go over the list of increased ordinary expenditures—totalling $732,214 without con-

Earthquake Causes Panic

ATHENS (AP) — Two strong earthquakes created wide-spread panic in Athens today, killing one person and injuring another in the central Greek tobacco centre of Agrinion.

National police said the violent tremor at Agrinion destroyed 150 houses and damaged 1,000 others. Thousands fled to open squares or the countryside and feared to return to their homes.

Greek army units were sent to the scene with tents and blankets to set up camps for the homeless.

Pension Level Based On Average Earnings

(Third of four articles)

Under the Canada Pension Plan, pensions will be related to earnings.

According to information supplied by local actuaries, the pensions will be based on 25 per cent of earnings after a 10-year transitional period.

During the 10-year period, the percentage grades up to 25 per cent in equal steps of one-tenth per year. For example, for someone retiring in 1970, after the plan has been in effect for four years, the percentage will be 10 per cent—that is (4x1/10x25%). The following table illustrates percentages of earnings at given times:

Year	Percentage
1967	2½
1968	5
1969	7½
1970	10
1971	12½
1972	15
1973	17½
1974	20
1975	22½
1976 and later	25

Earnings in excess of contributory maximum do not count for Canada Pension Plan purposes. Initially, this maximum will be $5,000 per year.

A different transitional period applies to retirement age. The earliest retirements will take place in 1967, at age 68, 69, or 70. In 1968, it will be possible to retire at age 67, in 1969 at 66 and, from 1970 on, at age 65.

The pension benefit will be based on a person's average earnings from the effective date of the plan—Jan. 1, 1965—to the time when he starts to draw pension benefits.

Earnings will be adjusted in line with changes in the general level of salaries and wages. Years of low earnings, up to 15 per cent of the contributory period, may be excluded in calculating average earnings. Once pensions begin, they will be adjusted in accordance with upward movements in the consumer price index.

Assuming the $5,000 maximum is not changed, monthly pensions available would be as follows:

Average Monthly Earnings	Pension Payable Beginning In 1971	In 1976 or later
$100	$12.50	$ 25.00
200	25.00	50.00
300	37.50	75.00
400	50.00	100.00
417 or over	52.08	104.17

Old age security benefits will be paid in addition to the amounts above.

Retirement benefits payable before age 70 are subject to a retirement test, which provides for a reduction in pensions.

During this period, pensions will be reduced by one dollar for every two dollars earned in excess of $900 but not in excess of $1,500 per year, and are reduced dollar for dollar by earnings in excess of $1,500 yearly.

Thus, a person otherwise entitled to the maximum annual pension of $1,250, but earning $2,450 or more, will receive no pension until he reaches age 70. This test does not apply to any benefit payable under old age security.

Ray Johnson, 3754 Wilkinson, got his confirmation of a $1,100 win on the Irish Sweepstake Monday.

His ticket was drawn on a horse in Saturday's Grand National steeplechase in England but was scratched before the race started.

He became a bit worried when he didn't receive a cable confirming his ticket.

But it was confirmed in a letter which arrived Monday. He also found out if your horse runs but doesn't finish in the top three you get a cable.

If it's scratched, you get a letter.

Discard those foul rumors from Vancouver that the Union Club in Victoria can't decide which flag to fly atop its flagpole.

"Nonsense," snorted a club official this morning. "Utter nonsense. We shall fly the new Maple Leaf as soon as it arrives. It's been on order for weeks."

A story in the Vancouver Sun stated that a special committee set up to decide which flag should fly had been unable to form a quorum because of divided opinion on the Union Jack, the Red Ensign and the Maple Leaf.

Signs of summer showed up at Saanich council the other day.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Gordon, 3939 Cedar Hill Road, complained of a neighbor burning garbage "at any time of the day, three and four times a day in spring and summer, an awful lot."

They asked permission to build a fence six or seven feet high and 10 feet wide.

"That's a barricade," commented Reeve Hugh Curtis.

The building inspector said if a fence is built there is no reason why it should exceed the five feet maximum set by Saanich.

Council concurred and rejected the application for the "barricade."

Someone asked in our personal ad column last week, would anyone interested in Gurdjieff please make contact.

We didn't think we were interested at first. But the question of what is a Gurdjieff started to gnaw on us. So we went to the Oxford Dictionary, then the Encyclopedia Britannica.

We shook up our "morgue" staff. We pestered the reference section of Victoria Public Library. We even asked some professors at University of Victoria. They told us there is no such thing as a Gurdjieff.

We gave it the acid test—tried using it in a Scrabble game, and were threatened with divorce.

Finally, in Uvic's McPherson Library, we learned that Georgi Ivanovich Gurdjieff was a Russian author (1872-1949). He wrote one book, "Meetings with Remarkable Men" which was translated and published by Rutledge of London in 1963.

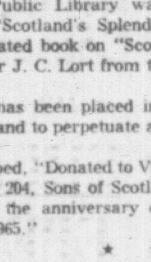

Now we can go back to work with a clear mind—except for one thing. What did Gurdjieff say that would inspire a fan club? Anyone care to include him in their summer reading program and report?

HOME GARDEN

Simple to Grow, And So Adaptable

By HILDA BEASTALL

The trollius, or Globe-flowers, are quite fitting plants for spring and early summer, hardy herbaceous perennials doing exceptionally well in our gardens.

Hilda

They are easy to grow, and beautiful additions in many situations, for they are also surprisingly adaptable.

Pale yellow globes like huge buttercups are borne on 12 to 18-inch stems of the earliest variety called, appropriately enough, Earliest-of-All. They will be open to the April sunshine, creating a fresh, pleasing picture with their background of dark, shiny green scalloped leaves.

Later, along in May, another variety, Golden Queen, carries on the good name of the genus. These are taller, 18 to 24-inches, and the large flowers are a rich gold.

Liking a loamy soil, with humus to hold a fair amount of moisture during summer months, trollius will even grow in a clay soil if it is not baked in full sun.

The partial shade of a moist woodland area is really more to its liking or it will enliven a bed shaded at times by tall trees and shrubs.

Trollius will take its place most happily with astilbes and candelabra primulas in boggy sections near pools and streams, or in simulated boggy conditions at the foot of rocks.

I have seen splendid clumps of trollius under tall trees, and in normally cool summers they will continue in bloom until late August.

The best time to plant them is just as growth begins in early April, or to wait until flowering has ceased which would mean early fall.

Apart from their cool beauty in the border, trollius blooms freely enough to provide long-lasting cut flowers for the house, combining well with the airy stems of coral-bells (heuchera) or the larger blossoms of mahogany and red daylilies (hemerocallis) which commences to bloom during June.

. . . OPT OUT

fiscal arrangements with the provinces are changed.

Mr. Olson's amendment was defeated 83 to 5.

Some Conservatives such as Erik Nielsen (Yukon), viewed the bill as part of a government pattern to weaken the central government and destroy Confederation. Others such as Marcel Lambert (Edmonton West) and Alvin Hamilton (Qu'appelle) saw the bill as an "innocuous" measure that gave no further power to the provinces.

Gilbert Rondeau (Creditiste Sheffort) and other spokesmen from the party also argued that the bill meant nothing to the provinces in terms of extra tax revenues. He called for an end to co-operative federalism because the provinces had not gained a thing.

Remi Paul independent member for Berthier - Maskinonge-Delanaudiere who recently left the Conservative ranks, said Quebecers view the bill as a safeguard for their constitutional rights.

Nielsen delivered a slashing attack on the government.

He predicted that Prime Minister Pearson would be remembered in history as the man who drove the wedge of fragmentation into confederation.

Nielsen accused Pearson of being "almost indecent in his haste" to give away powers of the federal government that have taken 100 years to consolidate.

"He (Pearson) has shifted with every wind and swayed with every change in temperature . . . to cancel, to surrender, to give in, so long as no one gets annoyed with this pristine government, this aggregation of simon pures on the treasury benches," Nielsen charged. "It's a farce, I say."

He said the prime minister was willingly "shovelling out" federal powers to the provinces because he was "so starving and hungry for support.

DEEP FREEZE

"This dismantling of the constitutional structure and surrender of the federal authority . . . means placing this Parliament in the deep freeze," Nielsen said.

"Continue to weaken this nation at the centre and it will come apart. It is fragmentation leading to separation on the one hand and absorption into the United States on the other," he said.

Alabama Race Tension Eases

By REX THOMAS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Some evidence of a change for the better in the racial climate appeared in the cities where the vote rights march began and ended and where services were held for a civil rights worker slain by night riders.

State troopers and sheriff's possemen were not in evidence Tuesday as black-robed women walked behind black - draped wooden coffins bearing the names of persons killed in the civil rights struggle.

There were no incidents. Only a few white spectators watched in Selma and Montgomery.

The 10 empty coffins were placed on the sidewalk at the bottom of the steps leading to the state Capitol in Montgomery when Mills Cowling, head of the department in charge of state property, ordered a halt.

There they remained during a prayer and some talk. The marchers' parade permit expired at 6 p.m. and they left without the coffins. A city truck carried them away.

In Selma, two civil rights leaders called off mass meetings and demonstrations for the rest of the week. They urged the time be spent in preparing for the opening of the Dallas county voter registrar's office Monday.

The civil rights workers mourning the death of Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo of Detroit went from Selma to a tiny church near Lowndesboro, not far from the place where she was shot to death. Then they completed the 50-mile drive to Montgomery and walked the last short distance to the Capitol steps.

There wasn't any trouble, and the racial atmosphere seemed improved. Police Chief Marvin Stanley and police Commissioner L. B. Sullivan kept firm control while troopers remained out of sight inside the Capitol.

Several hours earlier Governor George C. Wallace met with 15 civil rights leaders for one hour and 20 minutes.

"We are hopeful," said Rev. Joseph E. Lowery of Birmingham, a Negro spokesman for the delegation.

There were these other developments on the racial scene:

1. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., told a New York press conference that despite some criticism he believes his proposal for an economic boycott of Alabama is necessary. But, he said, details have not been worked out and he "merely suggested it as a last-resort method."

2. President Johnson's voting rights bill was attacked by Leander H. Perez, political chieftain of the Plaquemines parish (county), La. Perez told the Senate judicial committee "a Communist plan" to take over portions of the South with Negro votes was behind the legislation. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirken of Illinois, who helped draft the legislation, said the Communist charge is "about as stupid a statement as has been uttered in these hearings."

AFTER TALK with Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, Rev. Joseph Lowery (centre) talks with reporters Tuesday. He led group of 16 civil rights leaders into the capitol for an hour-long conference on Negro grievances. (AP Wirephotos.)

VOTER REGISTRATION

'Red Carpet Treatment'

CANTON, Miss. (AP) — Negroes participating in a voter registration campaign here Tuesday got red carpet treatment from Madison county authorities.

Earlier voter registration drives by Negroes brought about arrests and demonstrations.

More than 80 Negroes, with a permit to parade from the city, filed two abreast to the century-old courthouse from a Negro church six blocks away.

They found five booths in which to take their tests. When a light rain began falling, Sheriff Jack Cauthen invited them to wait in the vacant courtroom.

During previous drives, Cauthen and his deputies were dressed in helmets and battle-gear. This time, they were ordinary uniforms.

Madison county has about 10,000 Negroes of voting age and less than 500 are registered, the justice department says.

More than 50 took the test Tuesday. Others said they would return later. Results won't be available for about 30 days.

SHERIFF of Madison County, Jack Cauthen, invites group of Negro voter registration marchers in the courthouse at Canton, Miss., to apply for registration. A group of about 60 Negroes marched without incident.

Outposts in S. Viet Nam Like Medieval Fortress

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON (AP)—A Vietnamese government outpost is something like a medieval fortress. It is not a pleasant place in which to live when an enemy lays siege.

Last Friday, an accident at one of these outposts—Plei Do Lim—killed 13 residents, mostly women and children. Seventy four others were wounded.

During an intense electrical storm, a lightning bolt struck in the remote mountain camp. In the freak electrical discharge that followed, 40 shrapnel mines around the camp were set off by their electric detonators.

Most posts are run by regional militiamen or "civil" irregular defence groups. Each post is likely to be the one strong point in any given community, and when the Viet Cong comes, many of the local people go inside for protection.

Often, the wives and children of the armed defenders live with their men, and diapers hanging on the barbed wire to dry are a common sight.

Sometimes the women fight right along with their men, unloading crated mortar ammunition and feeding belts of machine-gun ammunition.

But as a rule, the posts are a maze of bunkers, trenches, machine-gun emplacements and mortar pits. They are ugly and uncomfortable.

Often, as at Plei Do Lim, the families of the militiamen build their huts just outside the inner defences of their camps but within the outer aprons of barbed wire, mines, spike traps and moats. The idea is that the families can rush inside the post as soon as an enemy attack is mounted.

Since the Viet Cong is usually able to breach the outer defences of a post, this peripheral area is a kind of prepared no-man's-land. Mortars inside the post are preset to fire into the area, and mines are often set up to blast right into the huts.

The dependents of militiamen thus live literally under the gun, and can be blasted to pieces in an instant, either as the result of a false alarm or some accident. The mothers and children know it and are used to it. Tots grow up skipping through the deadly minefields in which they live.

Woman Who Set Herself Afire Dies of Injuries

DETROIT (AP) — An 82-year-old woman has died of burns suffered when she turned herself into a human torch 11 days ago to protest United States policy in South Viet Nam.

She was Mrs. Alice Herz, who doused her clothing with flammable fluid and set herself afire on a Detroit street corner March 16. A widow, she fled Nazi Germany in 1933 and came to the U.S. in 1942.

A note found in a purse beside her said she sought to call attention to "the problems in Viet Nam."

Turks Favor New Talks With Greece

ANKARA (AP)—Turkey said today the Cyprus problem should be settled by first holding talks between Greece and Turkey.

Foreign ministry officials commenting on UN Cyprus mediator Galo Plaza Lasso's report added:

"This realistic approach would not naturally prevent future talks between the five interested parties to the problem."

Plaza had recommended in his report to UN Secretary-General U Thant Tuesday that the first step in ending the 15-month conflict could be immediate negotiations between the Turkish and Greek communities on the island.

Greeks Study Report Before Any Comment

ATHENS (Reuters) — The Greek government today considered a United Nations report warning against the dangers of Enosis—union of Cyprus with Greece.

Key members of the cabinet met to discuss the report but a government spokesman said no official statement would be made until the study was over.

An uneasy truce has reigned over the island, where UN troops have been trying for more than a year to keep the peace between hostile Greek and Turkish communities.

Observers in Athens said some of Plaza's points, including those on Enosis, could not be easily accepted by Greece.

Plaza said Enosis did not have the unqualified support of the Greek-Cypriots as a whole. He said he was also convinced that if it were brought about against the will of the Turks they would resist actively and vigorously.

Partition of the island between the two communities, Plaza added, would lead to lasting unrest.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

The weather in B.C. will be affected by two separate weather systems during the next two days. One of these is a disturbance now crossing the north coast. It will move southeastward across the province today and Thursday accompanied by cloudy skies but precipitation from this system should be confined to the northern regions. A low pressure area which has been stationary off the California coast for the past couple of days has been spreading high-level cloudiness up the Pacific Coast states. Some of this cloudiness will extend into the southern regions of B.C. today and Thursday but will not be accompanied by any precipitation.

A Promise Fulfilled

ALTHOUGH SENATE DEBATE may delay passage of the Canada Pension Plan for a few days, the predominantly Liberal upper house is expected to vote in favor of the measure which was given third reading in the Commons Monday night. The pension plan will become operative next January 1. In conjunction with existing old age pension legislation it should give Canadians a standard of security never known before.

Bitter debate extending over many months has obscured to some extent the magnitude of the legislation which must be credited to Prime Minister Pearson. The pension plan — compulsory, contributory, portable from job to job, tied to the cost of living index, applicable to almost all employees and self-employed persons, and effective in all parts of Canada except Quebec which will have a similar provincial scheme—constitutes an unprecedented step by a democratic government.

While there has been much criticism of the details of the plan, and many changes in the legislation since a first version was introduced in mid-1963, there have been few protests against the principle of the measure. And in the final vote this week, many opposition members joined the government to produce a 159-to-12 majority for the bill. The pension plan is thus approved by all the major parties and may be considered a truly national program.

Details of the contributions and resulting benefits have been widely publicized. While numerous anomalies may exist, it is obvious that a plan of such sweeping application must have many minor discrepancies. It is not a valid criticism of the plan, however, to claim that it is defective because it does not provide for many citizens now too old to contribute to it. The plan is essentially a contributory scheme, and must start at some given moment. Its actuarial soundness should not be imperiled by burdening it with non-contributory beneficiaries; there are new provisions in the Old Age Pension plan for increasingly early assistance to those in the elderly categories.

The unifying effects of this all-Canadian plan are to be noted. Here, in spite of many preliminary objections, is a plan which has won the support in principle of all the provincial governments and will exert uinform benefits from coast to coast.

There are many unanswered questions in the future of the plan. The long-term influence on the Canadian standard of living, the possible inflationary effects, the impact of the multi-billion-dollar pension plan funds to be made available to the provincial governments, the further development of compulsory security provisions on a national scale, of which the new plan no doubt will prove to have been merely a prototype—these are all questions to which only experience will give answers.

What is clear today is that the Liberal government, despite its minority position, has attained a major social objective and fashioned a charter for retirement security which will have a profoundly significant impact on Canadian society. And it is noteworthy that although opposition critics stalled parliamentary action on the measure for months, most of them voted for it when the talking was over and it was time to stand up and be counted.

Let Good Sense Prevail

REGARDLESS OF THE CASE for or against any increase in university tuition fees which local students fear may be imposed, it will be very short-sighted and reckless of them if they decide on any form of protest which will harm the Three Universities Capital Fund campaign.

An increase in fees, if such should take place, may pose a financing problem for many students. But a far greater problem will arise if the current campaign to raise funds for buildings is not successful. It will gain students nothing if through their hostile efforts the building fund drive falls short of its objective, for they will soon be faced with a serious shortage of classroom space.

Students forced on a night shift system or turned away from the university through lack of room will take a poor view of the action of today's students if these have been instrumental in hamstringing the development of the university.

Public goodwill is essential to the existence of the university and the provision of the unprecedented good accommodation enjoyed by students in our times. Whether through its voluntary donations or through tax revenue expended in university building and operational grants, the public is the only major source of university financing. Let the students protest if they will against what they may feel to be injustice, if this should eventuate. But they will be very foolish indeed if they cut off their nose to spite their face.

Preparing for Re-Entry

TRAINING OF SELECTED William Head inmates as forest fire fighters does not mark a radical departure from rehabilitative prison practice, or in forest service work in this province.

For several years past a number of young men completing sentence have been funneled into forest service work crews as they neared the end of their terms. The initial purpose was more to help rehabilitate convicted persons than to secure a labor force but both ends were served.

Extension of the plan to William Head, with modifications, is an encouraging advance in treatment of prisoners. The opportunity to work on the outside, even if such activity is restricted to fire outbreak emergencies, should help the men involved to accustom themselves again to activity in an atmosphere removed from prison routine.

Eventually all these men will be released to return to normal society. The better they are prepared for this change in environment, the stronger the probability that they will be able to pick up the threads of decent living when the time arrives.

If, in the course of this adjustment, they can provide a useful service by protecting British Columbia's forest resources, the community will draw a direct benefit from an enlightened approach to the prisoner.

The Song Whose Paddle Sings?

BRITAIN'S "LIQUID HISTORY", the river Thames, which has borne all manner of craft from the coracle onward, now boasts a Canadian-type six-man-with-steersman canoe.

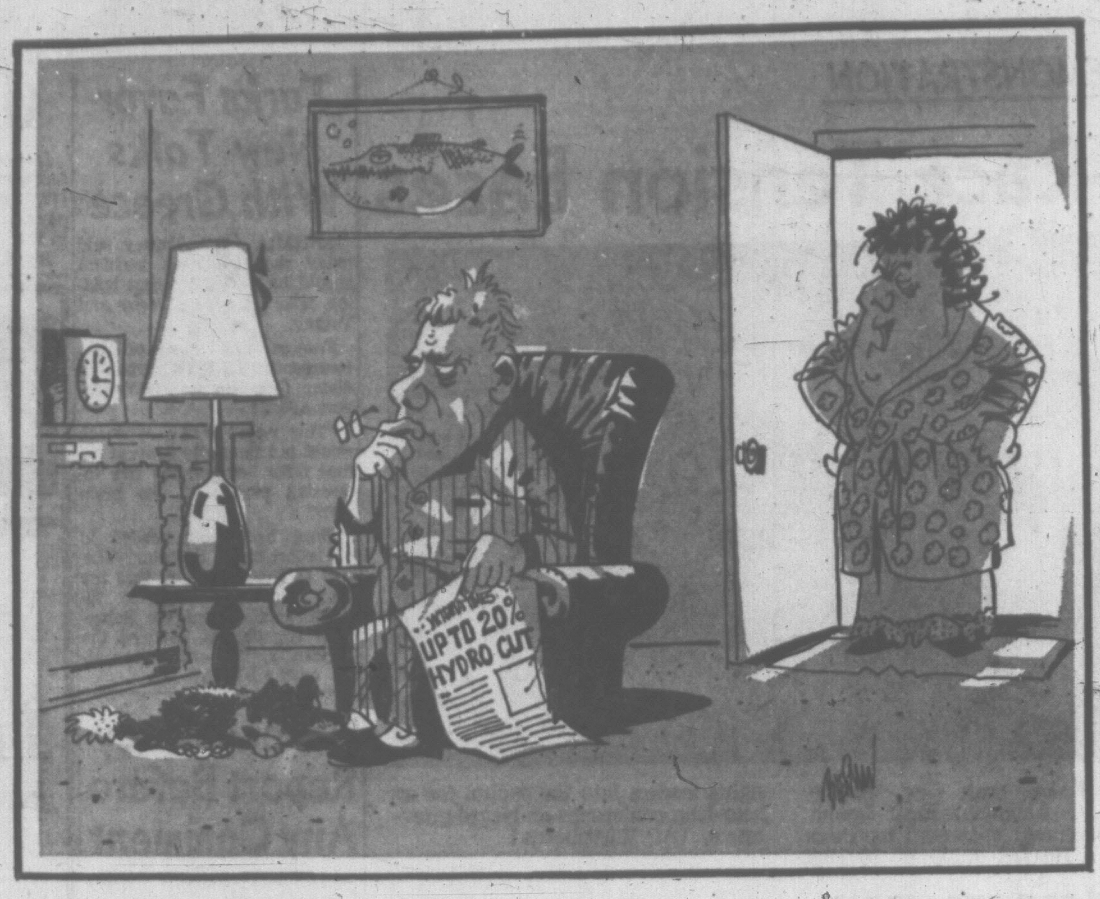

This is the product of a London boatbuilder, constructed to Canadian specifications from West German plans for a group which wants to introduce Canadian-style racing at Twickenham.

This should be encouraging to Canadians — an assertion of their national prestige on one of the most prestigious rivers of the world. But there's a catch.

Canadians used to consider themselves experts with the canoe. They had every reason to. The canoe, probably more than any other form of transportation, extended the nation from sea to sea. Later the railways bound the parts together.

But Canadians haven't been winning any Olympic canoe titles lately.

Maybe we should keep the craft at home. Remember what happened when a bunch of Russians and other Europeans got hold of hockey sticks?

—Bierman, Victoria Daily Times.

"Why don't you just accept it and come to bed . . . maybe there IS no catch to it . . . !"

FROM LONDON

By MARTIN DEWEY

The Old European Love Affair

LIKE a jilted bride, who can't get over her old, painful infatuation, Britain is once again casting wistful glances in the direction of the European Common Market. It is all the fault of General de Gaulle, who made the mistake of saying something mildly pleasant about Anglo-French relations during his news conference on February 4. His casual, innocent reference to the obvious fact that Britain and France are separated by a channel instead of by mountains was enough to set pro-European hearts pounding with renewed ardor. Overnight he-loves-us, he-loves-us-not became a gripping riddle.

Dewey

General de Gaulle had provided a straw, and Britain's Europeans immediately set about building a bridge out of it. First into action were the Conservatives, who waited only four days to let it be known that the party's high-powered policy advisory committee had been charged with the urgent task of reassessing the case for Britain's entry into the Common Market.

Vigorous Supporter

The committee's chairman, not incidentally, is Mr. Edward Heath, leader of the unsuccessful Brussels negotiations of 1962 and one of Conservatism's most vigorous Europeans.

The next day it was announced that Lord Gladwyn, the former ambassador who recently joined the Liberal party, was reactivating his old pressure group, the all-party "Britain in Europe Committee." All that remained was for the Labor party to speak up, and this happened the following day when the foreign secretary, Mr. Michael Stewart, broached the matter at a British businessmen's banquet in Brussels.

Mr. Stewart made it clear that the government still had not felt the full force of the changing winds, for he said nothing to indicate that the Labor party's thinking had changed since 1962 and confined himself to some cranky observations on the dangers of splitting Europe into rival trade blocs and the need to include Britain in any talks about Europe's political future.

Government Pushed

But the government was not to be permitted the luxury of aloofness. On February 14 the opposition leader, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, made it clear that a forceful, pro-European policy was destined to play a key role in his party's bid to return to office.

In his "constellations of power" speech, Sir Alec promised that Britain under a Conservative government would not be relegated to the sidelines while western Europe took its place among the great powers.

The Labor front began to show signs of cracking on March 9 when the foreign secretary addressed the Western European Union at a meeting in Rome. In a speech interpreted by some in Britain as being in effect a new application for entry into the Common Market, Mr. Stewart argued that the Commonwealth connection should no longer be considered an obstacle and said that Britain would be happy to join the community so long as her essential interests were protected.

While this statement was no great departure from Labor's familiar caution, its more positive tone reflected a growing fear that the government would be left standing if the movement towards Europe gained more headway.

If the Conservatives were once again donning their "party of Europe" dress, the least the government could do would be to keep a change of clothes handy in the closet.

What worries the government, obviously, is that a general stampede in the direction of Europe would deprive Britain of her bargaining position. Like the Conservatives, the Labor party sees the handwriting on the wall and realizes that the nation is no longer to go it alone in a world of trading giants.

No Survival Outside

While Mr. Wilson and some of his colleagues would seem to prefer it if Britain were able to participate profitably by some kind of looser trading arrangement — such as the European Free Trade Area or an invigorated Commonwealth trade group — they are apparently willing to concede that there may well be no survival outside Europe.

What the present argument between the two major parties seems to be about, then, is whether Britain should clutch at General de Gaulle's straw or hold out in the hope that future developments — the death of the French president, for one? — will one day permit Britain to join Europe on a more equitable and dignified basis.

Unfortunately for the holdouts, however, this latest battle has hardly been joined. There is evidence that many influential Europeans in both major parties are saving their most powerful ammunition until the end of the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in June. By that time, some of them feel, the conference will have demonstrated for once and for all the folly of banking on an increase in Commonwealth trade as a means of staving off entry into Europe.

Pressure on Wilson

In this event, Mr. Wilson — whose cabinet is already about evenly divided on the question — would be hard put to it to hold the line. Certainly he would not be able to argue his case on the present performance of the economy. The country's inability to maintain its lead in aircraft and computers, its inability to achieve a favorable balance of payments or to support sterling — all these failures fairly cry out for the quick, dramatic remedies offered by a mass market.

Thus a great deal seems to depend on what happens when the assembled prime ministers begin to talk trade. If they are able to come up with something in the way of promising initiatives, Mr. Wilson may just be able to turn the tide. It is a dim hope in view of past prime ministers' conferences, but it may well be the only one.

FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

'Confessions' of Mr. Hays

IT WAS SAID of the late Will Rogers that he was a great actor because he never acted. One might say the same of Mr. Harry Hays, the minister of agriculture who orbits irregularly through Ottawa, reducing his colleagues to panic and the opposition to utter distraction. Mr. Hays, having long since shattered most of the accepted rules of politics, has now described his adventures to a group of understanding Calgary constituents in what he calls "a kind of true confession story." We have apparently arrived at a nice balance; the impact of Mr. Hays upon the national capital being approximately equal to the impact of the national capital upon Mr. Hays. To Ottawa, Mr. Hays is a phenomenon defying explanation; to Mr. Hays, Ottawa is "a very strange land."

Western

Uneasy Shades

There are a number of passages in Mr. Hays' report which may have wider appeal in Pekisko Creek than in most politcal circles. The following verdict on governments, for example, would seem more than sufficient to set whole generations of politicians spinning in their graves.

"Whatever you might think about certain individual Canadians," said Mr. Hays, "you have to admire the Canadian public as a whole. In spite of everything their governments and their oppositions do, they still go on surviving and building a better Canada and sometimes even prospering while they're at it."

Mr. Hays recognizes, of course, that the survival rate is not likely to be high. To succeed, even at backbencher level, he reports, it is necessary to have three qualities, "an iron constitution; a great big, fat ego that can live on its own self-esteem, and a hide as thick as a Brahma bull's after twenty winters." To survive as a cabinet minister, he adds, "you also need a powerful governor on your temper."

No Bowl of Cherries

How many of his cabinet colleagues possess these endearing qualities, Mr. Hays does not indicate.

There may be people, back in Pekisko Creek, who think that life in Ottawa is a bowl of cherries. This is wrong. To begin with, there is the problem of constituents, writing bushels of letters and attempting in bursts of rage, to put through telephone calls collect. But this is the gentle side of a minister's life.

"Where he really gets his lumps is from the opposition in the House of Commons, and from his warm, friendly, helpful, considerate, fellow government supporters at the weekly caucus. The opposition criticize you for everything and, of course, their job is to criticize. But it's a mistake to expect much from your own people either. Most of them figure, at least privately, although sometimes publicly, too, that anything their ministers can do, they could do better, if they only had a chance."

How depraved can people get?

Brighter Side

Fortunately, there is a brighter side to this. "Something else I've learned since getting 'inside' government,' any suggestion that any cabinet is a well-knit conspiracy designed to buffalo the public just won't stand up in the light of experience.

Some cabinets buffalo; some don't; it is unfair to generalize.

Moving from personal experiences to profounder matters, Mr. Hays had something to say about political philosophies and policies. There is a belief in Ottawa that the minister was a Conservative until his entry into federal politics at Mr. Pearson's call. Mr. Hayes' own doubts as to his classification were apparently settled by the verdict of a friend, who described him as a pragmatist. After a suspicious glance at the dictionary, the minister agreed. Indeed, he goes on to say:

Political Labels

"It seems to me that this is what every government has to be when it gets right down to the country's problems. I think that every government that tried to run things any other way has finally run into trouble. So I think we have to be careful when we start throwing political labels around."

This arresting thought has caused Mr. Hays to look with new eyes upon government programs. There is a good deal of talk, "double talk" in his considered opinion, about "free enterprise" and "socialistic legislation." But such terms are simply "old clinkers."

"Personally," he confided, "I don't know what they mean any more when they use words like this. We don't have any herd books or brand registers down in Ottawa, where you can look up the political blood lines of a policy and find out whether it's Liberal or Conservative or Socialistic or Social Credit. As far as I can tell, a government just tries to assess what the problems are and then tries to figure out how to cope with them."

If it were not for treasury board, one's colleagues, the opposition and other Ottawa absurdities, it would be just like Pekisko Creek.

Letters

Incredible

The behaviour of our government in its handling of the bill dealing with the case of G. E. P. Jones constitutes, to my mind, a case of injustice so grave as to be almost incredible.

What concerns me is that this man's honor and reputation have been publicly besmeared without his being given either reasons or an opportunity to defend himself. Neither Mr. Jones, the public nor the opposition in the legislature has the means of judging whether these reasons are just and sufficient.

A totalitarian regime could, no doubt, destroy a man more quickly. Our so-called democratic government takes a little longer, but the end result is much the same.

Another aspect of this affair which I find profoundly disturbing is that, by its refusal to explain the reasons for its actions, the government renders the opposition impotent. — A. Fraser, 356 Sylvia.

Students Protest Firing

The Students' Council of the University of Victoria has directed me to bring to your attention their concern over the dismissal by the Provincial Government of George E. P. Jones as Chief Purchasing Agent for the Province of British Columbia.

At the meeting, Sunday, March 21, the Council passed a motion stating that "the Students' Council of the University of Victoria go on record as opposing his dismissal without a hearing." — Paul Williamson, President, Alma Mater Society.

What's Dirty?

With the events and happenings in Viet Nam so much in evidence, it is quite disturbing to hear the people of the free world lend voices to a common enemy in denouncing one of the most important allies we have. I refer to the constant criticism of our American neighbors, for their actions in Viet Nam. It is very simple and easy, when snug and safe, to heap abuse on those facing the dangers.

In the Times of March 24, appears an article under the heading, "A Rash Mistake," which goes to great length in denouncing the U.S.A. for using gas in their war against the communists in Viet Nam. The main reason for this attitude from our local paper seems to be, as the article states, that the word gas is a dirty word where weaponry is concerned.

Well, Mr. Editor, death is also very disturbing, and war is dirty no matter who fights it, and where. When there is a way to stop an enemy without killing him or doing him permanent harm, I fail to see anything dirty about that. — W. Madrona, 592 Atkins.

Confidence in Youth

The cars parked at a chain store last weekend were offered a 99c wash by young members of a Christian band, calling themselves "Hi-C."

These boys and girls gave up freely their Saturday, working with a will, for money to enable them to make known their Christian endeavour for truth. Those of us who spent 10 minutes to support it, were highly satisfied by this symbol in what we saw. We came away encouraged and convinced that the future can take care of itself with confidence in the unselfishness of the youth of today who are not measuring progress by dollars and cents but by the spiritual rewards which may be theirs hereafter.—Clarence S. Goode.

Puppetry?

Our minister of municipal affairs has said "B.C. municipalities are not creatures of the provincial government." Is it his intention to make them so by introducing Bill 83?

The enthusiasm for public service and pride of achievement of municipal councillors could be so reduced by the proposed legislation, that their status may become no better than puppets mouthing the decisions of others hiding beneath the platform of direct responsibility to our ratepayers.

Capable men and women will think twice before running for civic office where their principle function will be to levy taxes for Mini-Metro, and take the brunt of criticism for expenditures over which they have little or no control.—Denis H. Besley, 4360 Gordon Head Rd.

Killer Whale Project

It has been announced that Dr. Newman is preparing to capture another killer whale. This time some kind of a net is to be used, a tacit admission that the harpooning of the so-called Moby Dick (or Moby Doll!) was an act of gross cruelty.

As it is a known fact that no other alleged scientist has been able to keep a killer whale in captivity for any length of time one wonders if this latest effort is being made at public expense in a genuine effort to establish intelligible contact between killer whales and the man in the street which has been heretofore a very lamentable lack in our system of communications.—Florence G. Barr, 965 Trans-Canada Highway.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Looking Back

From The Times of March 31, 1890:

A report in a New York newspaper says Queen Victoria is seriously considering abdicating. It attributed the story to high officials in London and said the matter was common gossip. It is said the Queen feels her son the Prince of Wales ought to play the leading role for the rest of her life, "which is certain to be short." When she is willing to abdicate, a bill will be introduced into Parliament, said the newspaper.

Arthur Mayse

For most of a year now, we have been entertaining as our guest a domestic shorthair cat of Egyptian elegance. She has a flawless pelt, a tail of extravagant length, and a pretty face dominated by eyes round, yellow and enormous, which stare unblinking through coaxings, endearments, and occasional bursts of language from me, her captive host.

She scorns bottle milk, insisting on the canned variety. This she supplements with a morning draught from the bowl inhabited by my goldfish, Suki. The goldfish likes her. Occasionally he flips up to touch noses.

This super-cat's name is Cleopatra, and she has given us to understand that she is in an interesting condition.

If a pear shape, a large yet finicky appetite and a fondness for napping in unlikely spots are signs of approaching maternity, she is indeed about to become a little mother.

On the other hand, and in spite of my family's indignant rebuttals, I'm halfway convinced the beast is faking. Circumstantial evidence, I point out, should be approached warily.

All I know for sure is that we have—and have had for quite some time now—a fat cat. I'll believe Cleopatra is serious about motherhood when she gets off the dime and shows us kittens in the basket.

★ ★ ★

I am not normally so hard-hearted, but the plain fact is that from the night Ron fetched her home, a drenched and shivering waif in his jacket, she has treated me like a dog.

It isn't just that when I first attempted to tickle under her chin, she sank all four meat-hooks in my leg and bit me.

She used to treat all four of us so; in fact we boasted that we were possessed by the toughest, meanest cat in the city. By degrees, though, she has made friends in her aloof way with everyone else. I'm the standout; my dear ones suggest that she simply likes the way I taste.

Always, I have been scrupulously correct in my dealings with cats. When an overgrown floodlum type with white face and paws began hanging around the place some weeks ago, I scatted him off with nothing heavier than harsh words and a couple of fir cones.

Cleopatra disappeared soon after. For four days we didn't catch a glimpse of her, although Mister White-Face once gave me a go-to-hell stare through the glassless window of Susan's long-disused playhouse.

On the fifth morning, Cleopatra came home, purring. She rubbed affectionately against three sets of ankles, strolled over and bit me, then condescended to eat a tin of chopped tuna and lap up half a can of milk.

It was the last half of the last can in the house, so I took my coffee black, with comments about snooty cats for whom the best was none too good.

Not long after that episode, everyone but me started lining up homes for Cleopatra's anticipated brood.

★ ★ ★

That's how life wags at the moment. When her feline majesty gives me a conversational nip, I'm forbidden to strike back. Three separate maternity boxes have been prepared in strategic spots, one of them lined with a fishing shirt I wasn't half ready to discard.

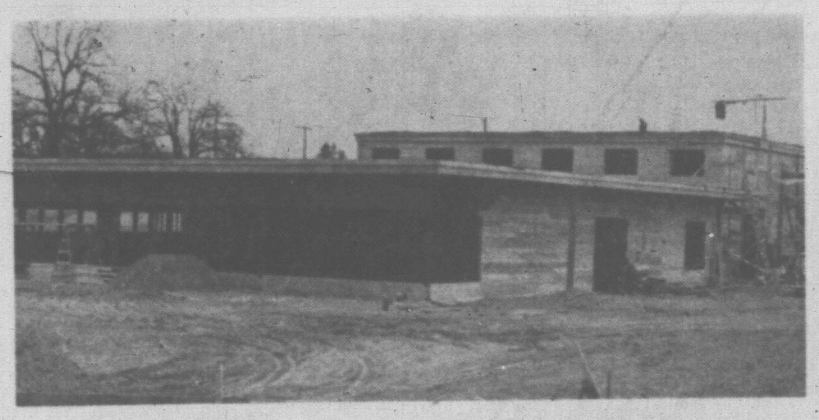

Come to think of it, Cleopatra hasn't bitten me for a couple of days now, at least not with malice, and I'm hopeful she will soon quit mistaking me for an overgrown mouse.

Yesterday evening, too, she emitted only the gentlest of growls when I stroked her glossy back. Later, she tiptoed in from the kitchen and favored me by sharing my pillow.

That last display of dawning affection, if such it is, I can get along very well without. After all, Cleopatra may not be faking!

Building Boom Bowls Right Along

Construction boom in Greater Victoria is shown in progress at three buildings—two in Saanich and one in the city.

Saanich's $700,000 municipal hall (top picture), is rapidly taking shape on Vernon Avenue off the Patricia Bay Highway.

The hall should be completed by late summer when municipal employees will move from their present quarters at Royal Oak.

The Senior Citizens' Recreation Centre at Centennial Square (centre), costing $225,000, will be completed in early May.

New home for Slegg Brothers at Quadra and Reynolds (bottom photo), should be ready in June when the Sidney headquarters will become a branch.

The building, covering 18,000 square feet on a five-acre site, will handle both wholesale and retail lumber and the company's construction business.

Topics of the Day

Government House in Ottawa announced today that George Cowley, 35, of Victoria has been appointed attache to Governor-General Vanier.

Mr. Cowley, the son of the late air vice-marshal A. T. Cowley and Mrs. Marion Cowley of Victoria, is a graduate of the Royal Canadian Naval College, Royal Roads and of McGill University in Montreal.

Barry Cox, 1743 Pembroke, was convicted of dangerous driving on Carey Road March 12 after a trial Tuesday afternoon in Saanich magistrate's court.

Constable John Post testified that Cox admitted when first questioned by police that he had been racing with another car but subsequently denied this.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded Cox to April 19 for sentence.

Serving and retired members of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals and the Royal Signals are invited to attend a memorial service for the Princess Royal in Christ Church Cathedral Sunday at 3 p.m.

A fire of unknown origin did about $3,000 damage Tuesday evening to the home of R. J. Alm, 3020 Devon, and also damaged valuable books and paintings.

Exact total of the loss is not yet determined. Oak Bay Fire Chief William Pearson said the fire started in a closed package of clothes.

He said he will investigate today to try to determine the cause.

Mr. Alm said he discovered the bathroom filled with smoke when he returned home after work. The fire started in the basement.

Ask The Times

Q. Is it illegal or disrespectful to fly a foreign flag below the Canadian flag on the same rope and flag pole? When flying foreign flags, is it correct to fly a larger foreign flag below the Canadian flag or should they be of equal size?

R. J.

A. To begin with, flag etiquette is not clearly defined in Canada—only custom.

It is considered poor etiquette to fly another nation's banner below the Canadian flag.

In wartime, if an enemy vessel is captured, the victor is permitted to fly his flag over that of the vanquished.

It is better etiquette to fly another nation's flag on a separate stave and halyard—and never higher than the Canadian flag.

City Facing Crisis In Social Problems

Results of Study Submitted Tonight

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria has more separate fund appeals than any other city of comparative size—but the social problems they attempt to ease keep growing.

Is a new approach to social planning needed?

Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria is hoping for an answer tonight.

In September last year an independent committee on social planning was formed by the council. Its members were drawn from University of Victoria, Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Victoria Medical Society, Victoria Labour Council, Capital Region Planning Board and the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C. Study the matter and report, it was told.

Chairman S. J. Cunliffe presents the committee report at the annual meeting of the Community Welfare Council tonight at Spencerhouse.

★

Hints to the committee's findings are probably contained in these facts that are worrying the welfare council:

- During the two years 1962-1963 there was a 50 per cent increase in the number of children declared wards of the community.
- In 1963 there was a 50 per cent increase in Family and Children's Service cases of children born out of wedlock—319 cases in one year.
- While the over-all population of boys in the 10-17 age group increased 56.3 per cent (1956 to 1963) the number of delinquent boys increased 74.4 per cent.
- The number of boys charged with traffic offences jumped by 68 per cent. Other offences jumped 85 per cent.
- In 1963 one out of every 264 boys in Greater Victoria was sent to industrial school while the urban average in B.C. was one in 290.

★

The committee also learned that Greater Victoria's rapid rate of growth is changing former patterns. The number of elderly persons is declining slightly and the number of persons aged under 19 is increasing.

Greater Victoria still has twice as many people aged over 65 than Canada generally, per thousand of population, but the percentage of elderly in Saanich is reduced. Victoria has 21 per cent, greatly adding to need for special services.

The welfare council told the committee, "The present pattern of health, welfare and recreational services can be described only as a hodge podge."

Given as reasons were different boundaries of operations for various welfare agencies and government departments, duplication of services and a lack of policy as to which agency should offer certain services, and how financing should be set.

The committee learned that there are "glaring inadequacies" in current services—particularly mental health care for children and home care services for the ill.

★

Victoria has no complete assessment of its needs or its resources to meet these needs, the committee was told.

It also was told that several recent provincial acts have forced more responsibility for services on the municipalities.

And the terms of reference pointed out, "In spite of the fact that the Community Chest (United Appeal) has taken into membership eight additional agencies in the past eight years, there still exists no little confusion and competition in annual "charitable" and "health" appeals and a probably more serious chaotic situation exists in the area of capital campaigns.

"Greater Victoria has more separate appeals than any other Canadian city of comparable size."

The committee also was asked to study the fact that "all taxing and fund-raising authorities are finding it continually more difficult to obtain adequate financing for existing services in the face of increasing demands on these services.

"But to date, no attempt has been made by anyone to make a comprehensive review of our needs and resources or to establish any logical system of priorities."

★

Will the committee report make firm recommendations for decisive moves to counteract these trends—or will it merely recommend new committees and new studies?

Will the various municipal councils and the provincial government accept whatever recommendations are put forward, and act on them — or will the report be pigeon-holed and the committee frustrated.

Two years ago the Community Welfare Council had prepared a report on recreation needs for this district.

Copies were sent to all municipalities and the recommendations were highly publicized. Esquimalt passed a bylaw establishing its own recreation council, but an intermunicipal committee tabled the report.

Victoria included a Senior Citizens' Recreation Centre in Centennial Square plans. Oak Bay voters rejected a similar project. No Greater Victoria recreation commission evolved, nor was the welfare council given authority or funds to undertake district-wide improvements.

What will happen this time?

FRENCH SCHOLARSHIPS OPEN TO LOWER ISLAND STUDENTS

Lower Vancouver Island high school students have a chance to win scholarships to attend a conversational French language course at the University of Victoria this summer.

On April 10 the department of modern languages will administer an oral French test to select the winners of six $50 scholarships for students who wish to attend La Maison Francaise in July.

The awards are presented by the French Film Committee and are available to students of French 20, 91 and 92 of the public and independent schools in Greater Victoria and lower Island.

TILIKUM CAMPAIGN

Hundred Sign Boat Petition

Tilikum's outspoken defender, G. R. "Rebel" Mowat reports 100 people signed his petition Tuesday as soon as he drew it up

He is petitioning City Council to maintain the 105-year-old dugout as a free public attraction.

He hopes to send his petition to council Monday.

"This is a serious concern," he said. "Charging an admission to see Tilikum is a violation of a trust.

"And even if it were not, it is a sorry thing to see our finest attractions placed out of the easy view of the public and to require visitors to our city to pay a fee to see them.

"Soon they'll ask to cover up our gardens or put a turnstile on our parks," he said.

Tilikum, at the turn of the century, was sailed across three oceans by a Victorian, John Voss. In 1930 his abandoned vessel was donated to Victoria by a London yacht club. Until two weeks ago it was openly displayed outside Crystal Garden then at Thunderbird Park.

Now, after 35 years, it has been acquired by the new Maritime Museum where people will pay to see it.

Mr. Mowat says it was given to Victoria on condition it be displayed forever without charge. If it must go indoors for preservation, he wants it located in the proposed new B.C. Centennial Museum, to be built on Belleville Street.

"I've had no trouble at all in getting public support," says Mr. Mowat. He even has volunteers to help him collect signatures.

Two Charged After Large Drug Seizure

RCMP seized a large quantity of narcotics and arrested two men in Victoria Tuesday.

The men appeared in city court this morning charged with unlawful possession of drugs.

They are Norman Bradley, a Victoria man now living in Prince George, and Robert Paul of Vancouver.

Crown prosecutor Rodney Taylor said: "In view of the amount of narcotics seized the authorities are considering laying a more serious charge."

Bradley elected trial by judge and Paul elected trial by magistrate. Bradley was remanded one week to fix a date for the preliminary hearing of the charge and Paul was remanded one week for plea.

Mr. Taylor said bail should be substantial for both men. Magistrate William Ostler fixed bail at $2,500 for Bradley and at $1,500 for Paul.

RCMP refused to disclose how large a quantity of drugs was seized or its value. A spokesman said the narcotics, identified in court as pethidene hydrochloride, is being analyzed.

Whalers Off For the Hunt On W. Coast

Four sturdy vessels with a mixed crew totalling 72 men sailed from Vancouver this week bound for the west coast of Vancouver Island and the start of the 1965 whaling season opening Thursday.

The whalers, Westwhales 5, 6, 7 and 8, are all owned by Western Canada Whaling Company. A fifth ship, the Westwhale 4, is already off the west coast.

Included among the crew members are Japanese, Norwegians and 14 Newfoundlanders, flown out for the season.

Each man has signed on for the six-month season, with their basic wages to be augmented by a bonus for each whale caught. The bonus varies from $33 to $110 per mammal, depending on the size and type caught.

NO QUOTA

Although the International Whaling Commission is expected to shortly make recommendations for conservation measures limiting the catch, there is as yet no quota on the number of whales which can be caught off the coast of British Columbia.

Last season 880 whales were caught and processed at the Coal Harbor whaling station on Quatsino Sound on northern Vancouver Island, from where meat and oil is sent to markets, mostly in Japan.

METROPOLITAN UNITED

Church Rite to Mark Sally Ann's 100th

The Salvation Army will join with Metropolitan United Church next Sunday in celebrating the army's 100th birthday.

Morning and evening services in the church will actually mark the birthday of General William Booth, who founded the Salvation Army in April, 1865.

Capt. Don McMillan, leader of the Victoria Citadel at 757 Pandora Avenue, will preach at the 11 a.m. service in Metropolitan and the Citadel Band will play with the church choir at the evening service.

"These services will culminate the first 100 days of our centenary year," Capt. McMillan said, "and we are happy to share them with a downtown church."

Capt. McMillan recalled that General William Booth was born at Nottingham, Eng., on April 10, 1829. The son of a builder, he became a revivalist preacher at the age of 15.

In 1864 he went to London and conducted services in tents and on street corners. One day he said to his son, Bramwell:

"I wish I had a volunteer army to preach the gospel all over the world."

In 1865 he formed what was called the Volunteer Army and, with a handful of supporters, held services all over London. This organization was renamed the Salvation Army in 1878.

"We now have 16,659 citadels all over the world" Capt. McMillan said, "and our work is carried on by 25,474 officers and thousands of volunteers.

Strike Vote Next Week

Government-supervised strike votes will be taken next week among more than 2,600 truck drivers, warehousemen and swampers in B.C.

The move follows overwhelming rejection of conciliation recommendations by members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

About 150 men working for five companies are affected in Victoria.

Final results are not expected to be announced until the following week because some truckers live in the interior.

Stars Flicker Out For Hotels, Motels

The star rating system for hotels and motels in B.C. will soon be a thing of the past.

Members of the Provincial Tourist Advisory Council representing hotel, motel and resort owners from all over the province, decided this morning that the star system has outlived its usefulness.

SEAL

In its place will be a government seal of approval in the form of a decal to be placed in a prominent place.

Annual inspections of all hotels and motels will still take place with only those meeting minimum standards of courtesy, comfort and cleanliness granted the seal and a place in "The Green Book" and official publication listing all approved accommodation.

The decision was reached at the spring meeting of the council held in the Empress Hotel this morning.

Uvic Professor Awarded Grant For Research

A University of Victoria professor has been awarded a $6,000 Defence Research Board grant.

Prof. Harry W. Dosso, an assistant professor in the physics department, was given the award to continue his research into the earth's magnetic field as related to the structure of the surface.

Prof. Dosso will continue his research at the University of Victoria.
